President, Macmillan To Confer

Bermuda Meeting Set Dec. 21-22

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will meet in Bermuda Dec. 21 and 22 to outline final strategy for possible Berlin negotiations with the Soviet Union.

The White House announced plans for the conference late Monday.

To Cover Other Topics

In addition to their policy talks on Berlin, Kennedy and Macmillan are expected to discuss disarmament negotiations and a course for an agreement to end nuclear weapons testing under an international inspection system. They may issue some new call for cooperation by the Soviet Union to bring the nuclear race under control.

Diplomatic informants in London said Kennedy and Macmillan also were expected to discuss the negotiations now in progress to bring Britain into the European Common Market, ways of tightening Western defenses and the probable meaning of the recent Communist party congress in Moscow and the new de-Stalinization wave it launched.

U. S. Hopes Jolted

Administration hopes for steady progress toward East-West negotiations on Berlin received a setback over the weekend with blunt Communist rejection of Kennedy's suggestion last week for international control of the access routes to West Berlin across East Germany.

Apparently Kennedy aides had expected a more positive or encouraging response. The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia which published an interview with the President last week said the idea of putting the supply lines to West Berlin under international administration was "doomed to failure."

No Emergency

Walter Ulbricht, Communist party chief in East Germany, also threw down the suggestion. The Soviet and East German claim is that the United States, Britain, France and West Germany will have to deal with the East German regime to secure their routes to Berlin.

Officials here said that there was no emergency in the Kennedy-Macmillan decision to meet in Bermuda. The White House announcement and the parallel announcement at London said simply that the two leaders felt it would be useful to have an informal discussion of the international situation.

The official statements also linked the Bermuda conference with "the series of bilateral meetings which are now taking place between the heads of some of the Western governments."

Africans Leaving Capital

To Fight, Defend Province: Kimba

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP) — Widespread fighting broke out between U.N. forces and President Moise Tshombe's Katanga troops in Elisabethville today. Many people fled the city in panic.

Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba, ranking Katanga official in the absence of Tshombe, charged the United Nations started the shooting and declared, "Katanga will fight and defend itself."

Nine Wounded

He listed nine wounded so far on Katanga's side but said he did not know the extent of U.N. casualties.

The sound of mortar and other firing from several directions started a panic exodus from this capital of secessionist Katanga Province.

Contrary to U.N. reports that all Katanga ministers also had fled, Kimba held a news conference with all ministers present.

Sneak Attack Bared

Just before shooting started, Brian Urquhart, special U.N. adviser, charged a Katanga battle plan for a sneak attack had been uncovered and that fighting was inevitable.

Resenting a new U.N. resolution calling illegal Katanga's secession from the Congo's central government, the Katangans Monday threw up roadblocks to the airport, vital for supplying U.N. forces.

Contrary to the spirit of an agreement that appeared to have eased tension over the barricades, Urquhart said Katanga troops had been discovered advancing through thick bush toward the U.N.-held airport. He charged this was a "final act of bad faith."

Shelling Cuts Link

Mortar fire and other heavy firing were heard outside the telegraph office, near U.N. headquarters, in the direction of the airport seven miles outside the city and elsewhere.

The Elisabethville radio antenna was damaged by shelling, halting communications with the outside world for a short time.

The firing later stopped and Elisabethville showed signs of slowly coming back to life again after the first shock of the afternoon fighting.

The fighting was the second round of hostilities between U.N. and Katanga forces.

On Sept. 13, U.N. forces moved into Elisabethville and occupied several important points in an effort to rid the secessionist province of foreign mercenaries alleged to be undermining efforts to bring Katanga back under the wings of the central government in Leopoldville.

Relations Worsened

The fighting ended in a ceasefire agreement after U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold lost his life in an airplane crash en route to truce talks. But intermittent clashes continued.

Relations under the truce worsened after Tshombe made his "poisoned arrow" speech in response to new U.N. Security Council orders to the U.N. Command to use force if necessary to remove the mercenaries. The resolution declared Katanga's succession illegal.

Astronaut in 'Ready Room'

U. S. Presses Plans For Orbiting of Man

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The United States pressed ahead today toward its goal of orbiting a man around the world this year. Scientists, engineers and technicians worked round the clock and astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., the chosen pilot, began extensive preparation in a "ready room" not far from the launching pad.

If all goes right, the attempt could be made as early as Dec. 20. Technical problems could delay the launching, and major trouble could push it into 1962.

Glenn moved Monday into special quarters on the Cape so he could be near all key centers of Project Mercury operations.

Not far away are the launching pad where the huge Atlas booster rocket was erected Saturday; the hangar where Glenn's spacecraft is undergoing thorough checkout, the Mercury control center, nerve center of the operation, and a ground-based capsule where he can run through simulated flights of his projected three times around the world mission.

The "ready room" is the same Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil I. Grissom for a few days before their 15-minute suborbital flights earlier this year.

Demanding Assignment

With a more demanding assignment before him, Glenn, 40, a Marine lieutenant colonel, entered the quarters early to prepare for the flight. He will undergo periodic physical and psychological examinations, bone up on space roadmaps so stars and ground features will be readily recognized when he looks out of his spaceship as it zips around the world at 17,500 miles an hour, and he will hold numerous consultations on progress of the missile and capsule.

Glenn will live in the quarters most of the time until launching. But he will be able to leave the Cape when his training does not restrict him. His wife, Anna, their two children will remain at their home in Arlington, Va.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has not announced that manned orbit will be tried this year. But it is known officicials want to achieve it in 1961, the same year as the Soviet Union.

C-H Is Among 44 Utilities Filing Price-Rig Suits

Seek Triple Damages

The utilities charge price-rigging among the manufacturers and seek triple damages. The exact amount sought, the suits say, will be specified after further investigation. Estimates of the claims have ranged from $100 million to billions.

Chief defendants in the suits filed Monday are the General Electric Co. and the Westinghouse Electric Corp., each named in 11 suits, and the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co., named in nine.

Both GE and Westinghouse declared they believed their customers had received fair value for the prices paid.

Allis-Chalmers, located in West Allis, Wis., withheld comment.

All the defendants were among the 29 manufacturers which, along with 45 of their top executives, were fined $1.9 million in Philadelphia U.S. District Court last February. Seven jail terms and 25 suspended sentences were imposed.

GE and Westinghouse and their executives suffered almost half of the fines imposed at that time.

The plaintiff companies cover northeastern states west to Indiana and south to Virginia and represent about 18 per cent of the nation's privately owned utilities.

Charge Conspiracies

They seek damages for overcharging which they say resulted from the conspiracies. Products involved include steam turbine

Police Order 4 Autos for $6,995 Bid

Contract for the sale of three sedans and a station wagon to the City for use by the police department was awarded Monday night at a special meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners to Bob Nadler Inc., the lowest of four bidders.

Police Chief Robert F. Murphy, commission secretary, said Nadler's bid was $6,995. Other bidders and estimates were—Chait Ford Inc., Kerhonkson, $7,695; J. H. Byrne Chevrolet Corp., $7,919; Parsons of Kingston Inc., $8,103.87.

Waiting for Budget

The chief stated the station wagon will be used as an emergency vehicle for the police department. He explained that the cost of the new vehicles will be included in the 1962 proposed budget for the department and that the order for the cars will not be placed until the budget is adopted by the Common Council.

The commission had called for bids for four new cars and another bid for rental of seven cars to the city for use by the police department.

Bob Nadler Inc. submitted the only bid for rentals. It was reported the firm's bid was $150 a month for each car on a two-year basis, and $250 a month for each car on a one year basis.

Vote for Purchase

Commissioners decided the rental of seven cars would be too high and voted to purchase three new cars and a station wagon. Two 1959 Plymouths and two 1960 Chevrolets will be turned in at the time of the delivery of the four new vehicles, Chief Murphy said.

Attending last night's meeting of the commission were: Mayor Edwin F. Radel, president; Chief Murphy, secretary; Commissioners Henry P. Eighmey, Dr. William Dean, Joseph F. Policano and the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool.

Governor's Brother Out of Hospital

Laurance, 51, chairman of the board of Rockefeller Center, returned to New York City.

He was stricken Saturday shortly after he and his wife had arrived with the governor at the Executive Mansion.

Woman Stabs Hanratty St. Man at Home

A 64-year-old Kingston man was in serious condition today at Kingston Hospital, suffering stab wounds of the chest and leg, which police said were inflicted by a 37-year-old woman who lived with him.

Police Chief Robert F. Murphy, who directed investigation of the stabbing reported to authorities at 6:12 p. m. Monday, said Joseph Mazzuca, of 55 Hanratty Street, was stabbed by Rose Felice, of that address.

Is Outpatient

The woman was described by police officials as an outpatient from Middletown State Hospital.

A neighbor of Mazzuca telephoned police last night, reporting a woman had just stabbed her husband at the Hanratty Street address. Fatum's ambulance was dispatched to the scene and Mazzuca was rushed to the hospital.

Chief Murphy said the woman used a kitchen knife and stabbed Mazzuca in the chest and leg.

Returned to Hospital

A physician later examined the woman and signed papers returning her to the Middletown State Hospital.

Chief Murphy said no charges will be lodged against the woman pending release from the hospital. Meanwhile investigation will be continued by police.

Assisting in the investigation with Chief Murphy were Lieutenant Lemuel Howard, Sergeant Julius Glassman, Detective William Slover, Acting Detective Wilmont Hall and Patrolmen Sheldon O'Rourke, Francis Buchanan, Frank Kenelly Jr., and James Amato.

Governor Stresses School Shelters

Persons Should Remain If Nuclear Blast Hits

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller reversed today the state's civil defense policy by declaring persons should take shelter where they were rather than going home at the warning of a nuclear attack.

The governor said the change was designed to bring the state's policy in line with his program to encourage fallout protection in schools, homes and places of work.

The policy change, he said, also "is based on the fact that the maximum warning time is only 15 minutes in the event of an enemy nuclear attack."

Rockefeller's program, which had been approved last month at a special session of the State Legislature included state aid for shelters at schools.

The policy declared today calls for fallout protection to be "readily available to individuals wherever they may be at the time of warning of nuclear attack," Rockefeller said.

Rockefeller said protection should be available in homes, apartment houses, institutions and community shelters, at schools and colleges and at places of work, including public and private office buildings, factories and stores.

He said the state, to encourage shelter construction, would build and equip three demonstration fallout shelters in public schools.

The schools chosen probably will be somewhere in New York City, Long Island and Upstate, a spokesman for the governor said.

The sites will be selected with the cooperation of the education department.

Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr., also has been designated by the State Civil Defense Commission to certify plans for fallout shelters in schools.

Allen, however, said at a recent news conference he would recommend that the "go-home" policy be continued.

warned that "should a nuclear at-

Rockefeller, in his statement, warned that "should a nuclear attack accur, this heavily industrialized and..urbanized state....would face survival problems as acute as any in the nation."

The governor originally proposed mandatory construction of fallout shelters in homes and buildings throughout the state. This was turned down by the leaders of the Legislature.

He later dvocated a program of protection for property owners who constructed fallout shelters against tax-increases and fraud.

Peiping Threatens Invasion of India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Communist China has threatened to invade India's northeast frontier if India does not halt military activity in border territories more than 1,000 miles to the northwest, Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament today.

"Obviously," Nehru told a questioner, "if that is done, we shall resist and repel it."

Nehru said Peiping in a letter received Dec. 2 complained that India was "stepping up military positions and building new posts" in the disputed Ladakh area of Kashmir and also in such areas as Bara Hoti, in Uttar Pradesh State, west of the Tibetan border.

He said the Chinese hinted that "if our military activities are not stopped, they may have to take action by sending troops south of the McMahon Line."

The British-drawn McMahon Line has been the boundary between India's Assam State and Tibet—running from Bhutan east to the Burmese border—since 1903 but the Red Chinese have been claiming 39,000 square miles south of the line. Except for a single Chinese outpost, however, there have been no official reports of Chinese expansion south of the line.

The Reds already have occupied 12,000 square miles claimed by India in Ladakh, and the latest Peiping letter was in reply to an Indian protest that the Communists had pushed their posts even farther into Indian-claimed territory.

Author Is Critical Of Education Field

Teaching methods, tests and measurements, curriculum and testbooks were the main topics of criticism of the nation's schools by Martin Mayer, noted author, last night at a meeting of more than 200 educators in this area held at the State University College, New Paltz.

Speaking at the annual fall and general meeting of the Mid-Hudson School Study Council, representing some 45 school systems in this area, Mayer told school board members, administrators and teachers what he thought was wrong with the educational system.

In criticizing the test and measurement methods, Mayer expressed the opinion that there is a difference between counting and measuring and that educational research has not gone beyond the counting stage. "Advertising research," he said, "is 40 times better than educational research."

His criticism of teaching methods pointed out that in every area of learning there are ways of presenting material which either help or block further learning. He agreed that teaching methods grow out of the material, and he emphasized that "teachers must be interested in what they are teaching," if they are to do an effective job.

One of his main criticisms of the curriculum was that related subjects are taught as separate subjects. "There should be no separation of physics from chemistry," he said, "and geometry and algebra should not be taught as separate subjects as they have been for years." He pointed out, however, that advances have been made in science and mathematics during the past few years. "These people are taking it seriously," he said, and he predicted that in a few years "we will be turning out elementary students who know as much about mathematics as high school students know today."

Mayer was also critical of the system of text book publishing, and he branded as "scandalous" some of the publicity methods used in the past. He indicated that bribery had not been uncommon in adopting particular text books.

Following Mayer's talk, a

Kennedys to Tour Venezuela, Columbia December 16 and 17

WASHINGTON (AP) —President and Mrs. Kennedy will visit Venezuela and Colombia Dec. 16 and 17 to dramatize the Alliance for Progress program for social and economic development of the Western Hemisphere.

The White House announced the trip — long expected—and said Kennedy "hopes to visit other parts of Latin America in the future."

There was no elaboration as to how soon in the future such a visit might occur or what countries might be visited.

On the flying expedition to Caracas and Bogota, Kennedy will take part in the dedication of low-cost housing, primary education and rural community improvement projects begun under the Alliance for Progress which he outlined as a major 10-year goal for the United States during his presidential campaign.

"The purpose of the visit," the White House said, "is to dramatize and spotlight the cooperative effort being made by the United States and the republics of South America to accelerate the economic and social development of the Western Hemisphere."

The trip will cover four days.

Kennedy will fly from Washington to San Juan, Puerto Rico, on Friday, Dec. 15.

He will spend the night as a guest of Gov. Luis Munoz Marin.

Kennedy will leave San Juan Saturday, Dec. 16 for Caracas and spend Saturday night in the Venezuelan capital then take off Sunday morning for Bogota.

Sunday night will be spent in Bogota, with departure for Washington scheduled for Monday morning.

Kennedy has a conference with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan set for Dec. 21 and 22 in Bermuda. This is to cover cold war problems, with emphasis on the Berlin situation.

Situation Normal Along Wall

Reds Withdraw Troops After Completing Work

BERLIN (AP) —The situation was normal along the Berlin wall again today after completion of formidable new Communist fortifications at the seven crossing points between West and East Berlin.

The East Germans finished work on new walls and tank obstacles at the checkpoints before nightfall and withdrew hundreds of troops that had guarded the 2,500 workmen.

A platoon of 30 U.S. infantrymen, who had faced several hundred East German soldiers, police and factory militia 15 yards away at the Friedrichstrasse crossing point, were withdrawn after the Reds marched off.

This morning it was quiet at Friedrichstrasse and the other crossing points. The situation had returned to normal "if you can call it normal at all," a policeman said.

A U.S. battle group of 1,500 men moved toward tense Berlin to replace another battle group rushed here after the border closure Aug. 13.

Both units will travel across the autobahn, connecting West Berlin with West Germany and crossing 110 miles of Red-ruled territory. The Soviet news agency Tass has called the recent U.S. troop shuttles back and forth along the autobahn provacations "fraught with dangerous consequences." The Russians have not interfered with the traffic.

The spearhead of the battle group moving into Berlin is expected to cross East Germany Wednesday.

Their convictions stemmed from a state-ordered investigation of vice and crime in Utica and Oneida County.

Highlights of the survey, supervised by the American Newspaper Publishers Association, are shown in the chart above. The survey covered 4,826 interviews with persons 15 years and up in 622 different places. Other figures: 72 per cent of the country's teen-agers (15 to 20) read a newspaper on any given day; for adults, it is 88 per cent. Interestingly, 49 per cent of those interviewed said they would "feel quite lost" without a newspaper; only 28 per cent felt that way about television. $339,000 Saving Seen for N.Y. in New Bid Policy

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state's new policy of rejecting identical bids on state contracts will save the state an estimated $339,000 next year on purchases of rock salt, the state comptroller said today.

Comptroller Arthur Levitt also disclosed that, for the first time in recent years, no tie bids were received on purchases of the salt, which is used on highways.

International Salt of Buffalo and Highway Materials Co. of South Lansing, Tompkins County, submitted different bids this year. The comptroller's office said the two companies had submitted identical bids on at least two previous occasions. This year, each submitted the lower bid in some instances. Thus, each obtained some of the business.

Levitt said the anticipated savings for next year was the difference between the lowest bid submitted in October, compared with that of a contract awarded last March, assuming the same quantity of salt will be used next year.

"Industrial cost conditions have not changed since March, and the quality is consistent with the previous contract," Levitt said in a statement. He attributed the difference to open competitive bidding.

Troy Schools Are To Drop Jewish Days Observance

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — The practice of observing Jewish holidays in plays and pageants no longer will be followed in Troy public schools, by request of Jewish representatives.

"We feel that religious services do not belong in the public school system," an official of a Jewish organization said today.

The Board of Education agreed Monday night to a request of the Troy Jewish Community Council that observance of such holidays as Chanukah be discontinued in the schools. The council said in a petition that religious observances in public schools were contrary to the constitutional guarantee of separation of church and state.

Dudley Van Arnam, school superintendent, said the decision would not interfere with traditional Christmas programs presented in the schools.

Children will be excused from participation if the programs conflict with their religious beliefs, he said.

Charles Cohen, chairman of the Jewish council's community relations committee, said that, in particular, the meaning of Chanukah had been portrayed in plays at School 18, which has a large Jewish enrollment.

Chanukah, a festive holiday, is observed by Jews for eight days, generally in December. It commemorates the heroism of the ancient Maccabees in their fight for religious freedom.

A school board member estimated that 40 per cent of the 600 pupils at School 18 were Jewish.

Newberry Store Here Has Part in Yule Cash Plan

Employes of the Kingston Newberry store have participated in the distribution of $600,000 in cash Christmas gifts which have been given to employes in the 560 Newberry stores throughout the United States.

E. L. Davey, manager of the Kingston store, today disclosed that Kingston employes had participated in the company's long established policy of giving employes cash gifts at the Christmas season.

Newberry Company has 560 stores throughout the country, several warehouses and six district offices where employes participate in the total of $600,000. The amount to each employe depends on length of service.

Davey also pointed out that Newberry's has in force a retirement plan, as employes become eligible, paid for by the company up to the first $2,000 of annual earnings, and by an employe-company participation plan on earnings exceeding $2,000. In addition Newberry's provides all its eligible employes with company paid life insurance policies and shares in the cost of them of sickness, hospital expenses and surgical benefits insurance.

He also explained that Newberry empolyes have a stock option purchase plan through which several thousand employes have become owners of their company's capital stock, and a discount on company purchases at their stores.

General Electric Would Lower Trade Barriers

NEW YORK (AP) — General Electric Co., world's largest electrical goods manufacturer, today took a qualified position in favor of lowering barriers against international trade.

"We do not think that protective tariffs are the best solution (to the trade problem)," Ralph J. Cordiner, GE chairman, said in remarks prepared for his annual news conference.

Others Would Follow

But, Cordiner added:

If the United States reduces its tariffs protection, other nations must also reduce their trade barriers on the same commodities so that the Atlantic community can in fact move toward the eventual development of a great common market.

"Then the government must make it possible for U.S. industry to compete more effectively with overseas producers."

In GE's first policy statement on the subject, much debated recently, Cordiner said this should be done by government adoption of policies that will resist inflation, encourage productivity and thus reduce costs of making and selling U.S. products.

Review Activities

In a review of GE activities, the executive said 1961 promised to prove the company's peak year in orders received for exports.

He said business has been good in equipments for steelmaking, power generation, railroad transportation and oil recovery.

Although overall GE earnings for the first nine months trailed the like 1960 period, Cordiner said the trend has shown a steady improvement by quarters—the result of a rising sales volume and stringent cost controls.

He declined to make any predictions on sales or earnings for the full year.

Cordiner also declined to estimate the impact of damage suits brought against GE in the wake of price-fixing convictions involving heavy electric equipment, saying it was "too early."

Forty-four more electric utility concerns went to court Monday seeking triple damages for what they contended were excessive charges for equipment stemming from admitted rigging of bids by GE and 21 other electrical equipment makers. No amounts were specified.

Troopers Recover Missing Show Dog

A Blue Merle coolie, well-known show dog, holder of many ribbons and medals and valued at over $1,000 was returned by state police today to Tokalon Kennels at West Hurley following a four-hour search of the area.

Trooper David Wachtel said Mrs. Robert Browning, owner of the kennels reported the dog missing early this morning and told troopers she feared the dog may have been stolen during the early morning hours. She said she heard noises and barking at about 1 a. m. in the kennels and this may have been about the time the dog might have been taken. Mrs. Browning told troopers an attempt to steal the dog may have failed when the show dog broke loose.

During the investigation Trooper Wachtel said Mrs. Margaret Vizvary of Hurley Ridge reported that a dog fitting the description of the missing canine was seen in the vicinity of her home.

Trooper Wachtel and Mrs. Browning searched the area and found the dog nearby.

Major Step Is Vowed to Unify World Churches

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—In a major stride toward its goal of worldwide unity of churches, the General Assembly of the World Council of Churches Monday night pledged to work for interlocking church communities rather than a single ecclesiastical organization of all Christians.

The 9,000-word document set forth conditions and relationships the council regards as the goal of church unity and emphasized that "unity does not imply simple uniformity of organization, rite or expression."

It proposed instead a system of interlocking communities on the local, national and international level with mutual recognition of ministries, members and joint participation in the Lord's Supper.

Approval by the 600 delegates —representing the council's 198 Protestant, Orthodox, Old Catholic and other denominations— marked the first time that the world church body has spelled out its thoughts on the pathways to church unity.

The guide outlined various steps for the settlement of problems which post obstacles —including mutual study, baptism, ordination and communion —but it admitted that "we are not yet of a common mind" on "the means of achieving the goal we have described."

Stock learned that for at least a couple of days Blake had been frying hamburgers and cheeseburgers, wrapping them, and delivering them to the other prisoners at 35 to 50 cents each.

Blake has now been moved back to a cell—away from the kitchen.

Oak Tree Must Go

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) —Mrs Lester Becker has lost her fight to preserve a large oak tree in front of her home.

The Rockford City Council Monday night voted approval for removal of the tree so a contractor could move a house to a lot beyond Mrs. Becker's home.

Moving the house of Steve Bergeron was halted last Friday when Mrs. Becker refused to allow workmen to cut down the tree. Then she complained to city officials. They said that the tree was in the area between the sidewalk and the street, which they said was city property.

Minks Go Fast

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) —There wasn't a person looking when a thief made off with an estimated $15,000 worth of mink stoles during business hours at a suburban department store Monday.

Action Assails Women Barbers

ST. LOUIS (AP) —A circuit court petition filed Monday declares the public health and welfare will be "irreparably and adversely affected," if something isn't done to halt female barbers in a downtown hotel's shop.

The action was filed by Atty. Gen. Thomas F. Eagleton.

Legal forces in the city and state are attempting to prevent Miss Margaret McNeil and her female assistants at the Mayfair Hotel barber shop from presenting themselves to the public as licenses or qualified barbers.

Miss McNeil, who operates the shop, is seeking court sanction of the female barbers, who all are licensed cosmetologists. She claims that as cosmetologists they are entitled to cut a man' hair.

LOTS OF MODERNIZATION

From present indications, increases to industrial plants in the United States may be in for a slowdown. This can be concluded from the Wall Street Journal's recent survey of the capital outlay planned by industry for 1962.

Not that capital expenditures will decline. On the contrary, 10 per cent more will be spent this year than last. But a high percentage of these funds will go for modernization and improvement of facilities already in being.

Expansion of productive capacity as such appears to be far down on the list. This seems to be because few companies find themselves in the enviable position of having consumer demand in excess of supply. This condition prevailed during most of the 50s, but it is rare now. Steel is a good example (or bad, from the viewpoint of stockholders) of this condition of over-capacity. With facilities sufficient to produce 150 million tons annually, the industry estimates that it will use but half of that next year.

It should not be assumed from this report that American industry is ignoring the future. Far from it. Plans for expansion are quite often wrapped in the word, "modernization." This, incidentally, is a much less provocative term than that other about which there is such sensitivity, "automation."

However one says it, modernization or automation, this revamping may be carried on within existing structure to provide for both today's needs and those of the next decade. In this way industry may kill two birds with one stone—and no one need worry that one of them is the goose that lays the golden eggs.

Supermarket chains may sell their own brands of cigarettes. This should appeal to chain smokers.

THE VANISHING ATTRIBUTE

It's a commonplace to say that Americans like underdogs, in everything from sports to politics.

Do they really? Some elements of the sporting public have always been notoriously fickle. But in recent years increasing numbers of sports viewers seem to be insisting on having a winner at all costs. The loser—and his coach—are quick to feel verbal and occasionally even physical abuse.

The Michigan State football coach, Duffy Daugherty, whose team played a rugged 1961 schedule, properly tore into critics who stormed at him and his players for "merely" winning seven of nine games played.

Dare we ask to examine the week-to-week performance of the students, alumni and general public who do the criticizing? The chances are that their average "winning" percentage is not so hot.

What they need is a little more recognition of human frailty, and a great deal more fundamental loyalty — a commodity in shorter and shorter supply as the years pass.

DINNER AT 1834

Much was made, this year, of the fact that the Thanksgiving turkey cost less than it had in many years. This evoked considerable astonishment, not to mention a few glad cries from family breadwinners.

Without wishing to detract from the delights of cheap turkey, 1961 style, we will pass on a pertinent bit of information encountered the other day in a book of reminiscences. The reminiscence we have in mind concerned Thanksgiving 127 years ago at Delmonico's, one of New York's top restaurants. On Nov. 25, 1834, the proprietor of this famous eating house advised the public that a meal of soup, steak, coffee and half a pie could be had for 12 cents. Dinner for two was available for a quarter, with the extra cent providing second cups of coffee.

This is the sort of thing that plays hob with a hard-working man's morale. Still, turkey IS cheap this year—and delicious, too.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH

It is difficult to understand the barriers erected by school and college management on the subject of freedom of speech. Generally there is no objection to Karl Marx but God is forbidden. The theory is that whereas it is sound to separate Church from State, it is not sound to separate the United States from its enemies.

I see an item that Dean Fritz Morstein Marx of Hunter College in New York forbids "The National Review" from holding meetings in this municipally-owned girls college. The reasons given by Dean Marx are most astonishing. One of them was that the views of Bill Buckley, the editor of "The National Review," reflected "the point of view of your organization as a political group presenting a distinct point of view of its own."

This is an astonishing attempt to say something in English. Naturally, an educated man, an editor and author, would have a distinct point of view or he would be a dope. It is true that many editors, writers and even professors are dopes, but that is no reason why Dean Marx should expect Bill Buckley to be one. Bill Buckley has long had a point of view which he has included in some books and in many articles and lectures. His point of view may be described as constructively conservative influenced by his religious beliefs. He is definitely anti-Marxist as is the publication which he edits.

If Dean Marx has at all read current publications, he must have witnessed the existence of "The National Review" and he must know that it has a distinct point of view which differs from "The Worker," "The Nation" and "The New Republic," each of which has a point of view of its own, which it advocates and defends.

Does Dean Marx, as an educator, expect only one point of view to prevail in a free country? Is it his theory that the United States is a monolithic country in which only the bombastry of the popular weekly magazines may prevail? Perhaps the Dean only likes such publications because of the pictures in them. Or should the students of Hunter be limited to McGuffey's Readers which were prepared for children of a free period in our civilization?

Another reason given by the learned Dean for excluding "The National Review" meetings from the auditorium of Hunter College is that the building was picketed during one of the meetings. Many public buildings are picketed. Recently I visited the White House in Washington and saw a shabby picket line marching outside. Should President Kennedy be excluded from the White House because some idiots picketed the building? In accordance with Dean Marx's logic, President Kennedy should leave the building to the pickets. Why, I cannot explain except that the Dean must be scared of pickets. His college is opposite the Soviet Embassy and the pickets might, heaven forbid, break loose and damage the Soviet Embassy and send the boor, Valerian A. Zorin, back to the steppes whence he came.

Dean Marx also objects to the effort of the presiding officer at one of the meetings maintaining law and order. Maybe the Dean would have preferred that the chairman stimulate disorder and create a public nuisance. It is often difficult to grasp what the college managers really want the students and their speakers to do.

Personally, I do not mind when I am interrupted. It gives me a chance to switch from discussing what the students are interested in to the subject of good manners which, in this generation, have apparently been lost. This interests me.

Recently, I was speaking at Queens College in New York, also a free municipal college. A student was apparently bored by my comments; he interrupted me by waving his hand. I gave him an opportunity to ask a rather naive question and then he sought to waste my time debating with me. Gently, I pointed out to him that manners were as worthy as knowledge and that these young people seemed to possess neither which is indeed a pity because when they grow up they will regret that they have lost years that might have been used to acquire both knowledge and manners and that society is very rough on those who possess neither. I had a very good time but was sorry for a young lady who was a compulsive striker.

"Wonder How Long I'll Be Weightless On This Trip?"

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — "The welfare of American farmers depends on the export market," says U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman. This is why he has met four times this past month with officials of the European Economic Community—France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Luxemburg and the Netherlands—in an effort to safeguard traditional American markets against competition from increased internal trading in Europe's new Common Market.

LAST YEAR THE UNITED STATES exported $1.1 billion worth of farm products to these countries. The exports were principally hard wheat, feed grains, cotton, tobacco, rice and poultry.

By contrast, the United States imported only $220 million worth of agricultural products from western Europe. They were principally wine, cheese, prepared meats, vegetable oils and specialty items like bulbs and greenhouse stock.

The inequality of this trade in both volume and commodities leaves little room for bargaining. The European countries are nevertheless pressuring the United States to reduce tariffs against their agricultural products and reduce quotas against products such as cheese, in surplus supply here.

For its part, the United States wants assurances that it will retain its traditional markets for farm exports. It also wants assurances it will get its share of any expansion in Europe's markets as the standard of living and the purchasing power of its people increase.

AN INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE has been meeting in Geneva since September 1960, to negotiate new tariffs between the six Common Market countries and other countries in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, known as GATT.

The negotiators are trying to wind up their business before the end of the year. While they have made much progress on industrial tariffs, and though they have agreed to work toward elimination of agricultural protectionism, renegotiation of agricultural tariffs hasn't begun.

Principal reason for this is that the Common Market countries haven't yet agreed among themselves on what their common agricultural policy is to be.

The idea now is to let the United States retain its historic markets till the Europeans can make up their minds. They will probably do this, product by product, over the next year or more.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST DIFFICULTIES is that all the Common Market countries now have production subsidies for their own farmers. This is much like the U.S. price support system. The subsidy runs as high as $3.50 a bushel on German-grown wheat.

Some of the European countries have dropped hints that they might introduce a new system of variable import fees to maintain prices for their own farmers.

For example, if the six-country average support price for European-grown wheat was the equivalent of $2 a bushel, and if the world market price was $1.50 a bushel, a fee of 50 cents a bushel would be charged on all wheat imported into the Common Market.

This would be on top of any import tariff the European countries might retain. And it would be on top of any export subsidy which the United States might pay to move its surpluses.

The fee would be a most difficult trade barrier to overcome. For the world price of wheat varies from day to day. And as the price went down, the variable fee would have to be increased to keep the import price of wheat stable.

THE EUROPEAN COUNTRIES have not yet decided they are willing to make concessions in reducing trade barriers against American agricultural exports. But if they don't, European and American farm economies are on a collision course. And American farm exports may drop in the process.

This situation is going to make it doubly difficult for the Congress to write new farm legislation next year.

Strict Controls Govern Post-Mortem Examinations

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I am writing in behalf of a neighbor whose husband died at the hospital two weeks ago. After the services, she was rebuked by her sister-in-law for giving permission for an autopsy which an attendant of the funeral parlor said had been performed.

When my neighbor denied having given permission or even knowing that an autopsy had been performed, the sister-in-law took her to the attendant who said that hospitals often performed autopsies without permission.

He went on to say that hospitals must perform 100 autopsies a year in order to keep their accredited rating. And since physicians often cannot get permission from families, many autopsies are done without the knowledge of the family.

Is there any truth in this attendant's statements?

A—Except when legally constituted authorities perform a post-morten examination for good and sufficient reasons, having to do with crime detection or the public welfare, written permission for an autopsy is required by hospital authorities and by members of the staff whose duty it is to perform the examination. This permission may be given during life by the individual or after death by the nearest of kin. The statements made by the attendant of the funeral parlor are, in my opinion, criminally malicious.

There is no truth in the allegation that hospitals must perform 100 autopsies a year to remain accredited.

And if the particular autopsy to which the attendant referred was performed without legal permission, both the hospital and those who performed the examination exposed themselves to social, ethical, civil and even criminal penalties.

This would seem wholly unlikely since, as you say later in your letter, the cause of death was an obvious malignancy.

Q—I have just read an article in which it is stated that "many men undergo a climacteric remarkably similar, at least emotionally, to the menopause that marks the end of a woman's childbearing years."

Some time ago, if my memory is correct, you wrote that the male climacteric was a "fiction." Who am I to believe?

A—Well, friend, you pay your money and you take your choice, as they used to say at county fairs.

I have been practicing medicine for more years than I care to count. I have never seen a bon fide example of the male menopause or climacteric. To be sure, I've seen men who became nervous, depressed or emotionally disturbed in and after middle life and whose troubles were attributed by them or by "gland specialists," both amateur and professional, to the climacteric. But in nary a one did this fanciful explanation appear valid to me.

Usually, an unprejudiced investigation turned up some much more logical cause for the disturbance. And usually, a straightforward attack on that cause sufficed to achieve a satisfactory result.

But, since results of this type do not make copy for the glamour sheets or profit for those who manufacture or administer "gland shots," I'm afraid they make dull reading and provide little table talk at dinner parties.

Diplomacy by Interview Stirs Some Discontent

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Diplomacy by means of published interviews has struck a snag among the Western allies. Outwardly, Great Britain and West Germany have gone along, but rumblings in France have become noticeable.

President De Gaulle, for instance, thought the interview given by President Kennedy to the editor of Izvestia—who is Mr. Khrushchev's son-in-law — was a serious error in tactics. A significant dispatch from Paris published this week in United States News & World Report says that the Izvestia interview is regarded in the French capital "as the latest in a series of tragic mistakes." It adds:

"President De Gaulle is convinced that President Kennedy is prepared to sacrifice West German interests in order to save Western rights in Berlin. He fears disillusionment on the part of the West Germans that can lead first toward neutralism then toward a deal with Russia to reunite the two Germanys.

"De Gaulle's belief is that 'another Yalta is in the making, and he sees no reason why France should participate in any such negotiations with Russia. De Gaulle's view is that if the United States and Britain are determined to negotiate with Russia there is nothing he can do to stop them. But France will not take part on the basis set forth in the Kennedy interview.

"As the French president sees it: Mr. Kennedy, in the interview, wasn't just talking to Soviet public opinion. He was talking to Khrushchev, too. In his (De Gaulle's) opinion, the interview amounted to negotiating in public about issues and United States proposals on which the Western allies are not agreed.

Covered More Ground

"The interview, it is pointed out here, covered much more than the area for possible negotiation that Mr. Kennedy and Germany's Chancellor Adenauer agreed to in their recent meeting. At that meeting, it was agreed to limit negotiations with Russia to Berlin. But, in the published interview, Mr. Kennedy talked of restricting West German armament. He talked of negotiating to keep the peace in Central Europe.' He indicated a willingness to accept a divided Germany for fifteen years, if agreement is reached on Berlin. He seemed ready to accept a Soviet peace treaty with Communist East Germany, if Western rights in Berlin are protected. . .

"In recent weeks, representatives of the U. S., West Germany, Britain and France have been meeting to discuss proposals they might make to Russia if a conference is called. . . .

"It is understood here that one of the American proposals was to create an 'international administration' over all access routes to West Berlin—by air as well as land and water. This idea was advanced by Mr. Kennedy in his interview with Izvestia, although U. S. allies, themselves, are not agreed on the idea. It was the bringing of such proposals out into the open at this stage that disturbed DeGaulle. He feels that the U. S. is going too far and moving too fast in its efforts to come to terms with the Soviet Union."

The question naturally arises as to what part, if any, the Secretary of State himself played in the handling of the President's interview with the editor of Izvestia. It would be surprising to find that a diplomat of experience would approve of the revelation of delicate matters under discussion with Allies without consulting them in advance as to the wisdom of such disclosure. Just how seriously the French regard the mistake is indicated in the concluding paragraph of the Paris dispatch quoted in part above:

"As French officials see it: If there was a chance after the Kennedy - Adenauer talks that DeGaulle finally would agree to participate in the preparations for a conference with Russia, that chance almost disappeared after the Kennedy interview with Nikita Khrushchev's son-in-law."

The tendency to go it alone in a matter of Allied strategy probably will be defended in quarters here as necessary in order to bring about, through world opinion, the harmony that is not achievable through diplomatic channels. But it is risky business. Already Walter Ulbricht, the East German leader, has denounced the Kennedy proposal—made publicly for the first time in the Izvestia interview—for an international administration of access routes to West Berlin from West Germany. This is one tactic that Moscow employs to knock down the President's proposals with the idea of more and more concessions before the negotiations actually begin. President DeGaulle feels that the Russians should come to the West with proposals for negotiation and that the West should not take the initiative in offering bargaining proposals to Mr. Khrushchev.

Within another week the foreign ministers of the Western Allies are due to meet in Paris. So far as is known, they have not as yet come to any agreement on the main proposals to be made to Russia, and that is why it is wholly unprecedented for public statements to be issued that tend to commit the Allies to a position which they themselves have not all accepted.

Dissension among Allies is not surprising, but to express differences publicly in advance of a negotiation makes it difficult for any foreign minister or secretary of state to perform effectively the duties of his office. The State Department here is frequently under fire, and some of the White House aids are sometimes impatient with its slow-moving tendencies, but in the long run it's better to listen to your doctor or lawyer, as they know from experience with other cases the pitfalls arising from indifference to competent advisors.

YOUR POCKETBOOK

You Can't Insure Another Without His Knowledge

BY FAYE HENLE

Q—My husband does not believe in life insurance. I would like to take out a policy on his life and pay the premiums without his knowledge. Can I do this?—C. B. M.

Dear C. B. M.: The answer is "no." Not only must your husband sign the application, but he probably would be required to undergo a medical examination.

Q—Last year I took a $4,000 loss on my securities. I now have some nice paper profits. My investments are made to give me income. My broker says I should not sell any stocks to take profits to offset my losses. Instead, he says I'm doing fine and should leave my securities alone. Is he right?—U. C.

Dear U. C.: I suspect your present investments are doing fine and that your broker expects they will continue to do even better. Don't let that $4,000 loss worry you income tax-wise. It's good for three more years, so why not take his advise?

Q—Our investment club bought a speculative stock which is now down to one-half of what we paid. Do you agree that we should get rid of such an investment?—K. T.

Dear K. T.: Don't wait another day. Sell!

Q—Should a 75-year-old widow who has a pension and Social Security which take care of her day-to-day needs , $40,000 invested in common stocks (most of which are blue chip) and $4,000 in the savings bank, invest $10,000 in a real estate venture? In order to do this, I would have to sell some stock.—A. R. L.

Dear A. R. L.: Are you aiming to be the richest gal in the cemetery, or do you have a pet grandchild? You're doing fine without speculating, so relax!

Q—How do you go about shopping the best credit value?—S. A.

Dear S. A.: Money is a commodity and it costs money to borrow it. Find out who will lend you money with the lowest true interest rate. If you have a savings account and enough money to more than carry your loan, you'll find a passbook loan cheapest. If you belong to a credit union, they offer cheap loans. Before you go to a finance company, check a commercial bank—their rates are cheaper.

When you buy on the installment plan, ask how much the true interest rate might be. If it exceeds 12 per cent, see if you can borrow the money from the bank and pay cash.

U.S. Urging More Data on Cardinal Before Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials say they want to know more before commenting on a Hungarian proposal to discuss the future of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty.

They also wonder privately what the two countries could say about the Roman Catholic prelate who has been in refuge at the American legation in Budapest since the anti-Communist Hungarian revolt of 1956.

Gyula Kallai, deputy premier of the Communist regime in Hungary, told a news conference Monday that his government is ready to negotiate a settlement of the 69-year-old cardinal's future. He also was quoted as saying it cannot be handled separately but only as part of a broad settlement of other questions.

Officials here said it wasn't a surprise. They said feelers have been put out by diplomats on both sides, although there have been no clear-cut proposals.

But these sources point out the Hungarian Communists have been particularly rankled over the fact that the crushing of the 1956 revolt is brought up for discussion every year in the United Nations. They have repeatedly hinted that the United States could, if it wanted, arrange for the matter to quietly die.

It is believed that American diplomats have mentioned such things as an amnesty for political prisoners, many of them serving long sentences for their part in the uprising.

Man Faces Drunk Driving Charges Following Mishap

A Kingston man was arrested by state police Monday night for driving while intoxicated, following a two-car collision on Albany Avenue Extension in which only he was injured.

Troopers said Herman Morris, 56 of Elmendorf Street was treated and released from Benedictine Hospital. He suffered a lacerated lower lip.

Morris is scheduled to appear before Town of Ulster Justice of Peace Robert Stedge on Monday.

Troopers John Salters and Harry Saunders reported the other car involved was operated by Joseph Lucido, 58 of Route 1, Box 267, Saugerties.

Troopers said Lucido was proceeding north on Albany Avenue Extension after the light changed in his favor. Morris in a 1955 sedan was traveling south on Route 9W made a slight curve onto Albany Avenue Extension on the wrong side and ran headon into the Lucido 1962 sedan, troopers reported. This mishap occurred at 8:20 p. m.

Mandy Suggests Board Approval Of Area Tellers

A member of the Highland Board of Fire Commissioners on Monday questioned a report that tellers were selected for today's district election of commissioners without a meeting of the board.

Frank Mandy stated that in his opinion the commissioners should meet monthly at a regularly scheduled time. He noted there had not been a meeting of the board since September.

Mandy further contended that tellers should be elected by the board.

Fire Destroys Market

WATERFORD, N.Y. (AP) — Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Country Dollar supermarker early today.

Three firemen suffered foot injuries when they stepped on nails while battling flames in the one-story, cement-block building on the Waterford-Mechanicville Road. The men were treated at Leonard Hospital, Troy, and discharged.

Striking employes of the General Electric Company's nearby silicone plant left picket posts to help awaken occupants of two houses threatened by the flames.

Joseph Boyajian, the store proprietor, estimated the loss at $75,000 to $100,000.

matter of Fact

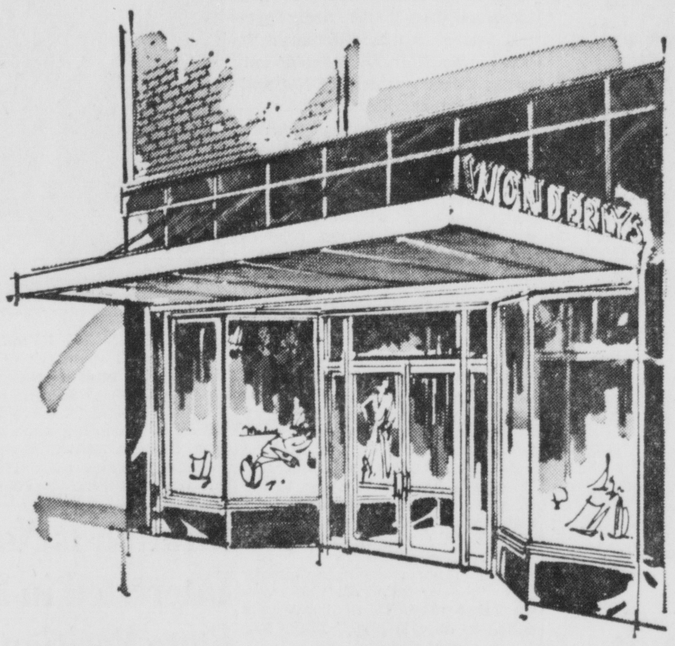

Where do shooting stars come from? In a general way, you can gauge a shooting star's "birthplace" by its speed. The slower-moving shooting stars probably have strayed from the orbit of comets. But the fast-moving ones are a mystery. Astronomers say these shooting stars come incredible distances, from somewhere in the untold reaches of interstellar space. Beyond that, origin is anybody's guess.

Army Cites Need For 2 Divisions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr. has indicated that if the Army gets two more regular divisions it could cope with future cold war crises without calling up National Guardsmen and Reservists.

The indication came Monday when Stahr announced that the Army has corrected most of the clothing and equipment shorages, poor living conditions, and idleness problems which prompted complaints from citizen soldiers ordered to active duty.

Informed sources said the regular Army probably will be increased to 16 divisions, with an over-all strength of about 960,000 men.

The Army now totals more than a million men—14 regular divisions, plus two National Guard divisions and more than 400 smaller Guard and Reserve units mustered into active service.

In all, 119,000 Guardsmen and Reservists have been called to the colors since early October and Stahr said "an Army-wide survey showed only slightly more than 1,000 soldier gripes."

Field reports indicate clearly that "the morale of the overwhelming majority of individuals called to duty is high," Stahr told a news conference.

The need for an immediate increase in the Army's combat strength, Stahr said, "could only be met by calling up trained National Guardsmen and Reservists." Larger draft calls would not provide the needed strength in time, he added.

Roadblock Nets 48 at Quarryville

A roadblock by Town of Saugerties constables and State Conservation Department men on Route 32 near Blue Mountain Road, Quarryville, netted 23 motorists on traffic infractions and 15 for conservation violations. More than 60 deer were counted and checked by conservation men.

Traffic infractions includes expired inspection certificates and unlicensed motor vehicles. Conservation law violations included improperly tagged deer, transporting unmarked venison, no license and improper license.

All cases were brought before Saugerties Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers.

Detailed to the roadblock were Saugerties Constables Charles Riley, John Pavlak, Anthony Ventriglia, John Roderer, Herbert Hommel and George Derbyshire.

Conservation men from area included Walter H. Soule of Lexington.

automatic weapons but we do have our poisoned arrows, spears, knives and axes," Tshombe said.

The fighting broke out today after Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba, acting as ranking official in the absence of Tshombe in Paris, agreed to removal of a road block thrown up Monday between the airport and the city. Indian troops guard the airport.

Urquhart said the Katangans not only did not carry out the agreement but set up other barriers isolating Swedish and Irish U.N. camps from the city.

Then the U.N. official announced the discovery of a Katanga battle plan, and said fighting was unavoidable.

He said Katanga ministers, quitting the capital, handed over government affairs to the province's military command.

Katanga workers began fleeing their jobs and an exodus from the city began.

Panic broke out in the streets. Some Africans ran from the town. Others headed for the railroad station.

Error Inadvertently Lists Area Trooper

A mechanical error in setting type for an account of two out-of-town motorists held for drunk driving, which appeared in Monday's Freeman, inadvertently listed Trooper Wallace Mahan of Highland sub-station as pleading not guilty and posting bail.

The story should have reported Trooper Mahan as the arresting officer.

Highland state police arrested two motorists charged with driving while intoxicated. The defendants pleaded innocent when they appeared Saturday before Town of Esopus Justice of the Peace John O. Beaver.

Arrested by Trooper Mahan was James Lyons, 39, of Tarrytown, who posted bail for a hearing Wednesday, Dec. 21 at 8 p. m.

Troopers John Clair and Harry Foster apprehended Thomas M. Spiegel, 50, of Clover Street, Poughkeepsie. Spiegel entered a plea of innocent and was committed to Ulster County Jail in lieu of $200 bail. He must appear for hearing December 11 at 8 p. m.

Seven-Year Faith

SPARTA, Wis. (AP)—Thomas O'Hearn told an employe in his grocery in 1954 that he thought most people are honest. To prove it, O'Hearn put a dollar bill on the visor of his car in full sight. The bill was stolen from O'Hearns' unlocked car, but not until it had remained there for seven years. On the dollar, O'Hearn had written, "I believe people are honest. If you take this dollar, I won't believe that any more."

Stratton Is Not Interested in 2nd State Position

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — Rep. Samuel S. Stratton says he will not give up his congressional seniority for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

The Schenectady Democrat, whose house district was abolished by the state legislature, squelched speculation he might be his party's candidate next year for lieutenant governor.

Stratton, also mentioned as a possible gubernatorial candidate, told reporters Monday he expected to announce shortly whether he had any plans to oppose Republican Gov. Rockefeller.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City has been mentioned as a strong contender for the Democratic nomination. Stratton supported Wagner in the latter's successful bid last month for reelection over opposition by the regular Democratic organization in the state.

Stratton said he had previously announced that he would run for reelection. He said, however, he had not decided in which district he would be a candidate, in view of the reapportionment of congressional districts last month by the Legislature.

"It looks as though I'll run in the 35th," Stratton said.

Part of the new 35th had been in Stratton's 32nd District but more of it was in the 36th district, now represented by Rep. John Taber, R-Auburn.

Taber, a 20-term veteran, has announced he will not seek re-election.

Stratton could withdraw from the congressional campaign if nominated for governor at the Democratic state convention next year.

The Democratic-controlled City Council adopted the budget unanimously Monday night.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Savings and loan shares skidded again and market averages declined early this afternoon. The general price pattern was mixed and trading was heavy.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .30 at 266.30 with industrials off .40, rails off .20 and utilities off .20.

Gains and losses of most pivotal issues went from fractions to about a point. Sharper losses were shown by the West Coast savings and loan stocks which continued to react to news that the government is permitting commercial banks to raise their interest rates to 4 per cent, thus providing stiffer competition for the loan companies.

Electrical equipment issues also continued their slide in further retreat because of the big damage suits instituted against 21 of these manufacturers guilty of price rigging.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Trading was heavy.

'Fast Growths' Have Short-Lived Declines

Q) "In one of your columns, you mentioned that some 'fast-growth stocks' were probably priced too high. Why then didn't you advise their sale?" J. T.

A) Your intelligent question points up a problem in basic investment policy. Fast-growth stocks often advance so rapidly that any ensuing correction appears important, even though it may be only a minor move. In the column you refer to, I stated that the stocks in my 20-fast-growth-stock average had advanced an average of 1630 per cent from their lows of 1955 to their 1961 highs. This is at the rate of 180 per cent per annum. During this long climb there have been only four short-lived declines of any importance. None of them exceeded 20 per cent and they averaged only about 90 days' duration.

I think you can see from the above figures that it would scarcely pay to try to sell these kinds of stocks at temporary peaks with the hope of buying them back two or three months later. Even if you were lucky enough to sell, the chances are that you wouldn't buy back and would thus forfeit subsequent profits.

Of course, this is not to say that all growth stocks will forever remain "holds" or that certain individual issues won't climb to a point where selling is justified either because of developments within the company or because the shares got so high that they discounted the future too far ahead. In short, fast growth stocks generally should not be dumped simply because occasional sell-offs occur. That is why I didn't advise their sale in my earlier column.

Q) "My portfolio includes several hundred shares of Western Publishing. Should I stick with them?" E. H.

A) I certainly would. Western Publishing (OTC) shares have slipped a little because of what I consider to be a temporary sag in first-half earnings. A better second half seems to be shaping up, and I believe the share action will become stronger in the months ahead.

Dismiss Charges Against Man Who Shot Companion

A charge of criminal negligence against John P. White, 39, of Cornwall-on-Hudson in connection with the accidental shooting of his hunting companion on November 20 was dismissed by Town of Ulster Justice of the Peace Robert Stedge Monday night on grounds of insufficient evidence.

The charges were withdrawn on recommendation of the district attorney's office, according to Kingston Trooper David Wachtel.

White was arrested on opening day of deer season when his companion, Richard Mysdom, 31, also of Cornwall was shot to death while the two were hunting deer in the Town of Shandaken near Mt. Tremper.

Insurance Agent Shows Up as Lake Search on

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—A 28-year-old insurance agent, apparently suffering from amnesia, walked into police headquarters Monday to seek help while skin divers searched an adirondack lake in the belief he had been drowned.

Barton Goodbread of Gloversville, was taken to Ellis Hospital after he complained of severe head pains and was not able to identify himself, police said.

Goodbread was reported in satisfactory condition today.

He was driving from Malone to Plattsburgh when his automobile rolled down an embankment into Lower Cascade Lake a few miles west of Keene, Richard Vanderslice of Rexford Goodbread's employer, said. Vanderslice identified Goodbread at the hospital.

State Police originall theorized that Goodbread was thrown from the car into open water early Sunday. Skindivers had begun a search of the lake for his body when he arrived at the police station.

Troopers said there was no indication of what caused the accident. Goodbread was not cut or bruised, they said.

A motorist gave Goodbread a ride early Sunday morning from the accident scene to Kenne Valley, State Police said.

It was not known how Goodbread reached Schenectady, more than 100 miles from Keene, but police said Goodbread told them he thought he had "walked quite a ways."

Would Investigate Leaflets Sent to Lure Negroes Up

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—A Broome County supervisor urges a state investigation of a leaflet he said is designed to lure southern Negroes to New York City with the promise of living well on relief.

Republican Supervisor Donald J. Stickles distributed facsimile copies of the document at a board meeting Monday night.

He said it was sent to him by a friend in Savannah, Ga., who reported that hundreds of leaflets were distributed to Savannah Negroes Nov. 11.

The leaflet, which was unsigned, said in part:

"There is no limitation on the amount of cash contributed by the welfare department. Welfare rules carry no time limitation. The size of a cash allowance by the New York City Welfare Department depends only on the size of one's family."

Promise to Migrants

The leaflet promised migrants a "nice apartment with private bathroom," hospital and medical care, food, clothing, a housekeeper and home nursing service.

Stickles said he had sent copies of the leaflet to Sen. Henry A. Wise, R-Watertown, chairman of a legislative committee on welfare. Stickles said he had urged Wise "to make a proper investigation of this disgusting thing."

He said he also had sent copies to the State Social Welfare Department, and Abraham Ribicoff, U.S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

In Washington, a special committee named by Ribicoff urged adoption of a new welfare plan that coupled increased federal aid with research, a newspaper reported.

The Washington Post said Monday night the committee said the proposals were aimed at making relief programs more effective and helping recipients become self-supporting.

The committee recommendations are expected to form the basis for the program Ribicoff will present Congress next year.

The recommendations included relief paymepts for disabled or jobless fathers living in the homes of welfare families ,increased federal aid to state adopting services aimed at making relief families self-supporting, and use of federal funds to support community work programs.

"A SMALL ATTRACTIVE HEARING AID? SURE! BUT FIRST AND FOREMOST I WANT TO HEAR!"

(Pittsburgh interview) In research to learn what type of hearing aids are most wanted by the hard-of-hearing, Ed Gregory, 260 Silver Lake, R. D. #1, McKees Rocks, Pa., replies, "The claims I read about new miracles in hearing aids don't bother me any more. I wore a well known hearing aid for many years, and could hear all right with it. But when I first had my new RADIOEAR hearing glasses adjusted, I know now I behaved as if I were a little foolish! I could hear so much more, and hear so much more clearly, and without a tinny, artificial sound, I just had to exclaim about it! After all is said and done, of course we want small, good-looking instruments, but for my money, there isn't any substitute for fine hearing! And the way I hear with my RADIOEAR hearing-glasses is something you have to experience for yourself. I just couldn't believe there could be that much difference in hearing aids!"

We often get comments from local friends along the same identical line expressed by Mr. Gregory. If your present hearing aid or your hearing are not all that you think they should be, let us help you hear new "worlds" of sound—with a modern RADIOEAR.

Opening lead—♣ K

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Yesterday's article discussed the nonforcing—but strong—two bid for use with a part score. Someone is bound to want to know what you do when you play this convention and pick up one of those real rockcrushers such as today's South hand.

One way to handle it is to open with two and hope for a response. After all partner is supposed to respond with almost anything.

The other way is to play the opening bid of two clubs as an absolute force with nearly automatic two diamond response.

Naturally, you had better make sure that your partner won't forget this because it may be a year or more after you start using this convention before you get the hand for it.

South certainly had the cards for an absolute forcing bid and he continued his forcing tactics by a jump to three spades.

When his next jump was to six hearts, North decided that his hand warranted a seven bid and went there.

His optimism was fully justified by the result. South ruffed the opening club lead, drew trumps, ruffed a couple of spades and made the grand slam contract.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Is TV selling us more and are we enjoying it less?

Amid all the talk about trends, one which has been overlooked is TV's growing habit of clustering all sorts of commercials around that inevitable "pause for station identification" every half hour.

The other night I counted the commercials thrown at me from the moment the hero of one show delivered the villain to the local jail until the action-filled "teaser" of the next program showed a man being hit over the head.

There were six—and I am counting those "stay-tuned-to" exhortations about the following attraction as a commercial. They sure aren't entertainment, news or public affairs announcements.

On that particular occasion, the six consisted of a final sales spiel "the alternate sponsor," the usual plea to stay tuned to the next show, a network plug for a program to be broadcast the next night, two commercials crammed into the 40 seconds during which, in a flashing of an eye, the network and station identified itself, and finally, the first commercial of the next show. Added to this was the leisurely wind-up of the first show-with credits to everybody connected with the production, including the costumer's assistant—it lingered on the final group of lesser names in order to have the show's jazz theme come to an end—plus another credit lis at the beginning of the new show.

An advertising man who was complaining about the increasing invasion of so-called "program time" by this sort of thing, estimated that networks and local stations are cutting about seven minutes out of every half-hour of TV. Commercial announcements are supposed to take three minutes out of 30.

Recommended tonight: "Dick Powell Show," NBC, 9-10 (EST)—"Three Soldiers," with James Donald and Telly Savelas; "Drop-Out," ABC, 10:30-11—a study of students who quit school before graduating from high school.

Oliver Wendell Holmes because of his clever essays with the title, was called "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table."

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Those who have a few minutes to spare while shopping uptown to see some of the pictures of old Kingston mentioned in this column can see them at the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston at 267 Wall Street during the business hours. There is convenient parking right on the bank grounds. One of the photographs is of the corner of John and Fair Streets, before the Stuyvesant was built, around 1906. Another picture is of Wall Street when St. John's Episcopal Church was next to Keeney's Theatre. Another set of pictures, of Rondout, are at the Rondout Saving's Bank, Broadway and Mill Street.

I received a wonderful letter from a former teacher of mine. She writess in part: "Dear Sophie: You have my heartfelt appreciation for the very kind tribute you gave me in your interesting article about dear old Spencer's in the Freeman of Monday evening. How vividly I remember every item mentioned. I was there and know. I taught two years under B. Spencer, then three years under the partnership of C. L. Kelly and John J. Moran, married in 1906 and returned to my desk in 1914, with Mr. Kelly, the owner and principal, as the partnership had been dissolved during my absence. I remained until my voluntary retirement in May of 1951. I taught a year and a half for Joseph Morgan after Delmar Kelly sold the school to Joseph Morgan. A teaching period of forty-one years. Quite a record of which I am justly proud. I have received several phone calls and messages complimenting your article."

Mrs. Elsie M. Pultz of 142 St. James Street, Kingston, further writes: "Well do I remember the $40 Life Scholarship which was used between positions. When Spencer sold the school it was no longer in use. I really wish you could have known B. H. Spencer. He was a very handsome man, always immaculately dressed in cut-away coat, striped trousers, white shirt and beautiful ties, shoes shining like mirrors.

"Mr. Spencer taught his expert penmanship for one hour each morning with his staff of eight teachers among the students, setting copies and helping the pupils to write. Nearly every graduate from Spencer's those days were beautiful and legible writers. He taught all kinds of fancy writing as well. In his last years, Mr. Spencer was an expert for the FBI in criminal writings, forgeries, etc. He was known throughout America for his ability in that capacity, and he was pleasant to work with. Aside from teaching I took full charge of his office.

"Mr. Spencer and Mr. Kelly were as unlike as two men could be and both fine teachers, Mrs. Pultz writes.

She also says she has many fond and sacred memories of her wonderful students, many of them have made good and now occupy positions of honor and success which makes her proud and happy.

I, personally, cannot put into words why I think so highly of Mrs. Pultz, as a teacher. The atmosphere in her classroom was entirely different from any classroom in Kingston High School, and she could ably take care of large classes, without sarcasm and irritation and turn irresponsible children into grown-ups who had faith in their own ability. In high school they had a tendency to leave you with a childish inferiority complex, even with its diploma in your hand.

Canadians Plan Guard Against Culture of U. S.

CHATEAUGUAY, Que. (AP) — Canada faces "an intangible danger—our absorption by American culture," Justice Minister Edmund D. Fulton says.

English-Canadians and French-Canadians together "will build a strong Canadian nation, capable of overcoming the danger of "cultural infiltration" from the United States, he said.

Fulton told a Progessive Conservative Party meeting Monday night that "alone and divided, we will be too weak. The pressure on us will be too great. But living together and helping each other, we will build our personality."

JFK: They're In to Prevent War

2nd Callup, Old Material, Short Supplies Make Army Gripe Case

By RALEIGH ALLSBROOK

NEW YORK (AP)—Complaints of morale and supply shortages are arising at some of the camps where National Guard and reserve units have been called back into service.

As during World War II and the Korean War, the military is being accused of using "hurry up and wait" tactics—hurring men into uniform and then not being prepared for them.

Has the military actually let down the men it called back to the colors or are the complaints, as draft director Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey commented, simply the traditional griping of soldiers.

Pentagon sources say that out of 119,000 Army reservists and Guardsmen called back, less than 1 per cent have put in complaints.

This estimate, the sources said was based on letters and other communications received at all Army levels.

Maj. Gen. William H. Harrison, president of the National Guard Association, said "the griping of a few individuals" is casting a shadow upon the patriotism and spirited response" of the Guardsmen and reservists.

"These complaints, in some instances," he said, "are from men who have already served on extended active duty and resent a second callup when so many of their friends and neighbors have performed no military service."

He said there should be changes in the law and policy.

Called to Prevent War

The matter reached a climax last week: when President Kennedy devoted a part of his news conference to answering critics.

The President, whose own record includes heroic wartime service in the Navy, took particular note of complaints about Ft. Lewis Wash.

He said the men there may be serving in a cold and windy camp, but they "are rendering the same kind of service to our country as an airplane standing at 15-minute alert at a SAC base in Omaha is rendering.

"We call them in to prevent a war, not to fight a war."

But he asked them to recognize that they are contributing to the security of their families and he held out hope they may be sent home short of their required 12 months of service.

Maj. Gen. Edward H. McDaniel, Army inspector general, is investigating conditions at Ft. Lewis, where Rep. Alvin O'Konski, R-Wis., has made accusations of "criminal negligence."

The Wisconsin representative started a controversy over whether the Army made adequate preparations there to take care of his state's 32th Infantry Division.

He called it a "lost division" with obsolete and poorly operating weapons and short supplies.

Denial Made

This brought a denial by the Army and a charge from the division commander, Maj. Gen. H. A. Smith, that O'Konski had damaged the unit's morale and made the troops appear a "bunch of crybabies."

Most of O'Konski's charges also were contradicted indirectly by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who followed him on an inspection of the camp.

Proxmire reported he found many things wrong, but that the Army was making a sincere effort to straighten them out.

Other complaints have developed at Ft. Polk, La., where National Guardsmen from a number of Southern and Western states have been training.

A group of nearly 100 enlisted men from the 49th Armored Division there wrote a letter to Rep. Joe Kilgore, D-Tex., complaining about conditions.

They also protested that while they had prior service "back at home there are those who have never been called to duty."

Explains About Building

An information officer at the camp declared that since a part of it had been closed since 1954, some of the buildings naturally "were going to deteriorate."

But he said that conditions were improving rapidly and that many of the shortages complained of already have been filled.

Congressional complaints also arose over Air ational Guard units called up and sent overseas.

Rep. George Huddleston, D-Ala., said he had received reports that some members of the 117th Reconnaissance Wing, now based in Paris, were just sitting around with nothing to do.

Pentagon officials blamed it on air traffic control problems and said discussions were under way with French authorities to clear up the situation.

Reporter Jack Foisie of the San Francisco Chronicle visited Ft. Ord in California and said troops were spending their time waiting for equipment, listening to old lectures, seeing old training films and "manicuring" their barracks areas.

Despite the criticism of some camps, reports from other military installations indicated few complaints.

Silent on Lead, But She's Still Active in Party

NEW YORK (AP) — Elizabeth Gurley Flynn won't say if she is still national chairman of the Communist party of the U.S.A., but she made clear she intends to continue her activities as a party member.

The party has been indicted for failing to register with the federal government as an arm of the Soviet Union.

Addressing a Monday night rally on behalf of the Communist newspaper, The Worker, Miss Flynn, 70, suggested older persons should retire from their party posts to make way for new blood.

Asked about her own post, Miss Flynn replied: "At the present time, I can't discuss the party post. It's in legal litigation now."

Then she added: "At least you see I'm not underground."

Kentucky Will Hold U. S. Twist Contest

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Picture a huge room filled with cloth bags, each containing an angry wildcat. You should get the same visual effect New Year's Eve at Freedom Hall.

That's the date when William H. King will sponsor the first national Twist contest with several hundred squirming contestants and an expected 15,000 spectators.

Prizes, in merchandise, will total about $5,000, King says, and entry is free. So, presumably, is first aid treatment.

Kennedy to Leave On 4-Day Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, who never made the varsity in his schooldays, kicks off a busy travel schedule today with a trip to New York to be honored with greats of the game by the National Football Hall of Fame.

Kennedy takes off from National Airport early in the afternoon on a four-day journey that also will bring him before the National Association of Manufacturers in New York and the AFL-CIO and Young Democrats in Miami Beach before he gets back to Washington on Friday.

The New York-Florida venture is the first of three trips anticipated this month. The White House announced Monday Kennedy would meet British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan at Bermuda on Dec. 21-22.

Kennedy also is expected to visit Colombia and Venezuela in mid-December on what would be his first flight south of the border since taking office.

In New York, Kennedy will receive a gold medal from the National Football Foundation as eight headline players of yesteryear and two coaches are inducted into the Hall of Fame. Former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Herbert Hoover were similarly honored in the past.

Kennedy will set forth his tariff and trade proposals at a National Association of Manufacturers luncheon Wednesday. The administration is expected to seek broad powers from Congress to negotiate reciprocal tariff cuts with other nations. The effect of international trade, domestic conditions and economy on the millions of U.S. workers likely will be covered in his AFL-CIO speech at Miami Beach the next day.

AA Is Worldwide

NEW YORK (AP) — Alcoholics Anonymous now includes more than 8,500 chapters in 82 nations, reports the Cathlic Digest. It says AA has salvaged 300,000 alcohol-ridden lives in its 25 years of operation.

You can make a most delicious gravy simply by adding heavy cream to the pan drippings from roast chicken or turkey.

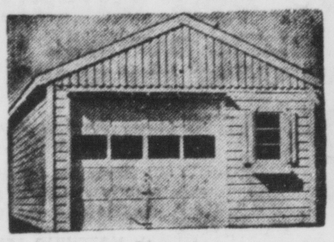

White Gold

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Dentistry has solved the problem of using gold for its good filling qualities without making a patient's mouth look like a jewelry store window. Dr. John F. Johnson of the Indiana University School of Dentistry told a dental meeting here recently that porcelain veneers baked to the gold filling surface cover the gold and closely resemble the color and surface texture of natural teeth. The new process is based on a natural binding that exists between gold and porcelain when they are baked together.

The easiest way to remove fat from soup stock and gravy is to chill the broth or sauce; the fat rises to the top and hardens and may be lifted off in pieces.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The Christmas spirit must be inspiring both the business statisticians and the business soothsayers. The news leans heavily today to the jolly side. The predictions, as you might guess, are even cheerier.

Most official figures pouring out of government agencies and industry's haunts plot an upward trend in business activity. Many sight records in the making for December—such as in retail sales volume. Most of the rest chart the emergency from the early fall lull and resumption of the advance in industrial output and orders.

Steel Orders Gain

The soothsayers go farther. One group of business economists reporting over the weekend to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce sees 1962 setting records in production, income and profits.

Backing them up are such items as these:

Steel orders finally have begun to mount — perhaps to build up stocks in the first half of 1962 as a hedge against a possible steel strike in the summer. Mills are beginning to plan increased output. This has been holding close to 70 per cent of capacity for some time, but some say it could soon rise to 80 per cent.

Auto retail sales have perked up. And some think output this month could top last December by 20 per cent or more.

One tip here is that consumer debt has begun to rise, with most of the increase in instalment credit in auto paper. The latest reported gain is the biggest in almost a year.

Spending on construction, both current and planned, has begun to rise. The Department of Commerce is particularly impressed by the outlook for home building. It estimates 1.3 million private housing units will have been started this year by New Year's Eve. And it thinks that next year another 1.4 million will be going up. Public housing is put at 50,000 units this year and 55,000 next.

Business spending for new plant and equipment also is expected to rise next year. Higher costs will account for some of the increase. But if output and profits advance as some hope, the physical volume of construction will be up, too.

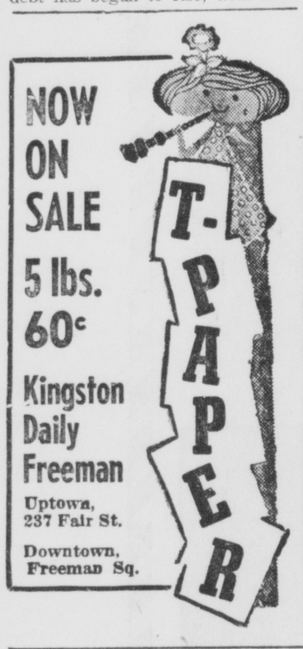

At the consumer level, economists note with joy that sales volume is on the increase. The latest weekly figure on department store sales show them 6 per cent above the like week of 1960.

Predictions of total Christmas sales this year run 4 to 6 per cent ahead of last year. Shoppers are reported buying carefully but not pinching pennies when they find what they want.

Both merchants and manufacturers are taking comfort from the state of the money market.

The money managers are seeing to it that the banks have plenty of reserves for financing Christmas trade and for making loans when and if industrialists want them for expanding activity.

And the economists have their own source of comfort. Despite all the optimism that has bubbled up of late, there's no sign yet of a runaway boom psychology that could be dangerous. Purchasing agents report ordering is still being held within realistic bounds. Expansion plans are being tailored close to reasonable expectations of industrial demand.

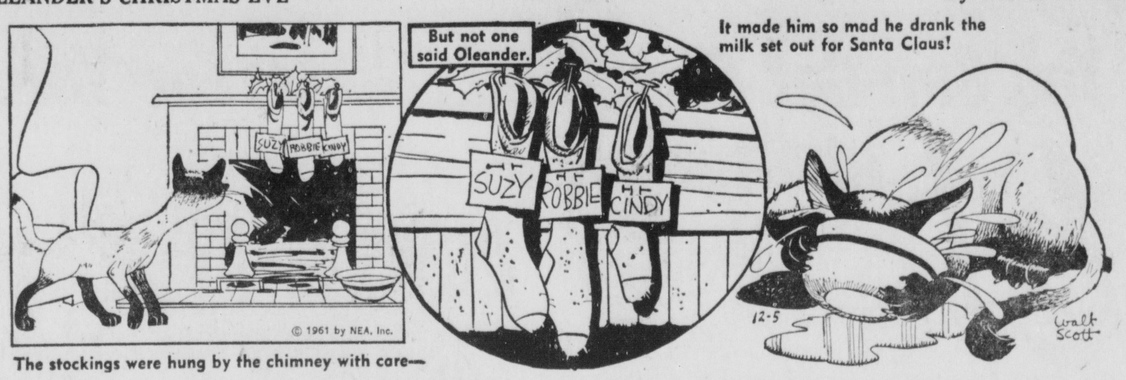

Regional Conference On Migrant Labor Set

A two-day regional conference on migratory labor will be held Thursday and Friday in the Regional Office of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare at 42 Broadway, New York City. According to Joseph B. O'Connor, regional director, officials from the States of Delaware, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania, together with representatives from federal agencies and private organizations will attend.

The conference keynote speaker will be Senator Harrison A. Williams Jr., chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Migratory Labor.

Nurses Association Parley Set Dec. 13-15

"Our Mutual Interest — The Patient" is the theme for the first conference, sponsored by New York State Nurses Association in cooperation with the Hospital Association of New York State, to be held December 13-15, at Arden House, Harriman. Conference plans were announced today, at an NYSNA board of directors meeting.

"We hope recommendations will come out of this conference, and others that may follow, that will help solve problems encountered by hospital administrators and nursing service personnel in their joint efforts to provide the best possible services to patients," Miss Cora E. Pike, RN, North Tarrytown, president of the New York State Nurses Association, said.

Stock Splits Are At Record High

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Stock splits in 1961 have already set a new high, according to a study just completed by Spear & Staff, Inc., investment advisors.

Up to the middle of November, there had been 339 stock splits approved or proposed to stockholders, compared with the previous record of 320 for all of 1959, the Spear analysis shows.

Although some issues rise after a split has been announced, the advisors say, a significant gain also frequently occurs before the official announcement, while the issue is a good "candidate" for splitting. In July, for example, Spear listed 25 split candidates. Since that time, five of the issues have split (Drackett, Emerson, Electric, Gillette, Purex, and Reynolds Tobacco). The average price increase — from the July listing to the day before the split proposal was announced — was 8.3%. The average gain of these five issues since that time has been 11.5%. Thus investors who selected the issues well before actual split action had an opportunity to share in both rises.

Some well known firms now considered as good split prospects by Spear & Staff include: American Tobacco Corning Glass, Eastman Kodak, Ford, General Foods, Hershey, and Quaker Oats.

Cautioned Roger E. Spear president, "Splits are popular with most investors, since the lower price for the split shares usually broadens the market and helps facilitate higher prices for the issue. Never buy a stock on split prospects alone, however—just look at the possibility as one additional factor of many that you should consider before investing."

State Checking Into Sour Milk Complaints

NEW YORK (AP)—State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz says customer complaints of sour milk resulted in an extra rider on some milk trucks—a state investigator.

The attorney general told a consumer group Monday that the investigators were trying to find out the effects of a recent state law that wiped out the city's milk-dating requirements.

The state is studying delivery and refrigeration methods, including "how long milk is allowed to stay outside a store after delivery," Lefkowitz said.

Road to Communism May Be Bloody and Chaotic

Castro's Marxist-Leninist Line Could Mean Headaches for Moscow, Red China

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fidel Castro is an emotional Marxist, not an intellectual one. And, because he is, his road to communism in Cuba should continue to be unpredictable, erratic, opportunistic, and probably blood and chaotic.

The difference between intellect and emotion in Castro was spelled out in his Saturday broadcast in which he explained how long it took him to become a Marxist-Leninist.

Problem All Around

But then, admitting he is taking Cuba into communism, he said his program will be "Marxist-Leninist but adapted to conditions existing in our country."

This makes him no less a problem for the United States but in time it should also make him a problem for both Moscow and Peiping.

The Russians and Red Chinese are having trouble enough with one another on what road to take without seeing Castro riding off in still another direction like Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito.

It is no wonder Premier Khrushchev, in his Vienna talk with President Kennedy last June, called Castro unstable and said he is not a Communist.

Castro listed three stages in his development which show he became a Marxist as a result of events and not of a cool intellectual determination.

Anti-Red One Time

When he was a student in Havana, son of a rich landowner, he was not a Marxist because he was influenced, he said, by capitalist propaganda. This would indicate he was then anti-Communist. He was 23 when he was graduated from Havana University in 1950 with a law degree and a doctorate.

At 26, he said, his thinking was pretty much as it is now. But, if he can be believed, this can hardly have been the case since he then said he didn't become a Marxist-Leninist until he took over Cuba three years ago at 32.

The Cuban Communists had doubts about him. When he was fighting in the hills against the dictatorship of Fulgencio Batista, which he toppled at the beginning of 1959, the Communists refused to take part in a general strike he called for.

At that time, a State Department white paper said earlier this year, "when Castro first went to the hills the Cuban Communist party dismissed him as 'bourgeois' and 'putschist.'"

Differences Noted

As recently as Nov. 27, 1960, Max Frankel, writing in the New York Times about interviews he had with Communist leaders almost two years after Castro came to power, said: "The party has had its difference with Dr. Castro but they occurred, in the words of one of its leaders, 'before he understood.'"

One of the leaders told Frankel: "In the early days after Castro seized power here the Communist party had many disagreements with him about tactics and ideology. Gradually, however, it was able to convince him that anti-communism was a threat to his revolution and power.

"Thereafter, the ideological differences withered away until now there are only 'little things between us.' Premier Castro does not like a few of our ideas and we do not like a few of his—nothing important."

In short, Castro was had. He bought Marxism not because he had thought it through but because it gave him some sense of direction, which he didn't seem to have, and, above all, it was expedient.

He may have a social consciousness, but if he has a political philosophy it is expediency. If anyone doubts it, look at the record.

Love and Executions

On Jan. 8, 1959, a few days after he took over, he promised to "give the people love." Since then he has executed over 600 people.

The State Department white paper sums it up "The history of the Castro revolution has been the history of the calculated destruction of the free-spirited rebel army—of the disillusion, persecution, imprisonment, exile, and execution of men and women who supported Dr. Castro."

He promised, before he took over, to adhere to the Cuban constitution and he guaranteed freedom of speech and all rights. He went back on them all later.

Castro, judged by his own words and actions, is a man stumbling from one year into the next.

Declares Radar Powerful Weapon In Road Safety

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pennsylvania's new traffic safety program—particularly the controversial radar law—has been an effective force in cutting down the carnage on the state highways, according to Gov. David L. Lawrence.

"It is clear that each part of our new highway safety program is having a direct and highly desirable effect in our state," the governor said Monday.

Speaking before this city's 16th annual Mayor's Highway Safety Conference, Lawrence said radar is fast proving a "great and powerful weapon in the crusade against senseless human slaughter" on the state's highways.

Bennington Fire Checked

BENNINGTON, Vt. (AP)—Extensive damage was caused by flames which swept a North St. business block after they had been controlled earlier.

The fire broke out first shortly after 8 p.m .Monday night and was brought under control about an hour later.

Strong winds whipped up the embers after the firefighting crew had been reduced.

Most seriously damaged was the Montgomery Ward Co. store in the two-story brick structure.

More Data Is Sought in Fish Mine Water Kill

HARRISBURG (AP) — Atty. Gen. David Stahl said today the state Justice Department needs more information before deciding whether to take legal action against the Glen Alden Corp. in the recent Susquehanna fish kill.

"We still need certain technical information from the State Fish Commission," Stahl said in an interview.

Glen Alden was blamed for killing more than 116,000 fish early in October by allegedly dumping polluted mine water into the north branch of the Susquehanna River.

The fish, valued by Fish Commission officials at over $58,000 were found strewn along a 55-mile stretch of the river between Sunbury and Wilkes-Barre.

"We must determine how these estimates were made before we know whether or not we have a legal case against Glen Alden," Stahl said.

Fair Settlement Is Meyner View Of WNTA Sale

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) —Channel 13, WNTA-TV, will be sold to an educational television group but will provide programming specifically designed to meet the needs of New Jersey, according to terms of an agreement announced Monday.

Gov. Robert B. Meyner told a news conference that state officials had reached what he called "a fair settlement of a very difficult question" with the directors of educational television for the Metropolitan Area (ETMA).

National Television Associates, which owns WNTA-TV through a subsidiary, said in New York Monday night the sale would be concluded Friday for $6.2 million in cash.

Bronx Man Gets Jail Term for Welfare Fraud

NEW YORK (AP) —A truck-driver who took the city for a $14,000 welfare relief ride while he was earning $22,000 is ticketed for jail.

"The courts have been silent and lenient for too long in these welfare chiseling cases," County Judge Hyman Korn told Santos Gonzalez Monday.

Gonzalez, 38, of The Bronx, had pleaded guilty to fraudulently taking $14,000 in relief over a five year period. To avoid jail, he offered to make restitution at the rate of $10 a week.

Korn said no.

Dashes to Meter

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Commissioner Edward L. Nadeau had been given parking tickets while attending two previous meetings of the Board of Public Safety.

So, he interrupted a discussion about the operations of the police department—just long enough to dash out and put a nickel in the parking meter.

Study Proposals On Farm Topics

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration is hard at work on proposals to be laid before Congress next month for strengthening its programs to stabilize supplies and prices of farm commodities.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman will confer with an advisory committee on feed grains and what at closed meetings scheduled for Dec. 14-15. Out of this conference may come re ommendations for long-range supply control programs for feed grains and wheat, both surplus crops at present.

Administration farm leaders also plan to confer with dairy leaders on overproduction of milk and the possibility of getting support for legislation authorizing a national marketing order to control output.

Examination Date for Applicants to State University Is Set for January 6 and 7

ALBANY, Dec. 4 — An examination for applicants seeking admission in 1962 to State University's 21 undergraduate colleges will be held January 6 at 50 testing centers throughout the state, and January 7 at New York City. (A list of testing centers is attached.) Applications for the examination must be postmarked no later than December 18. Those postmarked after that date will be assigned to a later test.

Students should write to the colleges in which they are interested for necessary forms. The examination is required of applicants to the following colleges:

State University Colleges at Albany, Brockport, Buffalo, Cortland, Fredonia, Geneseo, New Paltz, Oneonta, Oswego, Plattsburgh, and Potdam; Harpur College; College of Forestry; Maritime College; Long Island Center; Agricultural and Technical Intitutes at Alfred, Canton, Cobleskill, Delhi, Farmingdale, and Morrisville.

Applicants will be admitted to the examination only upon presentation of admission cards, which are included among the forms obtainable from the colleges.

The examination will be repeated February 24, May 5, and July 23 at some of the testing centers where the January 6-7 examinations will be held but applicants are urged to take the test as early as possible.

This examination is not required of students who wish to enroll in the State College of Ceramics at Alfred University, the four state colleges at Cornell University (Agriculture, Home Economics, Veterinary, and School of Industrial and Labor Relations), and the community colleges, which are supervised by State University but are locally sponsored.

Under a new plan which will be put into effect for the first time this year, applicants will have the opportunity to select one or two alternate colleges in which they would be interested if not admitted to the college of first preference. When the college of first choice is unable to accept an applicant, his high school record and admission test scores will be automatically reviewed by admissions officers of the other colleges designated.

The plan is intended to aid well qualified applicants to be admitted to programs in keeping with their interests and abilities at some of the University's colleges when there is no room at the unit of first preference.

Admission to State University colleges is based upon the qualifications of the applicant, and is granted without regard to race, color, creed, or national origin.

B'nai B'rith Youth Convention Committee Seeks Housing for Delegates Dec. 22-25th

As previously announced, Kingston will be the host city of the winter convention of the Upper New York State Region of the B'nai B'rith Youth Organization from December 22 to December 25. Anyone interested in housing a boy or girl for the duration of the convention may contact Marcia Abelove, Wilkie Avenue or Benny Levine, 130 Roosevelt Avenue.

The theme of this year's convention is Spirit, and various seminars and workshops have been planned to build spirit at the convention, prove the importance of spirit in Jewish life, and show the delegates ways to build up spirit in their own chapters.

The delegates will spend Saturday afternoon, Dec. 23, at Temple Emanuel attending seminars. The first one will be Ruach (Spirit) in Biblical times, Ruach in the Warsaw Ghetto, and Ruach in Israel today. Three qualified speakers will each express his ideas on one phase of this topic, and then the seminar will go into discussion groups led by outstanding BBYO members. The conclusions reached by the individual groups will be reported to the whole gathering at a later time.

The second seminar will be on Jewish Campus Life, and will be led by some BBYO alumni who are presently attending college, a recent college graduate, and other well-informed individuals.

The third will be on the topic of Jewish vocations, and will include the first-hand experiences of a rabbi and a Jewish social worker.

Sunday there will be a series of workshops. The first will be a song fest for the purpose of learning new songs of the region and renewing our acquaintance with others. This will be attended by all the delegates. After this the delegates will have a choice of attending one of three workshops. They are:

How to be a discussion leader; Israeli dancing and singing; writing a chapter newspaper.

The program for the remainder of the convention will be announced next week.

ELIMINATING A TROUBLE MAKING MEMBER

Q: About two and a half years ago a group of friends organized a bridge club. We enjoyed these weekly get-togethers very much. About six months ago one of the members moved away and one of the older members proposed a friend of hers to fill the vacant place. She has proved to be a born troublemaker. After every meeting she will take one of the members aside and confidentally tell her that "Mrs. So-and so said such and such about her." As a result a definite reserve has come between the members that has actually changed the friendly spirit that made the club pleasant before this new member joined.

It was quite a while before we even suspected that she was the cause. But now all of us are convinced (except the member who proposed her) that there will be no harmony as long as she is a member. Is there anyway we can eliminate the source of our trouble without hurting anyone's feelings This is a most distressing problem and I hope you can help us.

A: It will be impossible to eliminate this trouble making member without causing hurt feelings. You should ask the member who proposed her to ask her to resign, or hold a club meeting at which you tell her that she has not entered into the friendly spirit that you wish to preserve in the club and ask for her resignation. Another solution would be to disband the club now and then at a later date organize a new one with only the members who are congenial.

Gifts for a Stork Shower

Q: I have been invited to a shower for a mother-to-be. Will you please tell me what type of gift I should bring. Should it be something personal for the mother-to-be or something for her expected baby?

A: Your gift should be something for her expected baby.

A Wedding Day Superstition

Q: Is it true that it is bad luck for the bridegroom to see the bride on the day of her wedding, or does this only apply to seeing her in her bridal dress before the ceremony?

A: Seeing her in her bridal dress is supposed to be the bad luck.

The clothes of the bride and groom as well as those of their attendants are described in the new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled "Clothes of the Bridal Party." To obtain a copy send ten cents in coin to cover cost of handling and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, care of The Freeman.

Here's one of the best stuffings we've ever had. Honestly! Patricia Murphy, author of "Glow of Candlelight," restaurateur and lover of good food and orchids, gave it to us. Try it with your Christmas goose. The toasted sesame seeds and tart apples give it distinctive flavor and consistency.

Roast Goose With Apple-Sesame Stuffing (Makes 8 Servings)

One goose (8 to 10 pounds dressed weight), 2 packages stuffing mix, ½ cup diced celery, ¼ cup dried parsley flakes, 4 tart apples, chopped; 1½ teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons poultry seasoning, ¼ teaspoon coarse black pepper, ½ cup toasted sesame seeds, ½ cup giblet stock, 2 tablespoons minced onion.

Wash goose inside and out; pat dry. Cook giblets to make stock. (Use chopped giblets in gravy.) Prepare stuffing mix as directed on package. Add rest of ingredients; mix thoroughly. If stuffing is not moist enough, add a little more stock to taste. Stuff and truss goose; place on rack in large open roasting pan. Do not add water; do not cover. Roast at 325 degrees F. 4 to 4½ hours until thoroughly done. (If goose is very fat, prick skin lightly after first hour.)

NOTE: To toast sesame seeds, spread seeds in shallow pan and toast in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

With your Christmas goose, serve this compote of prunes and chestnuts. It's also from "Glow of Candlelight."

Compote of Prunes and Chestnuts (Makes 8 Servings)

One half pound large prunes, 1 piece stick cinnamon, 2-inches long, 1 tablespoon sugar, 4 thick slices lemon, ½ pound chestnuts.

Soak prunes several hours or overnight in cold water to cover. Cook in same water, adding cinnamon, sugar and lemon juice, until soft. Cool. Remove lemon slices and cinnamon; pit prunes and return to juice. Meanwhile, cut a deep slit in each chestnut. Cover chestnuts with water; boil 20 miutes; drain. As soon as chestnuts are cool enough to handle, peel; cut in half; add to prunes. Serve hot as an accompaniment to goose or duckling.

Patricia Murphy gave us one of her favorite menus for a formal Christmas dinner:

Christmas Dinner

Oysters on the half shell, roast goose with apple-sesame stuffing, compote of prunes and chestnuts, creamed onions with nutmeg, sweet potatoes glace, assorted rolls, butter or margarine, celery hearts, radishes, carrot sticks, brandied mincemeat pie, pumpkin chiffon pie, black coffee, salted nuts.

Priest Shows Movies

QUARRYVILLE, Pa. (AP) — The Rev. John R. Campion, pastor of St. Catherine's Catholic Church, came up with an idea recently which he says serves a two-fold purpose.

Father Campion began showing feature-length movies and cartoons each Friday night in the church's social hall.

The idea, he explained, was to help encourage Friday night shopping in Quarryville. Parents can leave their children at the social hall to enjoy the movies.

The second purpose is to entertain both youngsters and adults. This small southeastern Pennsylvania community has no theater.

Teaching Tools, Machines Used as Classroom Aids

The public hears a good bit today about so-called teaching machines.

Actually, the term "teaching machine" properly refers to any mechanical device used in the classroom to supplement the instruction given by the teacher. What are some of the teaching machines currently in use in the Saugerties Central Schools? They include the following: (1) a television set in each of the four major buildings, (2) movie projectors, (3) film projectors, (4) opaque projectors, (5) tape recorders, (6) an overhead viewer (in use in the science department), (7), language lab.

Samples of programed material such as is normally used on so-called teaching machines are now being purchased for each of the major elementary buildings.

Movie films are secured from two different univrsity libraries. Films for use in the high school are chiefly secured from Syracuse University. Films for use in the grades are chiefly secured from State University College at Oneonta.

One of the best teaching machines in current use is the film strip machine. Some of its advantages are the following; It is relatively inexpensive. But perhaps one of the chief reasons for their being well fitted to classroom use is that any one given picture may be held on the screen for an indefinite length of time until it has been thoroughly discussed by the class and by the teacher.

Patterson Floors McNeeley Eight Times, Stops Him in 4th

★ ★ ★ ★

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

TORONTO (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson's fourth round knockout of lion-hearted Tom McNeeley Jr., in a wild, eight-knockdown brawl and Sonny Liston's dynamic one-punch blitz of Albert Westphal stirred up the possibility today of a $10-million showdown between the two victors.

The battle of the Sixties may not come off soon. Although Patterson, according to those very close to him, wants it badly, Liston hungers for it, and promoters Al and Tom Bolan, among others, desire it, cautious Cus D'Amato, the champ's manager, is in no hurry.

More to Cus' liking for the next fight is Henry Cooper, the British heavyweight champion, who meets contender Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz., in London tonight. That's what D'Amato told the Associated Press.

Patterson, unmarked and very fresh after his victory Monday night, declined to answer when asked if he would give Liston a crack at the title. He merely pointed to his manager.

"Liston can have a fight next week if he wants it," said D'Amato. "He knows what he must do to get it. It is up to him. That is all I can say."

He declined to elaborate.

Wants Early Fight

Patterson said he would like to fight again early next year.

Liston, after flattening Westphal with one right hand to the jaw in 1:55 of the first round at Philadelphia's Convention Hall, said "I'm ready for him right now."

"He's been scared of me for more than a year and a half," said Liston, the reinstated No. 1 contender from Philadelphia who has had several scrapes with the law.

The Patterson-McNeeley wingding in which Patterson went down on a so-called slip, at Maple Leaf Gardens, and the Liston-Westphal quickie formed a closed-circuit television double-header that was shown in about 150 theatres and arenas in the United States and Canada. It was also beamed to homes in 51 community antenna community systems.

Irving B. Kahn, president of TelePrompTer, which handles the ancillary rights (TV, radio, movies), estimated that he could line up 1,500,000 seats at an average $5 a head for a Patterson-Liston fight. The gate at a place like New York's Yankee Stadium could produce a $2.5-million gross at a $100 top, experts figured.

A Real Thriller

The Patterson-McNeeley scrap was a thriller from the very start. There were so many knockdowns and slips that arguments raged as to whether the former Michigan State football tackle was down eight, nine or ten times, and whether Patterson actually was dropped or slipped in the fourth round.

The Associated Press count had McNeeley down eight times where he was given the mandatory eight-counts, and twice on slips which might have been knockdowns.

Referee Jersey Joe Walcott, the former heavyweight champion, ruled there were two slips by McNeeley and that Patterson went down on a slip in the fourth round.

McNeeley, a strong, 6-2, 197-pounder, was knocked down once in the first round, four times in the third, and three times in the 2:51 fourth round. Walcott ruled he also slipped once in the first round and once in the third.

Patterson admitted he was hurt a couple of times in the third and fourth rounds.

"I knew when I was hit in the fourth round," said the champion, trim at 188½ pounds, "but I was never seriously in trouble."

Although he had the brawny but inexperienced McNeeley going up and down like a rubber ball, Patterson still didn't look like a 10-1 favorite. Crude as he was the crewcut blond from Arlington, Mass., gave the slick champion plenty of trouble.

Storms Back

After being knocked down twice in the third round, McNeeley, blood trickling from a wound under his right eye, stormed after Patterson like a wild man. He belted the surprised champion with a right to the jaw that hurt and brought roars from the crowd.

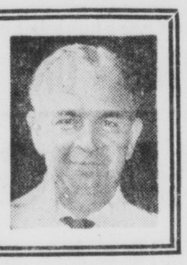

But Patterson took over and dropped McNeeley twice more officially and once more with a punch but the last was ruled a slip.

The challenger, who had been unbeaten in 23 previous fights in a 3 1-3 year career, brought the fans to their feet in the fatal fourth when he clouted Patterson with a right. The champ's knees appeared to buckle and his hand touched the canvas, helping him to leap up quickly. That was when Walcott called it a slip.

Then Patterson, with his cornermen calling for him to press the attack, tore in and felled his bleeding victim for two eight counts with barrages and then finally with a left-hand combination to the jaw for the full count of ten.

It was Patterson's ninth title fight, all of them ending in knockouts. He lost one to Ingemar Johansson. Patterson's record now is 38-2 including 29 knockouts.

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

With the Hudson Valley Women's League now just a bad dream, the sound and the fury seems to be mising from area women's tenpin circles.

Rose Schatzel reigns supreme as The Queen of mid-Hudson female keglers. Hilda Murphy is rolling her games in distant Ithaca and Syracuse.

When the HVWBL was in action and Mesdames Schatzel and Murphy were vieing for high avearge honors, there was a note of the dramatic in every weekly outing. Hilda Murphy was the only serious challenger to Rose's reign in two decades. Both were better bowlers for it.

A half dozen women have cracked the "600" circle to date, including Mrs. Schatzel, who has a 700; Evelyn Gross, Rosemary Pillsworth, Marian Sanford of Saugerties and Barbara Clark. Miss Pillsworth has found the "600" range twice and could seriously Challenge Sis Balash for seasonal dramatics. Schatzel and Gross have rolled so many 600s in their career that another one occasions nothing more than a polite yawn on the part of the bowling fans.

• A New Star

Vince Carpino is probably the top new find of the 1961-62 season. An accomplished bowler last season, Carpino launched the new year with a flurry of 600 triples that have kept him above the 200-average mark in the Hudson Valley league through the first three months...Three Brothers Egg Farms came face to faee with the moment of truth Saturday night at the Bowlerama, while the surprising Charles Ramsey Corp., swept three to throw the HVL race into a three-way tie among the three Kingston entries—3 Brothers, Jones Dairy and Ramseys. The intra-city rivalry between these squads may generate interest in the fast fading Hudson Valley league for which Kingston furnished 40 percent of the entries. Because of its unrealistic rules, the HVL has degenerated into a house league in recent years. Only wide open rosters could restore the pristine elegance of the league. The Kingston rivalries create a lot of steam in the city, but the big names are missing in the hinterlands. When the Poughkeepsie hotshots (Versace, Charter, et al) dropped from the league, much of the quality went with it. Any mid-Hudson circuit without powerful representation from Poughkeepsie and Newburgh is just an all-star league in name. Meanwhile, let us not criticize the feuds rampant among the Kingston squads. It's a healthy thing for the sport.

• Splits and Misses:

Individual and team records account for the remainder. All of which makes Gus Vasilekos, the league operator, mighty happy...The KWBA's charity tournament this week deserves the support of every women bowler in the association...Jerry Kaplan is flirting with a title once held for many years by Dick Howard...Deadline for advance reservations for the 1962 New York State women's championships in Kingston is Dec. 15, just 10 ten days away. After Dec. 15 all entries will be processed on a first come, first served basis. The 1961 tournament in Niagara Falls set an all-time record for team entries with 2,682 teams, but the ladies of the NYSWBA and KWBA will not let that stand, if possible. The KWBA plans to field at least 100 teams from within the association...Membership in the state association to date is 160,809, with the previous record of 196,815 definitely in jeopardy by the end of the season...Rose Schatzel's 700 is second highest individual series in the state this season. The No. 1 slam was the 738 rolled by Leila Pattison of Rochester. Others in the top five: Ruth Legler, Rochester, 697; Terru Griffen, Buffalo, 681, and Bea Taylor, Buffalo, 678,. Best single to date is the 279 rolled by Evelyn Jenkins of Buffalo. Simon Pure Beer and Ale of Buffalo holds both team records of 1047 and 3001.

Alabama Voted Top Grid Team

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Alabama was voted the 1961 Associated Press national football champion today, a goal set for the Crimson Tide by master rebuilder Paul (Bear) Bryant.

In the final poll of board members, defense-minded Alabama drew 452 of a possible 480 points to edge Big Ten champion Ohio State which collected 436.

Coach Bryant's eleven concluded a perfect season by crushing Auburn 34-0 Saturday, their fifth straight shutout, and will face ninth-ranked Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl. 'Bama is riding a 17-game winning streak.

Texas vaulted over Louisiana State into third spot, 348 points to 335. Mississippi, Minnesota, Colorado, Michigan State, Arkansas and Utah State complete the top 10 selected on the basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, nine for second and so forth.

Bryant, the "other end" from Don Hutson in 1934, returned to his alma mater four years ago. As he had done previously at Maryland, Kentucky and Texas AvM, Bryant inherited a loser but quickly converted it into a winner.

1st In 26 Years

Though this is the first national crown for Alabama in the 26 years of the AP poll, it is the third for a Southeastern Conference team in the past five seasons.

The Tide's seventh unbeaten, untied campaign—first since the 1945 unit led by Harry Gilmer—is built on a grudging defense as was that of Auburn (1957) and LSU (1958). Alabama led the nation in defense against scoring, allowing only 22 points, as well as in total defense and rushing defense yardage. Bryant's boys surrendered two touchdowns on passes, one on the ground, a field goal and a conversion kick.

Bryant, a superb recruiter and harsh taskmaster, did not relent until the ninth game of the 10-game schedule. When his charges whipped Georgia Tech 10-0, Bear said: "They convinced me they are a great team."

The final poll results with first-place votes in parenthesis:

1.	Alabama (26)	452
2.	Ohio State (20)	436
3.	Texas	348
4.	Louisiana State (1)	335
5.	Mississippi (1)	284
6.	Minnesota	225
7.	Colorado	171
8.	Michigan State	128
9.	Arkansas	105
10.	Utah State	33

Liston Still Hoping For Fight With Floyd

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sonny Liston says very little. Still, one gets the impression Liston feels heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson won't give him a shot at the title.

Liston and Patterson fought on the same card Monday night in different cities and against different opponents. In a closed circuit TV fight doubleheader, Liston, 212¼, knocked out Albert Westphal, 195, of Germany in 1:58 of the first round before 4,000 fans in Philadelphia's Convention Hall.

After the Philadelphia heavyweight fired a right cross to the jaw rendering the German master baker senseless for about three minutes, Patterson successfully defended his crown against Tom McNeeley, knocking out the Arlington, Mass., challenger in 2:51 of the fourth round at Toronto, Canada.

Liston didn't even bother to shower or dress. He swished a robe over his trunks and hurried to a nearby room to watch the Patterson-McNeeley fight.

Tough Subject

Liston said virtually nothing as sports writers pressed him for comment after each round. He did comment after the third that Patterson was missing a lot of punches.

Then it was over and Patterson was asked about his future plans. Would he fight Sonny Liston next?

Patterson professed "the greatest respect for Sonny Liston—in the ring." The champ had dodged the question.

Westphal admitted he came to this country for the $12,000 purse, a $1,750 expense account and three airplane tickets, and with an everything to gain nothing to lose philosophy. The former German heavyweight champion, now ranked No. 4, never had a chance in a colossal mismatch.

Liston chased the German for a bit, then lashed out with a right cross that caught Westphal flush on the jaw. He toppled to the canvas, being counted out by referee Zach Clayton.

The right cross was the first solid punch Liston threw. It was all he needed for win No. 33, knockout No. 23 in a 34-fight career.

Wilt Chamberlain Aiming for 3700 Points for the Season

Both Wilt Chamberlain of Philadelphia and Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles played three games this past week and both players dropped 1/10th per cent in their per game averages, Chamberlain going from 46.3 to 46.2, while Baylor fell from 34.7 to 34.6 per contest. Chamberlain picked up 34 points on Baylor during the week and has now totaled 970 to the Los Angeles Star's 797. If Chamberlain continues at his present rate of scoring, he'll hit 3700 for the full season's play. He will be aided by the addition of one game to the current NBA schedule.

Two other NBA performers are averaging 30 points or better per game. Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati is hitting at a 30.2 clip, while Richie Guerin of the N. Y. Knicks has an even 30.0 average. Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks and Jerry West of Los Angeles are next in the averages with 28.9 and 28.7 per game, respectively. Sixteen of the loop's top 20 individual scorers are averaging 20 points or better per contest, as compared to thirteen 20 point artists last year in the corresponding week.

Rookie, Walt Bellamy of Chicago, continues to pace the field goal accuracy race with a .506 followed by Clyde Lovellette of St. Louis who has been sharpshooting at .499. Oscar Robertson has bettered his shooting percentage during the week by moving from .469 to .478 where he holds a 1/10th percentage point lead over Bill Russell of Boston who's hitting .477. Johnny Kerr of Syracuse has moved into the fifth position with .474.

Free Throw Leaders

Gene Shue of Detroit has replaced Larry Costello of Syracuse, leader for two weeks, in the free throw department with .861. Dolph Schayes of Syracuse is second, .849, followed by Costello with .846. Paul Arizin of Philadelphia is hitting at .839 while Willie Naulls of New York is in fifth place with .838.

The rebounders are the same five who led the pack last week, headed by Chamberlain who has snagged 548 retrieves to 467 for Russell and 413 for Bob Pettit of St. Louis. Baylor and Wayne Embry of Cincinnati complete the top quintet of rebounders.

Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati maintained his assist lead, but yielded some ground, dropping from 12 assists per contest to 11.6. The veteran Bob Cousy of Boston, hobbled by a knee injury, has jumped to second place with 171 assists to Robertson's 278, and is feeding at the rate of 9.5 per tilt. Richie Guerin of New York, Guy Rodgers of Philadelphia and Jerry West of Los Angeles are the other members of the big 5 among the playmakers.

Fewer Mistakes Give Packers First Place

"If a player makes a mistake, he should know it. You shouldn't have to tell him about it," says Vince Lombardi, coach of the Green Bay Packers, Western Conference Champions of the National Football League for the second straight year.

"And if he doesn't know it," Lombardi adds, "he's not the kind of player you want on your team. There's no need to tell a boy about a mistake after a game. If we all do our jobs during the week, Sundays will take care of themselves."

That the Green Bay Packers have been working during the week is obvious. They have won 10, lost 2, and last Sunday defeated the New York Giants of the Eastern Conference.

Look at the Record

On way to analyze that impressive record is by a look at the Packers' mistakes, or rather at the scarcity of them.

In the 1960 season, when Green won the Western title with an 8-4 record, the Packers had 13 passes intercepted and fumbled 18 times, losing just 12 of them.

In the same number of games this season, the Packers have had only 12 passes intercepted and have fumbled only 15 times, losing 9 of them.

In their 20-17 victory over the Giants, the Packers fumbled four times, but lost only one. Green Bay twice had passes intercepted.

Willie Wood, the defensive halfback who this year replaced veteran Emlen Tunnell in the Packer secondary, says: "I'm always worried about making the big mistakes, the kind that can cost you six points."

There are no statistics on these kind—the missed assignment on defense, the missed block, the wrong signal, but when you check the departments in which the Packers are team leaders, it's readily seen Green Bay is anything but mistake-prone.

The Packers lead the NFL in scoring (346 points), defense against scoring (184 points), first downs rushing (121), net rushing yardage (2074), average yards per rush (5.1), touchdowns scored (43), and extra points (43).

In the tables of individual statistical leaders, the only one not listing a Packer among the leaders is pass interception, and Green Bay leads the West, as a team, in that category with 27.

Trojans Score Win Over Cats

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Southern Cal's up-and-down Trojans ended their foray through the Midwest and South on an ascending note and started home today with a 2-1 record and a precarious hold on the No. 4 spot in the national college basketball ratings.

The Trojans, definitely down in a weekend upset by Oklahoma, closed their road trip on the rebound, disappointing Kentucky's hopeful young Wildcats 79-77 Monday night.

The loss, Kentucky's first in two starts, put at least a kink in the sophomore-dominated Wildcats' hopes of gaining a national rating. The victory was a must for the Trojans.

They achieved it by a solid defense and the scoring heroics of John Rudometkin, who had 29 points and gave Southern Cal the go-ahead basket at 4:19, establishing a 78-77 lead.

Kentucky, which overcame a nine-point deficit early in the last half, held a 77-74 lead with 5:08 to go—then went stone cold and failed to score again.

Irish Win 59-58

Their match topped a heavy Monday slate which also included Notre Dame's 59-58 overtime decision over Northwestern, South Carolina's 79-66 victory over Tennessee and Texas Tech's narrow 84-82 win over Colorado.

Among the top games tonight are the visit of Miami of Ohio to mighty Cincinnati, the talent-rich defending NCAA champion; North Carolina State at powerful Wake Forest, West Virginia at VMI and Southern Methodist at Oklahoma.

For thrills, the Notre Dame-Northwestern affair must rank high. The lead changed hands 22 times before Northwestern gained possession with three minutes left and the score tied 57-57.

The Wildcats controlled the ball the rest of the way, waiting for a last second shot. Capt. Ralph Wells took it as time ran out—and missed a layup. John Matthews drove in for the winning basket with only three seconds left as Notre Dame chalked up its victory.

Tearful Loser Assures Father He Did His Best

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

TORONTO (AP) — As Tom McNeeley Jr., said in tears to Tom McNeeley Sr. as he left the ring after he had been knocked out in the fourth round by Floyd Patterson: "I tried, dad. I really tried."

The crowd of 7,813 that paid $106,740 at Maple Leaf Gardens Monday night shouted their agreement. When Tom Jr., left the ring after eight knockdowns and two or more "slipdowns," they gave the fighting Irishman a rousing cheer.

"Each time I hit him, he kept getting up," said Patterson after his successful defense of the world heavyweight title. "He had plenty of fight, a lot of courage."

Patterson even tried to help McNeeley to his feet after one knockdown. Asked later why he did it, Patterson said, "Why shouldn't I help him? He was hurt."

Referee Jersey Joe Walcott, the heavyweight champ nimself in 1951 and 1952, also praised McNeeley's courage.

"I thought of stopping it earlier," said Walcott. "But it looked like McNeeley had a chance to recover. It was a championship fight and as long as it looked like he had a chance to continue it would have been an injustice to stop it until I was sure he couldn't go further."

McNeeley had his one big chance in the fourth when he nailed the champ as Floyd sailed in for the kill after the first of three knockdowns in the round. Patterson wobbled and started to go down. His glove appeared to hit the deck but it was ruled a slip.

"That was no slip," said the 24-yearold challenger who used to play football at Michigan State. "I really hit him. I tried to finish it then but Patterson was too elusive. That was my chance but I couldn't capitalize on it."

A Holy Terror

Nobody Likes Gene Fullmer; But They Pay to Watch Him

By BILL McCORMICK
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Gene Fullmer is as contradictory as a Soviet disarmament plan.

Outside the ring, the paradoxical pugilist from Utah is as nice a guy as you'd want to meet, as gentle as an egg-crater and as considerate as a newlywed. When the fight starts, Gene does a quick switch from Dr. Jekyll to Mr. Hyde. He gets as rude as an untipped waiter and as rough as a beatnik's beard.

He has a lackluster style that makes him as boring to watch as a television spectacular, yet he draws big gates and top television money—and has provided a few great thrills.

A butt-and-grab artist with practically no punch who fights like he couldn't flatten Grandma Moses, Fullmer has scored knockouts in more than a third of his 59 bouts. He swarms over opponents like the crickets that invaded his land in 1848 and eventually wears them down.

The holy terror from West Jordan defends his share of the middleweight title against Cuba's Benny Kid Paret in Las Vegas, Nev., Dec. 9, with, everything to lose and nothing—but a good payday—to gain. Paret, welterweight champion by grace of astigmatism, will not be risking the title he won when two judges with blurred vision voted him the winner over Emile Griffith in New York in September.

Fullmer, 30, is a 1 to 3 favorite to butt, gouge, wrestle and backhand his way to victory over the 24-year-old refugee from Castroland, thereby adding to his ring unpopularity and bank account.

GENE FULLMER

In nine title fights, Gene has lost more friends than Nikita Khrushchev and attracted $1,146,673 worth of live customers and an additional $1,025,000 in TV fees.

Started Early

Gene comes by both his fighting prowess and peacetime gentleness naturally. He was named after Gene Tunney, the former heavyweight champion. Gene's pop was a noted street fighter in West Jordan, who bore the nickname "Tuff" for obvious reasons. His mom, Mary, was a gentle soul and a pillar of the church.

At 12 Gene fibbed about his age and entered amateur competition, winning the Utah Golden Gloves title four times and Inter-Mountain AAU championships five times.

Fullmer turned professional in 1951, scoring 19 knockouts in winning his first 29 fights. He won the middleweight title for the first time in January, 1957, from Sugar Ray Robinson by decision. He was knocked out by Robinson in May of the same year.

Fullmer won back the National Boxing Association version of the title by stopping Carmen Basilio in 14 rounds in San Francisco. In subsequent bouts against Robinson, Fullmer had a draw and a decision victory.

An Elder in the Mormon Church, Gene Fullmer doesn't drink—not even tea or coffee—and he doesn't smoke.

But he certainly burns up the customers and smokes out ring opposition.

Both players showed the effects of their baptism to tournament competition. The best run of the night was a cluster of 15 by Bahl. East pocketed high string of 12.

NL Draft Sets Stage For War

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—The drafting of players has been completed by both the National and American Football Leagues. Now comes the one which pays off—the bank draft.

The National Football League conducted its player procurement program Monday by grabbing 280 players in 20 rounds. Washington's winless Redskins got the No. 1 pick and chose halfback Ernie Davis of Syracuse, the Heisman Trophy winner.

The AFL held its draft Saturday. Both leagues, on the whole, had the same players in their early round selections, setting the stage for another spiral of bonuses and big money contracts.

Davis typified what is expected to be the bartering tempo between the two leagues. Previously drafted by Buffalo of the American League, Davis said: "I'll go where I can get the best deal, be happy and have a long future, supplemented by a good off-season job."

Also a factor in the bidding will be the Canadian Football League in its annual drive to get U.S. college stars. The NFL draft turned into a telephone marathon with each team trying to contact prospects to learn if they have signed elsewhere and if they will be available to play professional football

Commissioner Pete Rozelle put a limit of 15 minutes for each team to determine its selection. Even so, the first four rounds took up seven hours. The 20th and final round was completed after 14 hours about 1:30 a.m.

Next Two Choices

Los Angeles snatched the next two top choices after Washington had selected Davis. The Rams, by virtue of a previous swap of draft choices, selected quarterback Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State and then picked Merlin Olsen of Utah State in its own right.

Dallas was up next, but it had traded its rights to Cleveland and the Browns selected end Gary Collins of Maryland. When the time came for Cleveland to choose, the selection was halfback Leroy Jackson of Western Illinois.

This led to speculation that Washington might trade Davis—the first Negro player it ever had drafted—to Cleveland for Collins and halfback Bobby Mitchell, a proven NFL star who played college football at Illinois. Both clubs denied such a deal was in the works.

Pittsburgh made fullback Bob Ferguson of Ohio State its No. 1 choice, and the St. Louis Cardinals picked tackle Fate Echols of Northwestern and then added center Irvin Goode of Kentucky because of a previous trade of draft selections with Philadelphia.

The Chicago Bears went to fullback Ron Bull of Baylor; San Francisco chose Lance Alworth of Arkansas; Baltimore took halfback Wendell Harris of LSU; Detroit picked quarterback John Hadl of Kansas; New York's selection was end Jerry Hillebrand of Colorado; and Green Bay grabbed Earl Gros of LSU.

Andy Kerr Claims Wingback Offense Needs Reverse Play

NEW YORK (AP)—Andy Kerr, former guiding genius of Colgate football, says teams with the fashionable spread-formation offenses are overlooking the old wingback reverse, which brought him fame.

Kerr, 80, said, "this shotgun offense so popular today is nothing more than a spread version of the old double wing. It's not a short punt formation, a popular misconception.

"This attack is set for passing nine out of 10 plays. But the wingback reverse is being forgotten. It would be twice as effective because no one is expecting it, the defenses are spread and the ball carrier can get off a full step faster than in my days at Colgate."

Not Many Fumbles

He said the play, properly executed, "should produce a fumble not more than once in 100 tries. All the success I enjoyed was due to reverses off the double wing."

He continued:

"Football goes in cycles, of course. The defense has caught up with the straight T-formation with a man in motion and with the split-T. That's why the return to the spreads and double wings used when Sammy Baugh was with the Washington Redskins."

Kerr was in New York Monday to promote the East-West Shrine game at San Francisco Dec. 30.

His most famous team was his 1932 Red Raiders. He labelled them "unbeaten, untied, unscored upon—and uninvited" when they were overlooked in bowl selections.

Early Introduction

Kerr said his introduction to football came at the age of 10.

"The first game I saw at Dickinson College in Pennsylvania," he said. "I saw the center for Dickinson dive under the pile trying to break up the flying wedge. I still consider it one of the greatest exhibitions of raw courage I've ever seen."

Kerr now is in his 35th year with the East-West game as an advisory coach for the East.

"I have the greatest coaching job in the world," he said.

"On the East team we have unlimited material, play only one game, are guaranteed a sellout every season—and there are no alumni."

Togetherness

LOS ANGELES (NEA)—Barron Hilton says American Football League owners are determined to stand together. The owner of the San Diego Chargers says the magnates will find other cities, should it become necessary, for the weaker members. He insists there will be no defections to the National Football League. Hilton believes that the New York Titans have only to mark time until they get into the new Flushing Meadows Municipal Stadium.

Mt. Marion Man Still Serious, Following Crash

A Mt. Marion man, injured when his automobile left Glasco Turnpike on Glenerie Hill early Saturday, pinning him under the vehicle for over four hours, was reported still in serious condition at Kingston Hospital today.

Kingston troopers said Wade Page, 28 of Mt. Marion suffered from multiple bruises and a possible fracture of the left leg.

Troopers John Salters and W. E. Wiedemann reported Page was proceeding down Glasco Turnpike toward Route 9W on Glenerie Hill when his car failed to negotiate a curve to the right, went through a guard rail and plunged down a 30-foot embankment. The car rolled over and lodged against some trees preventing it from falling into Esopus Creek at that point. Page was pinned under the car for over four hours before a passing motorist saw the overturned vehicle and came to the operator's rescue, troopers said.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—As a last gesture of a full life, Leo Carrillo tossed a bouquet to his longtime love, California.

The result is on the bookstands now — "The California I Love" (Prentice-Hall, $7.50). While it tells little of the man Carrillo, it is a splendid view of a California that is fast disappearing among the tracts and freeways.

"The adobe is my birthstone," he writes, telling of his beginnings near the birthplace of Los Angeles itself—the Old Plaza. He carefully neglects reporting the year he was born. He was an actor who wanted to play the role of the dashing caballero even when he was pushing 80.

Carrillo had good reason for his pride in California. His great, great grandfather had made the trek from Mexico with Father Serra and Capt. Gaspar de Portola in 1769. The Carrillos couldn't have gotten here sooner unless they were Indians.

The first half of "The California I Love" is a fascinating remembrance of the sleepy pueblo of Los Angeles. The Angelenos had their fiestas and horse races to brighten the plesant monotony of the weather.

The book throws some light on the rather cloudy origin of the name Hollywood. Carrillo wrote that a real estate promoter named Wilcox was viewing some property he had marked for subdivision. He asked a Mexican boy the name of some hillside plants that were bright with red berries.

"In Spanish it is toyon, but in English it is holly—wood," said the boy, copying the Spanish custom of following a plant name with "madera," meaning wood.

Carrillo (he pronounced it cayreel-yoo) treats his acting career rather briefly in the book. His introduction to show business seems casual, being an outgrowth of the dialect stories he heard in his youth.

He became a vaudeville headliner with his Chinese, Mexican, Italian and Japanese stories. In those days a comedian could use dialect in a warm-hearted way without being accused of ridiculing a minority.

Carrillo was best known to this generation as Pancho of "Cisco Kid" but he had little love for the TV series.

Leo Carrillo left his testament and his mark. The Tournament of Roses parade on New Year's Day won't seem the same without him.

Reports Remains Not Earhart's

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —The fate of American aviatrix Amelia Earhart, last heard from as she winged across the Pacific with navigator Fred Noonan on July 2, 1937, remains shrouded by time and space.

Dr. Theodore McCown, a University of California anthropologist, said Monday seven pounds of bones and teeth dug up on Saipan were not those of Miss Earhart and Noonan.

He said X-ray and microscopic tests proved the bones and teeth were those of Orientals.

The remains had been unearthed by San Francisco radio announcer Fred Goerner who sent them to Dr. McCown for analysis.

Ranchers Assail Grassland Plan

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Flint Hills grasslands of Kansas should be kept for Herefords instead of buffalo, belligerent ranchers told Secretary of the Interior Udall Monday.

The ranchers were indignant over a proposal that 57,000 acres northeast of Manhattan be converted into a prairie national park, where buffalo, deer and antelope could roam as in olden times.

About 125 persons crowded into the Pottawatomie County Courthouse at Westmoreland and gave Udall petitions signed by nearly 300 opposing the park.

Earlier, Carl Bellinger, 50, cattleman, ordered Udall off a pasture where the secretary and a 20-member inspection party landed in two Army helicopters.

"The old cow is my business," Bellinger said, "and if this park goes in a lot of us here aren't going to have any business left."

Park officials say the prairie must be preserved so future generations may know what the frontier was like.

"What do they mean, preserved?" Bellinger asked a newsman. "This pasture is in a lot better shape than it was 40 years ago."

Udall expressed sympathy over disruption of the rancher's lives, but he predicted everyone would be better off in 10 years if the park is established.

Congress has to approve the project. Rep. William Avery, Republican, who represents this district, has introduced a bill to establish the park.

Jan. 10 Meeting Called

OAS to Consider Castro Sanctions

By BEN F. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign ministers of the American republics will meet next month to consider economic and political sanctions against the Communist government of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The Jan. 10 meeting, site to be designated, was called Monday by the Organization of American States. The OAS Council voted 14 to 2 for a Colombian resolution aimed straight at Cuba, although it didn't mention it by name.

Cites Defense Treaty

Citing the mutual defense treaty binding the 21 Western Hemisphere nations, Colombia asked a foreign ministers meeting to consider "threats to the peace and political independence of the American states that could arise from the intervention of extra-continental powers—"

Only Cuba and Mexico voted no. Mexico based its vote on juridicial grounds.

Cuba called the OAS action "an effort by the United States to gain accomplices for a new invasion of Cuba."

If the foreign ministers decide Castro's Cuba is a threat to peace in the Western Hemisphere, they can invoke sanctions similar to those levied against the Trujillo dictatorship in the Dominican Republic. They also can consider other courses of action.

Far-Reaching Action

Diplomatic circles said Monday's action was one of the most far-reaching ever taken by the OAS.

Last Saturday Castro in a television speech in Havana announced that he is a Marxist and that Cuba's government is in full accord with Communist ideas.

The position of the 14 countries supporting the anti-Castro proposal in the OAS presumably had been decided before the speech. But the Castro speech may have turned some "no" votes into abstentions. Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Ecuador previously had been understood to be considering negative votes. They joined Bolivia in abstaining.

Says U.S. View Builds Hatred Against Chinese

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —A concerted Asian-African attack on the U.S. attempt to bar Red China from the United Nations built up steam today as the General Assembly buckled down to a long, stormy debate on the Chinese seating issue.

Ceylon, one of 17 Asian-African nations which has diplomatic relations with Peiping, launched the drive Monday with one of the sharpest assaults ever made in the United Nations on Washington's China policy.

Ceylonese Ambassador G. P. Malalsekera charged that the United States was building up a "wall of hatred" between the American and Chinese people that could lead to World War III.

He assailed U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson's speech to the assembly urging the United Nations to keep the door closed to Red China.

"There are apparently not only two Chinas in American thinking but also two Stevensons," the Ceylonese declared. "There is the Stevenson of the brilliant premises, and alas, to my disappointment, the Stevenson of the same old conclusions."

Communist China, warned Malalsekera, will soon become a nuclear power.

"When that day comes," he said "the United States will be confronted by two mighty nuclear powers, and that two-front war which was America's nightmare in World War II will re-emerge as the double nuclear front of the future."

Delegates anticipated a lot more strong words against America's China policy from a parade of other Asian-African nations including India, which for 11 years has led the drive to seat Peiping in place of Nationalist China.

With 60 speakers still listed to take part, assembly consideration of the issue is expected to continue until Christmas, dashing any hopes that the assembly session will end before the New Year.

Fading Dialect Recorded

WARM SPRINGS, Ore (AP) —The Warm Springs Indian dialect, closely related to that of the Yakima, Walla Walla and other Western tribes, is being recorded on tape and a dictionary is being compiled. Delbert Frank, a Warm Springs Indian, is doing the work which he says is complicated by lack of a written language. He is using phonetics in compiling the dictionary. Frank says there are only a hundred words in common usage but some express a complete thought. He says only the old people use the language now.

5 Are Wounded In D.R. Violence

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Angry antigovernment crowds stood off a band of about 20 hoodlums Monday, thwarting an army-police attempt to whip up mob violence against the week-old general strike seeking to topple the regime of President Joaquin Balaguer.

The ragged ruffians, led by two uniformed policemen and an air force officer with a machine gun, were all that responded to army appeals to residents of Santo Domingo's slums to rise against the striking shopkeepers and loot their stores.

At least five persons were wounded by fragments from noise bombs hurled at the mobs. Another man was shot in the thigh and a shopkeeper was beaten by the toughs.

The armed forces had withdrawn all troops from riot duty in the capital and soldiers with loudspeakers toured the slum section inviting the populace to break into shuttered stores.

The small band which responded was met by a huge antigovernment crowd which battled the club-wielding terrorists with rocks and slingshots.

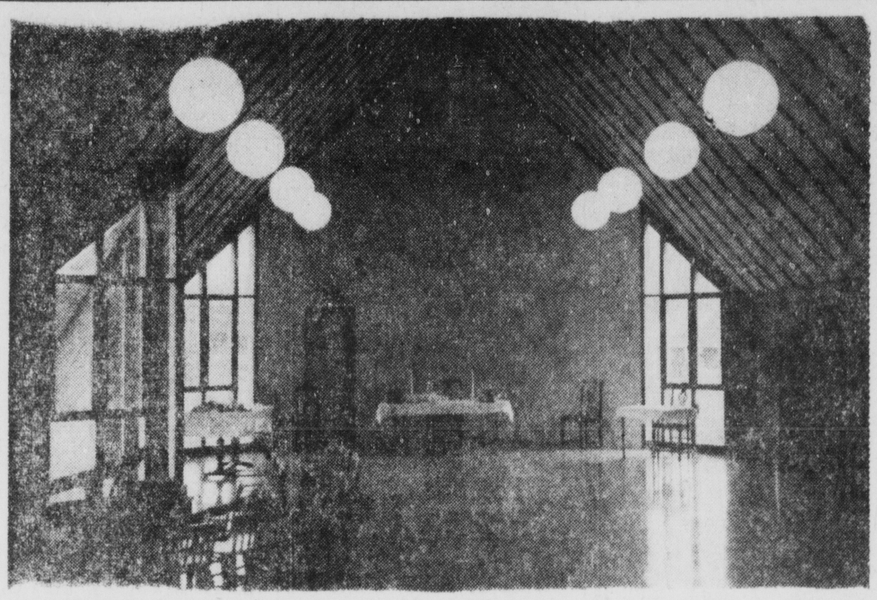

The riot troops moved back into the city in large numbers as the sundown curfew approached, and the mobs scattered. Late Monday night some explosions were heard in various parts of the city.

Federico Jose Oyarzun, Chilean delegate to the Organization of American States, arrived to try to mediate between Balaguer and opposition forces seeking to replace his regime by a provisional junta with no holdovers from the Trujillo dictatorship.

The Chilean government said both Balaguer and the opposition had asked for a mediator. Opposition sources said they had no advance notice of his mission.

A tree survey covering the more important public roads and highways of the township of Woodstock was undertaken this summer by the Woodstock Tree Trust, it is reported in Circular Letter No. 3 to the 44 contributors of the trust.

The Woodsock Tree Trust is a non-profit organization dedicated to the setting out and preservation of trees in areas of public interest in the township of Woodstock.

The management of the fund and the day-to-day operations of the trust are carried out by a Management Committee of seven citizens of the Town of Woodstock as follows: The town supervisor, two officers of the Woodstock Garden Club, two officers of the Woodstock Association for the Conservation and Improvement of the Township, Inc.; one officer of the Bank of Orange County and a citizen-at-large of Woodstock chosen yearly by the six other members of the committee.

Present membership of the Management Committee includes Miss Florence Hubbard and Mrs. Joseph K. Inness of the Garden Club; Alvin E. Moscowitz and J. C. van Rijn, for the Woodstock Association; Lamont W. Marvin, citizen-at-large, and Supervisor Abram F. Molyneaux, ex-officio.

"The legal aspects of planting, removing and caring for trees along public roads are intimately connected with the right-of-way status of any public road," the circular says. "It is therefore vital that the Woodstock Tree Trust, in its work, have a thorough knowledge of this subject. After consultation with Superintendent of Highways Albert Cashdollar and Supervisor Molyneaux, it was decided that the Tree Trust embark on a research project aimed at acquiring as much backgroung knowledge on this complex subject as could be obtained by a reasonable effort.

Work by Perlman

Daniel Perlman, a second year student at Bard College, was contracted to engage in this program as a summer project. He worked on it from the middle of June until early September. In addition, Perlman projected the maps necessary for making the tree survey and also worked as part of the surveying team.

The right of way of public roads is one of the most baffling and confusing items in town administration. The situation in Woodstock is no different, says the circular. The basic reason for this is that the keeping of detailed public records has not been one of the virtues of past generations and is still an item for which tax money is not easily made available. To untangle the present situation would be a costly affair and somehow the Tree Trust is scraping by.

In Woodstock, generally speaking, all public roads are owned either by the county or the town and the Tree Trust has compiled a fairly complete list of the deeds of lands conveyed to the county and the town. However, on-the-spot surveys will generally be required to determine the boundaries. The Tree Trust further has compiled an index of all references in the minutes of Town Board meetings on the laying out, dedicating and surveying of roads.

The work conducted during the summer by the Woodstock Tree Trust, including the research project by Perlman, necessitated many conferences and much correspondence. In all cases the aims of the Tree Trust were explained and always much admiration and good cooperation was secured. Some of the parties the Tree Trust worked with were the New York State Department of Public Works (several engineers in Poughkeepsie and Albany); the county highway department (several officers); the New York State Conservation Department (Albany and Middletown) town supervisor and superintendent, and the New York State College of Forestry. Thanks are also extended to Daniel Kleine and Al Evers for their cooperation.

Board Action Supports Move To Keep TV-3

Meeting in special session the Woodstock Town Board adopted a resolution opposing the removal of Channel 3 from Hartford, Conn.

The resolution pointed out that the town of Woodstock is located in a mountainous and heavily wooded area where UHF stations are poorly received in contrast to the very clear signal transmitted by Channel 3. In fact, some homes can only get Channel 3, the resolution said.

The replacement of Channel 3 with a UHF station would constitute a loss of adequate television viewing to Woodstock area residents, the resolution said. It also described the projected move as an unjust, discriminatory and would constitute a definite hardship to the people of Woodstock.

Meanwhile, it was announced by Lamont W. Marvin of Bearsville that more than 634 names have been signed on petitions circulated through the township. The Woodstock Democratic Club also adopted a resolution on opposing the change.

Those who worked on the petition included Mrs. C. R. Cross, Woodstock; Mrs. Malcolm Rose, Bearsville; Karl Cousins, Woodstock and Gordon Anderson; and Mrs. Marion Longyear. The petitions were circulated at Cousins Home Appliance, Woodstock News Shop, Bearsville Store, Rotron; also in Saugerties and West Hurley and in other places.

The town board also approved bills on the painting and heating contract at the Reynolds house. The meeting was adjourned in memory of the late John Majoros, who had served as playground director and chairman of the Woodstock Recreation Committee.

Salvation Army In Yule Appeal

Gordon P. Anderson, chairman of the Woodstock Salvation Army Service Unit Committee, announced that the Annual Christmas Appeal for funds for The Salvation Army is being placed in the mail this week.

The Salvation Army has always depended upon its friends for generous support at Christmas time for its work in the way of alleviating suffering in impoverished homes and visiting hospitals, nursing homes, penal institutions and many other places to bring a little cheer to those who reside there at the holiday season, taking fruits, candies, reading matter and other things to make their life a little brighter.

Contributions should be sent to Elbert C. Varney, care of the National Bank of Orange County, treasurer of the local fund. A part of the fund will be used by the local committee to help with the seasonal and emergency relief in the Woodstock area.

Health Group in Annual Session

The Woodstock Public Health Nursing Committee held its regular monthly meeting at the Health Center and heard annual reports by chairmen of the standing committees.

Jessie King gave the treasurer's report. Mary Busch reported on the Senior Citizens Club; Elizabeth DeWitt on the loan closet and Elise Lester on the work submitted to the Cancer Clinic.

It was voted to send a contribution to the Christmas Committee for foster children and to replenish the loan closet with necessary perishable equipment and with two additional walkers and two additional bed rails for the hospital beds.

Preparations for initiating a Woodstock blood bank are getting off to a good start. Five representative residents of the town have offered their services to organize a field force that will canvas the town for donors. They are John Casey, Bruce Reynolds, Alex Sharpe, Dr. Kenneth Bremer and the Rev. Lloyd H. Uyeki. The Public Health Nursing Committee will attend to the files, the necessary equipment and the refreshments to be served to the blood donors.

The election of officers was held with the following results: president, Agnes Tomaselli; vice president, Elizabeth Dunn; secretary, Elise Lester; treasurer, Jessie King.

The next meeting will be a luncheon meeting at Deanie's on Wednesday, Dec. 13.

Christian Science Services Sunday

The comforting and assuring message of the Beatitudes (Matt. 5) will be featured at Christian Science services in Woodstock Sunday.

The Lesson-Sermon on the subject "God the Preserver of Man" will consist of Scriptural texts and correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

The Golden Text is from Numbers (6): "The Lord bless thee, and keep thee: the Lord make his face shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee: the Lord lift up his countenace upon thee, and give thee peace."

The concluding passage states: "Divine Love always has met and always will meet every human need. It is not well to imagine that Jesus demonstrated the divine power to heal only for a select number or for a limited period of time, since to all mankind and in every hour, divine Love supplies all good" (Science and Health p. 494).

December Exhibit Opens at Post Office

The December exhibition at the Woodstock Post Office opened Monday, December 4 and will continue through Saturday, December 30.

Mal Slonin selected the artists whose pictures present a pleasing variety in a nicely balanced show. Her "Canadian Rockies" is well supported by one of Albert Jacquez's landscapes "Thunderstorm and Hail over the Dead-End Valley", the other being: "14th July Evening."

An interesting contrast is supplied by Eugenie McEvoy's "Old Mill in Picardi" and Elfriede Borkmann's two abstractions, while still another note is struck by Gurdon Howe's "Driftscape."

Katherine Burgevin is represented by a "Skating Scene" and a "Pastoral Scene" and Edna Thurber by a large "Portrait of a Young Girl."

Strike in 35th Day

Union Vetoes Final Rochester Bus Bid

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The state's third largest city today prepared to make the best of a Christmas shopping season without public transportation after union rejection of an offer aimed at ending a 35-day-old bus strike.

Striking drivers and mechanics of the Rochester Transit Co., in a 471-5 vote Monday, turned down what the company described as its final contract offer. The union and the company both issued sharply-worded statements after the voting was announced.

Accord Long Way Off

"It appears now that it may be a long time before Rochester has bus transportation," said Mayor Peter Barry. "I am very disappointed."

Terms of the offer were not announced, but it was reported that the drivers and mechanics were offered a 15-cent wage increase over two years and added fringe benefits.

The union, Local 282 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employes, had asked a 19-cent raise and broader fringe benefits.

The union said the new contract offer would have taken away benefits it had under the old contract, which expired Oct. 31, the day before the strike began. Drivers got $2.31 an hour and mechanics $2.09-$2.46 under the old contract.

It was not known when talks would be resumed. The company said it saw "no further use of trying to negotiate," but a union spokesman said the union was "ready, willing and able" to return to the bargaining table.

State mediator Milton Goldberg said he would try to set up a new round of negotiations.

Will Drop Offer

The bus company's offer was based on a $300,000 economic aid package offered it by the City Council, provided the strike was settled by today. The financial aid included a payment of an additional five cents to the company for each 10-cent student fare it collected, plus various forms of tax relief.

But the city said—Monday night it intends to stick to its deadline of today, apparently meaning that the offer will be dropped.

Shelter, Parking Are on Agenda of Council Tonight

A fallout shelter in downtown Kingston and off street parking for the uptown area may be on the agenda for tonight's meeting of the Common Council at City Hall.

At the Council meeting on Nov. 21, action on the offstreet parking plan was deferred.

Alderman Donald M. Hastings (D-Third Ward) chairman of a special committee of the Council, indicated at the November session that a request for money to cover costs of equipping downtown caves for use as fallout shelter, may be brought up at tonight's meeting for discussion.

Hastings indicated that as plans have progressed the caves could be equipped at a cost of $10 a person and the shelter could be operational by February, if city workers, not usually employed at this time of the year, are put to work.

Knute Rockne coached the Notre Dame team to five perfect seasons.

Richard S. Kaplan of New York City. Kaplan is an attorney and he will use the place as a weekend and summer home. The sale was negotiated through the Frederick Dircks Real Estate Agency of Woodstock.

Mrs. Charles J. (Lisa))Tiano is recuperating at her Ohayo Mountain residence after a stay at the Kingston Hospital.

Bermuda Meeting Set Dec. 21-22

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will meet in Bermuda Dec. 21 and 22 to outline final strategy for possible Berlin negotiations with the Soviet Union.

The White House announced plans for the conference late Monday.

To Cover Other Topics

In addition to their policy talks on Berlin, Kennedy and Macmillan are expected to discuss disarmament negotiations and a course for an agreement to end nuclear weapons testing under an international inspection system. They may issue some new call for cooperation by the Soviet Union to bring the nuclear race under control.

Diplomatic informants in London said Kennedy and Macmillan also were expected to discuss the negotiations now in progress to bring Britain into the European Common Market, ways of tightening Western defenses and the probable meaning of the recent Communist party congress in Moscow and the new de-Stalinization wave it launched.

U. S. Hopes Jolted

Administration hopes for steady progress toward East-West negotiations on Berlin received a setback over the weekend with blunt Communist rejection of Kennedy's suggestion last week for international control of the access routes to West Berlin across East Germany.

Apparently Kennedy aides had expected a more positive or encouraging response. The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia which published an interview with the President last week said the idea of putting the supply lines to West Berlin under international administration was "doomed to failure."

No Emergency

Walter Ulbricht, Communist party chief in East Germany, also threw down the suggestion. The Soviet and East German claim is that the United States, Britain, France and West Germany will have to deal with the East German regime to secure their routes to Berlin.

Officials here said that there was no emergency in the Kennedy-Macmillan decision to meet in Bermuda. The White House announcement and the parallel announcement at London said simply that the two leaders felt it would be useful to have an informal discussion of the international situation.

The official statements also linked the Bermuda conference with "the series of bilateral meetings which are now taking place between the heads of some of the Western governments."

Africans Leaving Capital

To Fight, Defend Province: Kimba

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP) — Widespread fighting broke out between U.N. forces and President Moise Tshombe's Katanga troops in Elisabethville today. Many people fled the city in panic.

Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba, ranking Katanga official in the absence of Tshombe, charged the United Nations started the shooting and declared, "Katanga will fight and defend itself."

Nine Wounded

He listed nine wounded so far on Katanga's side but said he did not know the extent of U.N. casualties.

The sound of mortar and other firing from several directions started a panic exodus from this capital of secessionist Katanga Province.

Contrary to U.N. reports that all Katanga ministers also had fled, Kimba held a news conference with all ministers present.

Sneak Attack Bared

Just before shooting started, Brian Urquhart, special U.N. adviser, charged a Katanga battle plan for a sneak attack had been uncovered and that fighting was inevitable.

Resenting a new U.N. resolution calling illegal Katanga's secession from the Congo's central government, the Katangans Monday threw up roadblocks to the airport, vital for supplying U.N. forces.

Contrary to the spirit of an agreement that appeared to have eased tension over the barricades, Urquhart said Katanga troops had been discovered advancing through thick bush toward the U.N.-held airport. He charged this was a "final act of bad faith."

Shelling Cuts Link

Mortar fire and other heavy firing were heard outside the telegraph office, near U.N. headquarters, in the direction of the airport seven miles outside the city and elsewhere.

The Elisabethville radio antenna was damaged by shelling, halting communications with the outside world for a short time.

The firing later stopped and Elisabethville showed signs of slowly coming back to life again after the first shock of the afternoon fighting.

The fighting was the second round of hostilities between U.N. and Katanga forces.

On Sept. 13, U.N. forces moved into Elisabethville and occupied several important points in an effort to rid the secessionist province of foreign mercenaries alleged to be undermining efforts to bring Katanga back under the wings of the central government in Leopoldville.

Relations Worsened

The fighting ended in a ceasefire agreement after U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold lost his life in an airplane crash en route to truce talks. But intermittent clashes continued.

Relations under the truce worsened after Tshombe made his "poisoned arrow" speech in response to new U.N. Security Council orders to the U.N. Command to use force if necessary to remove the mercenaries. The resolution declared Katanga's succession illegal.

Astronaut in 'Ready Room'

U. S. Presses Plans For Orbiting of Man

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The United States pressed ahead today toward its goal of orbiting a man around the world this year. Scientists, engineers and technicians worked round the clock and astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., the chosen pilot, began extensive preparation in a "ready room" not far from the launching pad.

If all goes right, the attempt could be made as early as Dec. 20. Technical problems could delay the launching, and major trouble could push it into 1962.

Glenn moved Monday into special quarters on the Cape so he could be near all key centers of Project Mercury operations.

Not far away are the launching pad where the huge Atlas booster rocket was erected Saturday; the hangar where Glenn's spacecraft is undergoing thorough checkout, the Mercury control center, nerve center of the operation, and a ground-based capsule where he can run through simulated flights of his projected three times around the world mission.

The "ready room" is the same Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil I. Grissom for a few days before their 15-minute suborbital flights earlier this year.

Demanding Assignment

With a more demanding assignment before him, Glenn, 40, a Marine lieutenant colonel, entered the quarters early to prepare for the flight. He will undergo periodic physical and psychological examinations, bone up on space roadmaps so stars and ground features will be readily recognized when he looks out of his spaceship as it zips around the world at 17,500 miles an hour, and he will hold numerous consultations on progress of the missile and capsule.

Glenn will live in the quarters most of the time until launching. But he will be able to leave the Cape when his training does not restrict him. His wife, Anna, their two children will remain at their home in Arlington, Va.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has not announced that manned orbit will be tried this year. But it is known officicials want to achieve it in 1961, the same year as the Soviet Union.

C-H Is Among 44 Utilities Filing Price-Rig Suits

Seek Triple Damages

The utilities charge price-rigging among the manufacturers and seek triple damages. The exact amount sought, the suits say, will be specified after further investigation. Estimates of the claims have ranged from $100 million to billions.

Chief defendants in the suits filed Monday are the General Electric Co. and the Westinghouse Electric Corp., each named in 11 suits, and the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co., named in nine.

Both GE and Westinghouse declared they believed their customers had received fair value for the prices paid.

Allis-Chalmers, located in West Allis, Wis., withheld comment.

All the defendants were among the 29 manufacturers which, along with 45 of their top executives, were fined $1.9 million in Philadelphia U.S. District Court last February. Seven jail terms and 25 suspended sentences were imposed.

GE and Westinghouse and their executives suffered almost half of the fines imposed at that time.

The plaintiff companies cover northeastern states west to Indiana and south to Virginia and represent about 18 per cent of the nation's privately owned utilities.

Charge Conspiracies

They seek damages for overcharging which they say resulted from the conspiracies. Products involved include steam turbine

Police Order 4 Autos for $6,995 Bid

Contract for the sale of three sedans and a station wagon to the City for use by the police department was awarded Monday night at a special meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners to Bob Nadler Inc., the lowest of four bidders.

Police Chief Robert F. Murphy, commission secretary, said Nadler's bid was $6,995. Other bidders and estimates were—Chait Ford Inc., Kerhonkson, $7,695; J. H. Byrne Chevrolet Corp., $7,919; Parsons of Kingston Inc., $8,103.87.

Waiting for Budget

The chief stated the station wagon will be used as an emergency vehicle for the police department. He explained that the cost of the new vehicles will be included in the 1962 proposed budget for the department and that the order for the cars will not be placed until the budget is adopted by the Common Council.

The commission had called for bids for four new cars and another bid for rental of seven cars to the city for use by the police department.

Bob Nadler Inc. submitted the only bid for rentals. It was reported the firm's bid was $150 a month for each car on a two-year basis, and $250 a month for each car on a one year basis.

Vote for Purchase

Commissioners decided the rental of seven cars would be too high and voted to purchase three new cars and a station wagon. Two 1959 Plymouths and two 1960 Chevrolets will be turned in at the time of the delivery of the four new vehicles, Chief Murphy said.

Attending last night's meeting of the commission were: Mayor Edwin F. Radel, president; Chief Murphy, secretary; Commissioners Henry P. Eighmey, Dr. William Dean, Joseph F. Policano and the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool.

Woman Stabs Hanratty St. Man at Home

A 64-year-old Kingston man was in serious condition today at Kingston Hospital, suffering stab wounds of the chest and leg, which police said were inflicted by a 37-year-old woman who lived with him.

Police Chief Robert F. Murphy, who directed investigation of the stabbing reported to authorities at 6:12 p. m. Monday, said Joseph Mazzuca, of 55 Hanratty Street, was stabbed by Rose Felice, of that address.

Is Outpatient

The woman was described by police officials as an outpatient from Middletown State Hospital.

A neighbor of Mazzuca telephoned police last night, reporting a woman had just stabbed her husband at the Hanratty Street address. Fatum's ambulance was dispatched to the scene and Mazzuca was rushed to the hospital.

Chief Murphy said the woman used a kitchen knife and stabbed Mazzuca in the chest and leg.

Returned to Hospital

A physician later examined the woman and signed papers returning her to the Middletown State Hospital.

Chief Murphy said no charges will be lodged against the woman pending release from the hospital. Meanwhile investigation will be continued by police.

Assisting in the investigation with Chief Murphy were Lieutenant Lemuel Howard, Sergeant Julius Glassman, Detective William Slover, Acting Detective Wilmont Hall and Patrolmen Sheldon O'Rourke, Francis Buchanan, Frank Kenelly Jr., and James Amato.

Governor Stresses School Shelters

Persons Should Remain If Nuclear Blast Hits

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller reversed today the state's civil defense policy by declaring persons should take shelter where they were rather than going home at the warning of a nuclear attack.

The governor said the change was designed to bring the state's policy in line with his program to encourage fallout protection in schools, homes and places of work.

The policy change, he said, also "is based on the fact that the maximum warning time is only 15 minutes in the event of an enemy nuclear attack."

Rockefeller's program, which had been approved last month at a special session of the State Legislature included state aid for shelters at schools.

The policy declared today calls for fallout protection to be "readily available to individuals wherever they may be at the time of warning of nuclear attack," Rockefeller said.

Rockefeller said protection should be available in homes, apartment houses, institutions and community shelters, at schools and colleges and at places of work, including public and private office buildings, factories and stores.

He said the state, to encourage shelter construction, would build and equip three demonstration fallout shelters in public schools.

The schools chosen probably will be somewhere in New York City, Long Island and Upstate, a spokesman for the governor said.

The sites will be selected with the cooperation of the education department.

Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr., also has been designated by the State Civil Defense Commission to certify plans for fallout shelters in schools.

Allen, however, said at a recent news conference he would recommend that the "go-home" policy be continued.

warned that "should a nuclear at-

Rockefeller, in his statement, warned that "should a nuclear attack occur, this heavily industrialized and urbanized state....would face survival problems as acute as any in the nation."

The governor originally proposed mandatory construction of fallout shelters in homes and buildings throughout the state. This was turned down by the leaders of the Legislature.

He later dvocated a program of protection for property owners who constructed fallout shelters against tax-increases and fraud.

Peiping Threatens Invasion of India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Communist China has threatened to invade India's northeast frontier if India does not halt military activity in border territories more than 1,000 miles to the northwest, Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament today.

"Obviously," Nehru told a questioner, "if that is done, we shall resist and repel it."

Nehru said Peiping in a letter received Dec. 2 complained that India was "stepping up military positions and building new posts" in the disputed Ladakh area of Kashmir and also in such areas as Bara Hoti, in Uttar Pradesh State, west of the Tibetan border.

He said the Chinese hinted that "if our military activities are not stopped, they may have to take action by sending troops south of the McMahon Line."

The British-drawn McMahon Line has been the boundary between India's Assam State and Tibet—running from Bhutan east to the Burmese border—since 1903 but the Red Chinese have been claiming 39,000 square miles south of the line. Except for a single Chinese outpost, however, there have been no official reports of Chinese expansion south of the line.

The Reds already have occupied 12,000 square miles claimed by India in Ladakh, and the latest Peiping letter was in reply to an Indian protest that the Communists had pushed their posts even farther into Indian-claimed territory.

Author Is Critical Of Education Field

Teaching methods, tests and measurements, curriculum and testbooks were the main topics of criticism of the nation's schools by Martin Mayer, noted author, last night at a meeting of more than 200 educators in this area held at the State University College, New Paltz.

Speaking at the annual fall and general meeting of the Mid-Hudson School Study Council, representing some 45 school systems in this area, Mayer told school board members, administrators and teachers what he thought was wrong with the educational system.

In criticizing the test and measurement methods, Mayer expressed the opinion that there is a difference between counting and measuring and that educational research has not gone beyond the counting stage. "Advertising research," he said, "is 40 times better than educational research."

His criticism of teaching methods pointed out that in every area of learning there are ways of presenting material which either help or block further learning. He agreed that teaching methods grow out of the material, and he emphasized that "teachers must be interested in what they are teaching," if they are to do an effective job.

One of his main criticisms of the curriculum was that related subjects are taught as separate subjects. "There should be no separation of physics from chemistry," he said, "and geometry and algebra should not be taught as separate subjects as they have been for years." He pointed out, however, that advances have been made in science and mathematics during the past few years. "These people are taking it seriously," he said, and he predicted that in a few years "we will be turning out elementary students who know as much about mathematics as high school students know today."

Mayer was also critical of the system of text book publishing, and he branded as "scandalous" some of the publicity methods used in the past. He indicated that bribery had not been uncommon in adopting particular text books.

Following Mayer's talk, a

Kennedys to Tour Venezuela, Columbia December 16 and 17

WASHINGTON (AP) —President and Mrs. Kennedy will visit Venezuela and Colombia Dec. 16 and 17 to dramatize the Alliance for Progress program for social and economic development of the Western Hemisphere.

The White House announced the trip — long expected—and said Kennedy "hopes to visit other parts of Latin America in the future."

There was no elaboration as to how soon in the future such a visit might occur or what countries might be visited.

On the flying expedition to Caracas and Bogota, Kennedy will take part in the dedication of low-cost housing, primary education and rural community improvement projects begun under the Alliance for Progress which he outlined as a major 10-year goal for the United States during his presidential campaign.

"The purpose of the visit," the White House said, "is to dramatize and spotlight the cooperative effort being made by the United States and the republics of South America to accelerate the economic and social development of the Western Hemisphere."

The trip will cover four days.

Kennedy will fly from Washington to San Juan, Puerto Rico, on Friday, Dec. 15.

He will spend the night as a guest of Gov. Luis Munoz Marin.

Kennedy will leave San Juan Saturday, Dec. 16 for Caracas and spend Saturday night in the Venezuelan capital then take off Sunday morning for Bogota.

Sunday night will be spent in Bogota, with departure for Washington scheduled for Monday morning.

Kennedy has a conference with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan set for Dec. 21 and 22 in Bermuda. This is to cover cold war problems, with emphasis on the Berlin situation.

Situation Normal Along Wall

Reds Withdraw Troops After Completing Work

BERLIN (AP) —The situation was normal along the Berlin wall again today after completion of formidable new Communist fortifications at the seven crossing points between West and East Berlin.

The East Germans finished work on new walls and tank obstacles at the checkpoints before nightfall and withdrew hundreds of troops that had guarded the 2,500 workmen.

A platoon of 30 U.S. infantrymen, who had faced several hundred East German soldiers, police and factory militia 15 yards away at the Friedrichstrasse crossing point, were withdrawn after the Reds marched off.

This morning it was quiet at Friedrichstrasse and the other crossing points. The situation had returned to normal "if you can call it normal at all," a policeman said.

A U.S battle group of 1,500 men moved toward tense Berlin to replace another battle group rushed here after the border closure Aug. 13.

Both units will travel across the autobahn, connecting West Berlin with West Germany and crossing 110 miles of Red-ruled territory. The Soviet news agency Tass has called the recent U.S .troop shuttles back and forth along the autobahn provacations "fraught with dangerous consequences." The Russians have not interfered with the traffic.

The spearhead of the battle group moving into Berlin is expected to cross East Germany Wednesday.

The survey covered 4,826 interviews with persons 15 years and up in 622 different places. $339,000 Saving Seen for N.Y. in New Bid Policy

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state's new policy of rejecting identical bids on state contracts will save the state an estimated $339,000 next year on purchases of rock salt, the state comptroller said today.

Comptroller Arthur Levitt also disclosed that, for the first time in recent years, no tie bids were received on purchases of the salt, which is used on highways.

International Salt of Buffalo and Highway Materials Co. of South Lansing, Tompkins County, submitted different bids this year. The comptroller's office said the two companies had submitted identical bids on at least two previous occasions. This year, each submitted the lower bid in some instances. Thus, each obtained some of the business.

Levitt said the anticipated savings for next year was the difference between the lowest bid submitted in October, compared with that of a contract awarded last March, assuming the same quantity of salt will be used next year.

"Industrial cost conditions have not changed since March, and the quality is consistent with the previous contract," Levitt said in a statement. He attributed the difference to open competitive bidding.

Troy Schools Are To Drop Jewish Days Observance

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — The practice of observing Jewish holidays in plays and pageants no longer will be followed in Troy public schools, by request of Jewish representatives.

"We feel that religious services do not belong in the public school system," an official of a Jewish organization said today.

The Board of Education agreed Monday night to a request of the Troy Jewish Community Council that observance of such holidays as Chanukah be discontinued in the schools. The council said in a petition that religious observances in public schools were contrary to the constitutional guarantee of separation of church and state.

Dudley Van Arnam, school superintendent, said the decision would not interfere with traditional Christmas programs presented in the schools.

Children will be excused from participation if the programs conflict with their religious beliefs, he said.

Charles Cohen, chairman of the Jewish council's community relations committee, said that, in particular, the meaning of Chanukah had been portrayed in plays at School 18, which has a large Jewish enrollment.

Chanukah, a festive holiday, is observed by Jews for eight days, generally in December. It commemorates the heroism of the ancient Maccabees in their fight for religious freedom.

A school board member estimated that 40 per cent of the 600 pupils at School 18 were Jewish.

Newberry Store Here Has Part in Yule Cash Plan

Employes of the Kingston Newberry store have participated in the distribution of $600,000 in cash Christmas gifts which have been given to employes in the 560 Newberry stores throughout the United States.

E. L. Davey, manager of the Kingston store, today disclosed that Kingston employes had participated in the company's long established policy of giving employes cash gifts at the Christmas season.

Newberry Company has 560 stores throughout the country, several warehouses and six district offices where employes participate in the total of $600,000. The amount to each employe depends on length of service.

Davey also pointed out that Newberry's has in force a retirement plan, as employes become eligible, paid for by the company up to the first $2,000 of annual earnings, and by an employe-company participation plan on earnings exceeding $2,000. In addition Newberry's provides all its eligible employes with company paid life insurance policies and shares in the cost of them of sickness, hospital expenses and surgical benefits insurance.

He also explained that Newberry empolyes have a stock option purchase plan through which several thousand employes have become owners of their company's capital stock, and a discount on company purchases at their stores.

General Electric Would Lower Trade Barriers

NEW YORK (AP) — General Electric Co., world's largest electrical goods manufacturer, today took a qualified position in favor of lowering barriers against international trade.

"We do not think that protective tariffs are the best solution (to the trade problem)," Ralph J. Cordiner, GE chairman, said in remarks prepared for his annual news conference.

Others Would Follow

But, Cordiner added:

If the United States reduces its tariffs protection, other nations must also reduce their trade barriers on the same commodities so that the Atlantic community can in fact move toward the eventual development of a great common market.

"Then the government must make it possible for U.S. industry to compete more effectively with overseas producers."

In GE's first policy statement on the subject, much debated recently, Cordiner said this should be done by government adoption of policies that will resist inflation, encourage productivity and thus reduce costs of making and selling U.S. products.

Review Activities

In a review of GE activities, the executive said 1961 promised to prove the company's peak year in orders received for exports.

He said business has been good in equipments for steelmaking, power generation, railroad transportation and oil recovery.

Although overall GE earnings for the first nine months trailed the like 1960 period, Cordiner said the trend has shown a steady improvement by quarters—the result of a rising sales volume and stringent cost controls.

He declined to make any predictions on sales or earnings for the full year.

Cordiner also declined to estimate the impact of damage suits brought against GE in the wake of price-fixing convictions involving heavy electric equipment, saying it was "too early."

Forty-four more electric utility concerns went to court Monday seeking triple damages for what they contended were excessive charges for equipment stemming from admitted rigging of bids by GE and 21 other electrical equipment makers. No amounts were specified.

Troopers Recover Missing Show Dog

A Blue Merle coolie, well-known show dog, holder of many ribbons and medals and valued at over $1,000 was returned by state police today to Tokalon Kennels at West Hurley following a four-hour search of the area.

Trooper David Wachtel said Mrs. Robert Browning, owner of the kennels reported the dog missing early this morning and told troopers she feared the dog may have been stolen during the early morning hours. She said she heard noises and barking at about 1 a. m. in the kennels and this may have been about the time the dog might have been taken. Mrs. Browning told troopers an attempt to steal the dog may have failed when the show dog broke loose.

During the investigation Trooper Wachtel said Mrs. Margaret Vizvary of Hurley Ridge reported that a dog fitting the description of the missing canine was seen in the vicinity of her home.

Trooper Wachtel and Mrs. Browning searched the area and found the dog nearby.

Major Step Is Vowed to Unify World Churches

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—In a major stride toward its goal of worldwide unity of churches, the General Assembly of the World Council of Churches Monday night pledged to work for interlocking church communities rather than a single ecclesiastical organization of all Christians.

The 9,000-word document set forth conditions and relationships the council regards as the goal of church unity and emphasized that "unity does not imply simple uniformity of organization, rite or expression."

It proposed instead a system of interlocking communities on the local, national and international level with mutual recognition of ministries, members and joint participation in the Lord's Supper.

Approval by the 600 delegates —representing the council's 198 Protestant, Orthodox, Old Catholic and other denominations— marked the first time that the world church body has spelled out its thoughts on the pathways to church unity.

The guide outlined various steps for the settlement of problems which post obstacles —including mutual study, baptism, ordination and communion —but it admitted that "we are not yet of a common mind" on "the means of achieving the goal we have described."

Action Assails Women Barbers

ST. LOUIS (AP) —A circuit court petition filed Monday declares the public health and welfare will be "irreparably and adversely affected," if something isn't done to halt female barbers in a downtown hotel's shop.

The action was filed by Atty. Gen. Thomas F. Eagleton.

Legal forces in the city and state are attempting to prevent Miss Margaret McNeil and her female assistants at the Mayfair Hotel barber shop from presenting themselves to the public as licenses or qualified barbers.

Miss McNeil, who operates the shop, is seeking court sanction of the female barbers, who all are licensed cosmetologists. She claims that as cosmetologists they are entitled to cut a man' hair.

LOTS OF MODERNIZATION

From present indications, increases to industrial plants in the United States may be in for a slowdown. This can be concluded from the Wall Street Journal's recent survey of the capital outlay planned by industry for 1962.

Not that capital expenditures will decline. On the contrary, 10 per cent more will be spent this year than last. But a high percentage of these funds will go for modernization and improvement of facilities already in being.

Expansion of productive capacity as such appears to be far down on the list. This seems to be because few companies find themselves in the enviable position of having consumer demand in excess of supply. This condition prevailed during most of the 50s, but it is rare now. Steel is a good example (or bad, from the viewpoint of stockholders) of this condition of over-capacity. With facilities sufficient to produce 150 million tons annually, the industry estimates that it will use but half of that next year.

It should not be assumed from this report that American industry is ignoring the future. Far from it. Plans for expansion are quite often wrapped in the word, "modernization." This, incidentally, is a much less provocative term than that other about which there is such sensitivity, "automation."

However one says it, modernization or automation, this revamping may be carried on within existing structure to provide for both today's needs and those of the next decade. In this way industry may kill two birds with one stone—and no one need worry that one of them is the goose that lays the golden eggs.

Supermarket chains may sell their own brands of cigarettes. This should appeal to chain smokers.

THE VANISHING ATTRIBUTE

It's a commonplace to say that Americans like underdogs, in everything from sports to politics.

Do they really? Some elements of the sporting public have always been notoriously fickle. But in recent years increasing numbers of sports viewers seem to be insisting on having a winner at all costs. The loser—and his coach—are quick to feel verbal and occasionally even physical abuse.

The Michigan State football coach, Duffy Daugherty, whose team played a rugged 1961 schedule, properly tore into critics who stormed at him and his players for "merely" winning seven of nine games played.

Dare we ask to examine the week-to-week performance of the students, alumni and general public who do the criticizing? The chances are that their average "winning" percentage is not so hot.

What they need is a little more recognition of human frailty, and a great deal more fundamental loyalty — a commodity in shorter and shorter supply as the years pass.

DINNER AT 1834

Much was made, this year, of the fact that the Thanksgiving turkey cost less than it had in many years. This evoked considerable astonishment, not to mention a few glad cries from family breadwinners.

Without wishing to detract from the delights of cheap turkey, 1961 style, we will pass on a pertinent bit of information encountered the other day in a book of reminiscences. The reminiscence we have in mind concerned Thanksgiving 127 years ago at Delmonico's, one of New York's top restaurants. On Nov. 25, 1834, the proprietor of this famous eating house advised the public that a meal of soup, steak, coffee and half a pie could be had for 12 cents. Dinner for two was available for a quarter, with the extra cent providing second cups of coffee.

This is the sort of thing that plays hob with a hard-working man's morale. Still, turkey IS cheap this year—and delicious, too.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH

It is difficult to understand the barriers erected by school and college management on the subject of freedom of speech. Generally there is no objection to Karl Marx but God is forbidden. The theory is that whereas it is sound to separate Church from State, it is not sound to separate the United States from its enemies.

I see an item that Dean Fritz Morstein Marx of Hunter College in New York forbids "The National Review" from holding meetings in this municipally-owned girls college. The reasons given by Dean Marx are most astonishing. One of them was that the views of Bill Buckley, the editor of "The National Review," reflected "the point of view of your organization as a political group presenting a distinct point of view of its own."

This is an astonishing attempt to say something in English. Naturally, an educated man, an editor and author, would have a distinct point of view or he would be a dope. It is true that many editors, writers and even professors are dopes, but that is no reason why Dean Marx should expect Bill Buckley to be one. Bill Buckley has long had a point of view which he has included in some books and in many articles and lectures. His point of view may be described as constructively conservative influenced by his religious beliefs. He is definitely anti-Marxist as is the publication which he edits.

If Dean Marx has at all read current publications, he must have witnessed the existence of "The National Review" and he must know that it has a distinct point of view which differs from "The Worker," "The Nation" and "The New Republic," each of which has a point of view of its own, which it advocates and defends.

Does Dean Marx, as an educator, expect only one point of view to prevail in a free country? Is it his theory that the United States is a monolithic country in which only the bombastry of the popular weekly magazines may prevail? Perhaps the Dean only likes such publications because of the pictures in them. Or should the students of Hunter be limited to McGuffey's Readers which were prepared for children of a free period in our civilization?

Another reason given by the learned Dean for excluding "The National Review" meetings from the auditorium of Hunter College is that the building was picketed during one of the meetings. Many public buildings are picketed. Recently I visited the White House in Washington and saw a shabby picket line marching outside. Should President Kennedy be excluded from the White House because some idiots picketed the building? In accordance with Dean Marx's logic, President Kennedy should leave the building to the pickets. Why, I cannot explain except that the Dean must be scared of pickets. His college is opposite the Soviet Embassy and the pickets might, heaven forbid, break loose and damage the Soviet Embassy and send the boor, Valerian A. Zorin, back to the steppes whence he came.

Dean Marx also objects to the effort of the presiding officer at one of the meetings maintaining law and order. Maybe the Dean would have preferred that the chairman stimulate disorder and create a public nuisance. It is often difficult to grasp what the college managers really want the students and their speakers to do.

Personally, I do not mind when I am interrupted. It gives me a chance to switch from discussing what the students are interested in to the subject of good manners which, in this generation, have apparently been lost. This interests me.

Recently, I was speaking at Queens College in New York, also a free municipal college. A student was apparently bored by my comments; he interrupted me by waving his hand. I gave him an opportunity to ask a rather naive question and then he sought to waste my time debating with me. Gently, I pointed out to him that manners were as worthy as knowledge and that these young people seemed to possess neither which is indeed a pity because when they grow up they will regret that they have lost years that might have been used to acquire both knowledge and manners and that society is very rough on those who possess neither. I had a very good time but was sorry for a young lady who was a compulsive striker.

Strict Controls Govern Post-Mortem Examinations

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I am writing in behalf of a neighbor whose husband died at the hospital two weeks ago. After the services, she was rebuked by her sister-in-law for giving permission for an autopsy which an attendant of the funeral parlor said had been performed.

When my neighbor denied having given permission or even knowing that an autopsy had been performed, the sister-in-law took her to the attendant who said that hospitals often performed autopsies without permission.

He went on to say that hospitals must perform 100 autopsies a year in order to keep their accredited rating. And since physicians often cannot get permission from families, many autopsies are done without the knowledge of the family.

Is there any truth in this attendant's statements?

A—Except when legally constituted authorities perform a post-morten examination for good and sufficient reasons, having to do with crime detection or the public welfare, written permission for an autopsy is required by hospital authorities and by members of the staff whose duty it is to perform the examination. This permission may be given during life by the individual or after death by the nearest of kin. The statements made by the attendant of the funeral parlor are, in my opinion, criminally malicious.

There is no truth in the allegation that hospitals must perform 100 autopsies a year to remain accredited.

And if the particular autopsy to which the attendant referred was performed without legal permission, both the hospital and those who performed the examination exposed themselves to social, ethical, civil and even criminal penalties.

This would seem wholly unlikely since, as you say later in your letter, the cause of death was an obvious malignancy.

Q—I have just read an article in which it is stated that "many men undergo a climacteric remarkably similar, at least emotionally, to the menopause that marks the end of a woman's childbearing years."

Some time ago, if my memory is correct, you wrote that the male climacteric was a "fiction." Who am I to believe?

A—Well, friend, you pay your money and you take your choice, as they used to say at county fairs.

I have been practicing medicine for more years than I care to count. I have never seen a bon fide example of the male menopause or climacteric. To be sure, I've seen men who became nervous, depressed or emotionally disturbed in and after middle life and whose troubles were attributed by them or by "gland specialists," both amateur and professional, to the climacteric. But in nary a one did this fanciful explanation appear valid to me.

Usually, an unprejudiced investigation turned up some much more logical cause for the disturbance. And usually, a straightforward attack on that cause sufficed to achieve a satisfactory result.

But, since results of this type do not make copy for the glamour sheets or profit for those who manufacture or administer "gland shots," I'm afraid they make dull reading and provide little table talk at dinner parties.

"Wonder How Long I'll Be Weightless On This Trip?"

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — "The welfare of American farmers depends on the export market," says U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman. This is why he has met four times this past month with officials of the European Economic Community—France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Luxemburg and the Netherlands—in an effort to safeguard traditional American markets against competition from increased internal trading in Europe's new Common Market.

LAST YEAR THE UNITED STATES exported $1.1 billion worth of farm products to these countries. The exports were principally hard wheat, feed grains, cotton, tobacco, rice and poultry.

By contrast, the United States imported only $220 million worth of agricultural products from western Europe. They were principally wine, cheese, prepared meats, vegetable oils and specialty items like bulbs and greenhouse stock.

The inequality of this trade in both volume and commodities leaves little room for bargaining. The European countries are nevertheless pressuring the United States to reduce tariffs against their agricultural products and reduce quotas against products such as cheese, in surplus supply here.

For its part, the United States wants assurances that it will retain its traditional markets for farm exports. It also wants assurances it will get its share of any expansion in Europe's markets as the standard of living and the purchasing power of its people increase.

AN INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE has been meeting in Geneva since September 1960, to negotiate new tariffs between the six Common Market countries and other countries in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, known as GATT.

The negotiators are trying to wind up their business before the end of the year. While they have made much progress on industrial tariffs, and though they have agreed to work toward elimination of agricultural protectionism, renegotiation of agricultural tariffs hasn't begun.

Principal reason for this is that the Common Market countries haven't yet agreed among themselves on what their common agricultural policy is to be.

The idea now is to let the United States retain its historic markets till the Europeans can make up their minds. They will probably do this, product by product, over the next year or more.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST DIFFICULTIES is that all the Common Market countries now have production subsidies for their own farmers. This is much like the U.S. price support system. The subsidy runs as high as $3.50 a bushel on German-grown wheat.

Some of the European countries have dropped hints that they might introduce a new system of variable import fees to maintain prices for their own farmers.

For example, if the six-country average support price for European-grown wheat was the equivalent of $2 a bushel, and if the world market price was $1.50 a bushel, a fee of 50 cents a bushel would be charged on all wheat imported into the Common Market.

This would be on top of any import tariff the European countries might retain. And it would be on top of any export subsidy which the United States might pay to move its surpluses.

The fee would be a most difficult trade barrier to overcome. For the world price of wheat varies from day to day. And as the price went down, the variable fee would have to be increased to keep the import price of wheat stable.

THE EUROPEAN COUNTRIES have not yet decided they are willing to make concessions in reducing trade barriers against American agricultural exports. But if they don't, European and American farm economies are on a collision course. And American farm exports may drop in the process.

This situation is going to make it doubly difficult for the Congress to write new farm legislation next year.

Diplomacy by Interview Stirs Some Discontent

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Diplomacy by means of published interviews has struck a snag among the Western allies. Outwardly, Great Britain and West Germany have gone along, but rumblings in France have become noticeable.

President De Gaulle, for instance, thought the interview given by President Kennedy to the editor of Izvestia—who is Mr. Khrushchev's son-in-law — was a serious error in tactics. A significant dispatch from Paris published this week in United States News & World Report says that the Izvestia interview is regarded in the French capital "as the latest in a series of tragic mistakes." It adds:

"President De Gaulle is convinced that President Kennedy is prepared to sacrifice West German interests in order to save Western rights in Berlin. He fears disillusionment on the part of the West Germans that can lead first toward neutralism then toward a deal with Russia to reunite the two Germanys.

"De Gaulle's belief is that 'another Yalta is in the making, and he sees no reason why France should participate in any such negotiations with Russia. De Gaulle's view is that if the United States and Britain are determined to negotiate with Russia there is nothing he can do to stop them. But France will not take part on the basis set forth in the Kennedy interview.

"As the French president sees it: Mr. Kennedy, in the interview, wasn't just talking to Soviet public opinion. He was talking to Khrushchev, too. In his (De Gaulle's) opinion, the interview amounted to negotiating in public about issues and United States proposals on which the Western allies are not agreed.

Covered More Ground

"The interview, it is pointed out here, covered much more than the area for possible negotiation that Mr. Kennedy and Germany's Chancellor Adenauer agreed to in their recent meeting. At that meeting, it was agreed to limit negotiations with Russia to Berlin. But, in the published interview, Mr. Kennedy talked of restricting West German armament. He talked of negotiating to keep the peace in Central Europe.' He indicated a willingness to accept a divided Germany for fifteen years, if agreement is reached on Berlin. He seemed ready to accept a Soviet peace treaty with Communist East Germany, if Western rights in Berlin are protected. . .

"In recent weeks, representatives of the U. S., West Germany, Britain and France have been meeting to discuss proposals they might make to Russia if a conference is called. . . .

"It is understood here that one of the American proposals was to create an 'international administration' over all access routes to West Berlin—by air as well as land and water. This idea was advanced by Mr. Kenedy in his interview with Izvestia, although U. S. allies, themselves, are not agreed on the idea. It was the bringing of such proposals out into the open at this stage that disturbed DeGaulle. He feels that the U. S. is going too far and moving too fast in its efforts to come to terms with the Soviet Union."

The question naturally arises as to what part, if any, the Secretary of State himself played in the handling of the President's interview with the editor of Izvestia. It would be surprising to find that a diplomat of experience would approve of the revelation of delicate matters under discussion with Allies without consulting them in advance as to the wisdom of such disclosure. Just how seriously the French regard the mistake is indicated in the concluding paragraph of the Paris dispatch quoted in part above:

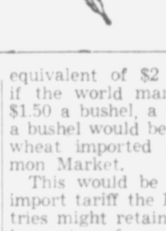

"As French officials see it: If there was a chance after the Kennedy - Adenauer talks that DeGaulle finally would agree to participate in the preparations for a conference with Russia, that chance almost disappeared after the Kennedy interview with Nikita Khrushchev's son-in-law."

The tendency to go it alone in a matter of Allied strategy probably will be defended in quarters here as necessary in order to bring about, through world opinion, the harmony that is not achievable through diplomatic channels. But it is risky business. Already Walter Ulbricht, the East German leader, has denounced the Kennedy proposal—made publicly for the first time in the Izvestia interview—for an international administration of access routes to West Berlin from West Germany. This is one tactic that Moscow employs to knock down the President's proposals with the idea of more and more concessions before the negotiations actually begin. President DeGaulle feels that the Russians should come to the West with proposals for negotiation and that the West should not take the initiative in offering bargaining proposals to Mr. Khrushchev.

Within another week the foreign ministers of the Western Allies are due to meet in Paris. So far as is known, they have not as yet come to any agreement on the main proposals to be made to Russia, and that is why it is wholly unprecedented for public statements to be issued that tend to commit the Allies to a position which they themselves have not all accepted.

Dissension among Allies is not surprising, but to express differences publicly in advance of a negotiation makes it difficult for any foreign minister or secretary of state to perform effectively the duties of his office. The State Department here is frequently under fire, and some of the White House aids are sometimes impatient with its slow-moving tendencies, but in the long run it's better to listen to your doctor or lawyer, as they know from experience with other cases the pitfalls arising from indifference to competent advisors.

YOUR POCKETBOOK

You Can't Insure Another Without His Knowledge

BY FAYE HENLE

Q—My husband does not believe in life insurance. I would like to take out a policy on his life and pay the premiums without his knowledge. Can I do this?—C. B. M.

Dear C. B. M.: The answer is "no." Not only must your husband sign the application, but he probably would be required to undergo a medical examination.

Q—Last year I took a $4,000 loss on my securities. I now have some nice paper profits. My investments are made to give me income. My broker says I should not sell any stocks to take profits to offset my losses. Instead, he says I'm doing fine and should leave my securities alone. Is he right?—U. C.

Dear U. C.: I suspect your present investments are doing fine and that your broker expects they will continue to do even better. Don't let that $4,000 loss worry you income tax-wise. It's good for three more years, so why not take his advise?

Q—Our investment club bought a speculative stock which is now down to one-half of what we paid. Do you agree that we should get rid of such an investment?—K. T.

Dear K. T.: Don't wait another day. Sell!

Q—Should a 75-year-old widow who has a pension and Social Security which take care of her day-to-day needs, $40,000 invested in common stocks (most of which are blue chip) and $4,000 in the savings bank, invest $10,000 in a real estate venture? In order to do this, I would have to sell some stock.—A. R. L.

Dear A. R. L.: Are you aiming to be the richest gal in the cemetery, or do you have a pet grandchild? You're doing fine without speculating, so relax!

Q—How do you go about shopping the best credit value?—S. A.

Dear S. A.: Money is a commodity and it costs money to borrow it. Find out who will lend you money with the lowest true interest rate. If you have a savings account and enough money to more than carry your loan, you'll find a passbook loan cheapest. If you belong to a credit union, they offer cheap loans. Before you go to a finance company, check a commercial bank—their rates are cheaper.

When you buy on the installment plan, ask how much the true interest rate might be. If it exceeds 12 per cent, see if you can borrow the money from the bank and pay cash.

U.S. Urging More Data on Cardinal Before Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials say they want to know more before commenting on a Hungarian proposal to discuss the future of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty.

They also wonder privately what the two countries could say about the Roman Catholic prelate who has been in refuge at the American legation in Budapest since the anti-Communist Hungarian revolt of 1956.

Gyula Kallai, deputy premier of the Communist regime in Hungary, told a news conference Monday that his government is ready to negotiate a settlement of the 69-year-old cardinal's future. He also was quoted as saying it cannot be handled separately but only as part of a broad settlement of other questions.

Officials here said it wasn't a surprise. They said feelers have been put out by diplomats on both sides, although there have been no clear-cut proposals.

But these sources point out the Hungarian Communists have been particularly rankled over the fact that the crushing of the 1956 revolt is brought up for discussion every year in the United Nations. They have repeatedly hinted that the United States could, if it wanted, arrange for the matter to quietly die.

It is believed that American diplomats have mentioned such things as an amnesty for political prisoners, many of them serving long sentences for their part in the uprising.

Man Faces Drunk Driving Charges Following Mishap

A Kingston man was arrested by state police Monday night for driving while intoxicated, following a two-car collision on Albany Avenue Extension in which only he was injured.

Troopers said Herman Morris, 56 of Elmendorf Street was treated and released from Benedictine Hospital. He suffered a lacerated lower lip.

Morris is scheduled to appear before Town of Ulster Justice of Peace Robert Stedge on Monday.

Troopers John Salters and Harry Saunders reported the other car involved was operated by Joseph Lucido, 58 of Route 1, Box 267, Saugerties.

Troopers said Lucido was proceeding north on Albany Avenue Extension after the light changed in his favor. Morris in a 1955 sedan was traveling south on Route 9W made a slight curve onto Albany Avenue Extension on the wrong side and ran headon into the Lucido 1962 sedan, troopers reported. This mishap occurred at 8:20 p. m.

Mandy Suggests Board Approval Of Area Tellers

A member of the Highland Board of Fire Commissioners on Monday questioned a report that tellers were selected for today's district election of commissioners without a meeting of the board.

Frank Mandy stated that in his opinion the commissioners should meet monthly at a regularly scheduled time. He noted there had not been a meeting of the board since September.

Mandy further contended that tellers should be elected by the board.

Fire Destroys Market

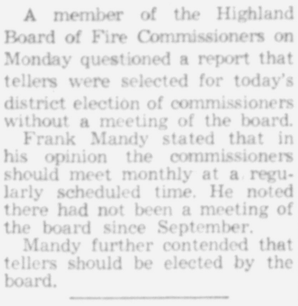

WATERFORD, N.Y. (AP) — Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Country Dollar supermarker early today.

Three firemen suffered foot injuries when they stepped on nails while battling flames in the one-story, cement-block building on the Waterford-Mechanicville Road. The men were treated at Leonard Hospital, Troy, and discharged.

Striking employes of the General Electric Company's nearby silicone plant left picket posts to help awaken occupants of two houses threatened by the flames.

Josep'i Boyajian, the store proprietor, estimated the loss at $75,000 to $100,000.

Where do shooting stars come from? In a general way, you can gauge a shooting star's "birthplace" by its speed. The slower-moving shooting stars probably have strayed from the orbit of comets. But the fast-moving ones are a mystery. Astronomers say these shooting stars come incredible distances, from somewhere in the untold reaches of interstellar space. Beyond that, origin is anybody's guess.

Army Cites Need For 2 Divisions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr. has indicated that if the Army gets two more regular divisions it could cope with future cold war crises without calling up National Guardsmen and Reservists.

The indication came Monday when Stahr announced that the Army has corrected most of the clothing and equipment shorages, poor living conditions, and idleness problems which prompted complaints from citizen soldiers ordered to active duty.

Informed sources said the regular Army probably will be increased to 16 divisions, with an over-all strength of about 960,000 men.

The Army now totals more than a million men—14 regular divisions, plus two National Guard divisions and more than 400 smaller Guard and Reserve units mustered into active service.

In all, 119,000 Guardsmen and Reservists have been called to the colors since early October and Stahr said "an Army-wide survey showed only slightly more than 1,000 soldier gripes."

Field reports indicate clearly that "the morale of the overwhelming majority of individuals called to duty is high," Stahr told a news conference.

The need for an immediate increase in the Army's combat strength, Stahr said, "could only be met by calling up trained National Guardsmen and Reservists." Larger draft calls would not provide the needed strength in time, he added.

Roadblock Nets 48 at Quarryville

A roadblock by Town of Saugerties constables and State Conservation Department men on Route 32 near Blue Mountain Road, Quarryville, netted 23 motorists on traffic infractions and 15 for conservation violations. More than 60 deer were counted and checked by conservation men.

Traffic infractions includes expired inspection certificates and unlicensed motor vehicles. Conservation law violations included improperly tagged deer, transporting unmarked venison, no license and improper license.

All cases were brought before Saugerties Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers.

Detailed to the roadblock were Saugerties Constables Charles Riley, John Pavlak, Anthony Ventriglia, John Roderer, Herbert Hommel and George Derbyshire.

Conservation men from area included Walter H. Soule of Lexington.

The fighting broke out today after Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba, acting as ranking official in the absence of Tshombe in Paris, agreed to removal of a road block thrown up Monday between the airport and the city. Indian troops guard the airport.

Urquhart said the Katangans not only did not carry out the agreement but set up other barriers isolating Swedish and Irish U.N. camps from the city.

Then the U.N. official announced the discovery of a Katanga battle plan, and said fighting was unavoidable.

He said Katanga ministers, quitting the capital, handed over government affairs to the province's military command.

Katanga workers began fleeing their jobs and an exodus from the city began.

Error Inadvertently Lists Area Trooper

A mechanical error in setting type for an account of two out-of-town motorists held for drunk driving, which appeared in Monday's Freeman, inadvertently listed Trooper Wallace Mahan of Highland sub-station as pleading not guilty and posting bail.

The story should have reported Trooper Mahan as the arresting officer.

Highland state police arrested two motorists charged with driving while intoxicated. The defendants pleaded innocent when they appeared Saturday before Town of Esopus Justice of the Peace John O. Beaver.

Arrested by Trooper Mahan was James Lyons, 39, of Tarrytown, who posted bail for a hearing Wednesday, Dec. 21 at 8 p. m.

Seven-Year Faith

SPARTA, Wis. (AP)—Thomas O'Hearn told an employe in his grocery in 1954 that he thought most people are honest. To prove it, O'Hearn put a dollar bill on the visor of his car in full sight. The bill was stolen from O'Hearns' unlocked car, but not until it had remained there for seven years. On the dollar, O'Hearn had written, "I believe people are honest. If you take this dollar, I won't believe that any more."

Stratton Is Not Interested in 2nd State Position

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — Rep. Samuel S. Stratton says he will not give up his congressional seniority for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

The Schenectady Democrat, whose house district was abolished by the state legislature, squelched speculation he might be his party's candidate next year for lieutenant governor.

Stratton, also mentioned as a possible gubernatorial candidate, told reporters Monday he expected to announce shortly whether he had any plans to oppose Republican Gov. Rockefeller.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City has been mentioned as a strong contender for the Democratic nomination. Stratton supported Wagner in the latter's successful bid last month for reelection over opposition by the regular Democratic organization in the state.

Stratton said he had previously announced that he would run for reelection. He said, however, he had not decided in which district he would be a candidate, in view of the reapportionment of congressional districts last month by the Legislature.

"It looks as though I'll run in the 35th," Stratton said.

Part of the new 35th had been in Stratton's 32nd District but more of it was in the 36th district, now represented by Rep. John Taber, R-Auburn.

Taber, a 20-term veteran, has announced he will not seek re-election.

Stratton could withdraw from the congressional campaign if nominated for governor at the Democratic state convention next year.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Savings and loan shares skidded again and market averages declined early this afternoon. The general price pattern was mixed and trading was heavy.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .30 at 266.30 with industrials off .40, rails off .20 and utilities off .20.

Gains and losses of most pivotal issues went from fractions to about a point. Sharper losses were shown by the West Coast savings and loan stocks which continued to react to news that the government is permitting commercial banks to raise their interest rates to 4 per cent, thus providing stiffer competition for the loan companies.

Electrical equipment issues also continued their slide in further retreat because of the big damage suits instituted against 21 of these manufacturers guilty of price rigging.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Trading was heavy.

'Fast Growths' Have Short-Lived Declines

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "In one of your columns, you mentioned that some 'fast-growth stocks' were probably priced too high. Why then didn't you advise their sale?" J. T.

A) Your intelligent question points up a problem in basic investment policy. Fast-growth stocks often advance so rapidly that any ensuing correction appears important, even though it may be only a minor move. In the column you refer to, I stated that the stocks in my 20-fast-growth-stock average had advanced an average of 1630 per cent from their lows of 1955 to their 1961 highs. This is at the rate of 180 per cent per annum. During this long climb there have been only four short-lived declines of any importance. None of them exceeded 20 per cent and they averaged only about 90 days' duration.

I think you can see from the above figures that it would scarcely pay to try to sell these kinds of stocks at temporary peaks with the hope of buying them back two or three months later. Even if you were lucky enough to sell, the chances are that you wouldn't buy back and would thus forfeit subsequent profits.

Of course, this is not to say that all growth stocks will forever remain "holds" or that certain individual issues won't climb to a point where selling is justified either because of developments within the company or because the shares got so high that they discounted the future too far ahead. In short, fast growth stocks generally should not be dumped simply because occasional sell-offs occur. That is why I didn't advise their sale in my earlier column.

Q) "My portfolio includes several hundred shares of Western Publishing. Should I stick with them?" E. H.

A) I certainly would. Western Publishing (OTC) shares have slipped a little because of what I consider to be a temporary sag in first-half earnings. A better second half seems to be shaping up, and I believe the share action will become stronger in the months ahead.

Dismiss Charges Against Man Who Shot Companion

A charge of criminal negligence against John P. White, 39, of Cornwall-on-Hudson in connection with the accidental shooting of his hunting companion on November 20 was dismissed by Town of Ulster Justice of the Peace Robert Stedge Monday night on grounds of insufficient evidence.

The charges were withdrawn on recommendation of the district attorney's office, according to Kingston Trooper David Wachtel.

White was arrested on opening day of deer season when his companion, Richard Mysdom, 31, also of Cornwall was shot to death while the two were hunting deer in the Town of Shandaken near Mt. Tremper.

Insurance Agent Shows Up as Lake Search on

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—A 28-year-old insurance agent, apparently suffering from amnesia, walked into police headquarters Monday to seek help while skin divers searched an adirondack lake in the belief he had been drowned.

Barton Goodbread of Gloversville, was taken to Ellis Hospital after he complained of severe head pains and was not able to identify himself, police said.

Goodbread was reported in satisfactory condition today.

He was driving from Malone to Plattsburgh when his automobile rolled down an embankment into Lower Cascade Lake a few miles west of Keene, Richard Vanderslice of Rexford Goodbread's employer, said. Vanderslice identified Goodbread at the hospital.

State Police originall theorized that Goodbread was thrown from the car into open water early Sunday. Skindivers had begun a search of the lake for his body when he arrived at the police station.

Troopers said there was no indication of what caused the accident. Goodbread was not cut or bruised, they said.

A motorist gave Goodbread a ride early Sunday morning from the accident scene to Kenne Valley, State Police said.

It was not known how Goodbread reached Schenectady, more than 100 miles from Keene, but police said Goodbread told them he thought he had "walked quite a ways."

Would Investigate Leaflets Sent to Lure Negroes Up

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—A Broome County supervisor urges a state investigation of a leaflet he said is designed to lure southern Negroes to New York City with the promise of living well on relief.

Republican Supervisor Donald J. Stickles distributed facsimile copies of the document at a board meeting Monday night.

He said it was sent to him by a friend in Savannah, Ga., who reported that hundreds of leaflets were distributed to Savannah Negroes Nov. 11.

The leaflet, which was unsigned, said in part:

"There is no limitation on the amount of cash contributed by the welfare department. Welfare rules carry no time limitation. The size of a cash allowance by the New York City Welfare Department depends only on the size of one's family."

Promise to Migrants

The leaflet promised migrants a "nice apartment with private bathroom," hospital and medical care, food, clothing, a housekeeper and home nursing service.

Stickles said he had sent copies of the leaflet to Sen. Henry A. Wise, R-Watertown, chairman of a legislative committee on welfare. Stickles said he had urged Wise "to make a proper investigation of this disgusting thing."

He said he also had sent copies to the State Social Welfare Department, and Abrahaim Ribicoff, U.S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

In Washington, a special committee named by Ribicoff urged adoption of a new welfare plan that coupled increased federal aid with research, a newspaper reported.

The Washington Post said Monday night the committee said the proposals were aimed at making relief programs more effective and helping recipients become self-supporting.

The committee recommendations are expected to form the basis for the program Ribicoff will present Congress next year.

The recommendations included relief payments for disabled or jobless fathers living in the homes of welfare families ,increased federal aid to state adopting services aimed at making relief families self-supporting, and use of federal funds to support community work programs.

"A SMALL ATTRACTIVE HEARING AID? SURE! BUT FIRST AND FOREMOST I WANT TO HEAR!"

(Pittsburgh interview) In research to learn what type of hearing aids are most wanted by the hard-of-hearing, Ed Gregory, 260 Silver Lake, R. D. #1, McKees Rocks, Pa., replies, "The claims I read about new miracles in hearing aids don't bother me any more. I wore a well known hearing aid for many years, and could hear all right with it. But when I first had my new RADIOEAR hearing glasses adjusted, I know now I behaved as if I were a little foolish! I could hear so much more, and hear so much more clearly, and without a tinny, artificial sound, I just had to exclaim about it! After all is said and done, of course we want small, good-looking instruments, but for my money, there isn't any substitute for fine hearing! And the way I hear with my RADIOEAR hearing-glasses is something you have to experience for yourself. I just couldn't believe there could be that much difference in hearing aids!"

We often get comments from local friends along the same identical line expressed by Mr. Gregory. If your present hearing aid or your hearing are not all that you think they should be, let us help you hear new "worlds" of sound—with a modern RADIOEAR.

The victims were Allan McCarty, 25, Clarence J. Burns, 44, and Miss Beverly Byerly, 20, all of Buffalo.

State police said McCarty and Burns were among five persons in one car. Miss Byerly was in the other automobile.

Replacement Now Chairman of Civil War Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Allan Nevins, a replacement on the Civil War Centennial Commission for Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant (Ret.), has been elected commission chairman.

Grant, of Canton, N.Y., was chairman when he resigned in August after a number of disputes had arrisen in connection with the commemoration.

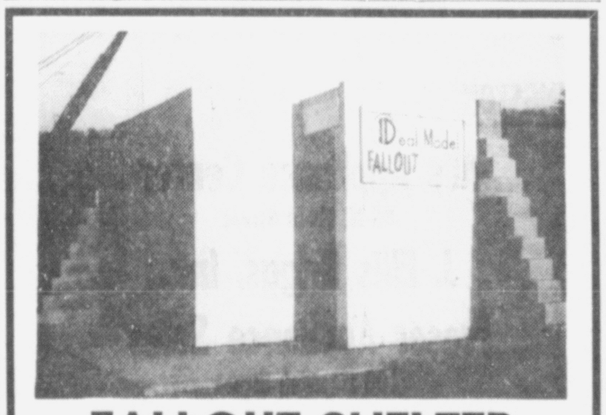

Nevins was named to the commission Oct. 31 by President Kennedy. The commission names its own chairman.

Grant, grandson of the Union Army commander, was named chairman emeritus of the group.

James I. Robertson Jr., a historian at the University of Iowa, was chosen Monday as the commission's executive director to succeed Karl S. Betts. Betts resigned at the same time Grant left.

Nevins, 71, holds a pulitzer prize and other awards for historical and biographical writings.

Yesterday's article discussed the nonforcing—but strong—two bid for use with a part score. Someone is bound to want to know what you do when you play this convention and pick up one of those real rockcrushers such as today's South hand.

One way to handle it is to open with two and hope for a response. After all partner is supposed to respond with almost anything.

The other way is to play the opening bid of two clubs as an absolute force with nearly automatic two diamond response.

Naturally, you had better make sure that your partner won't forget this because it may be a year or more after you start using this convention before you get the hand for it.

South certainly had the cards for an absolute forcing bid and he continued his forcing tactics by a jump to three spades.

When his next jump was to six hearts, North decided that his hand warranted a seven bid and went there.

His optimism was fully justified by the result. South ruffed the opening club lead, drew trumps, ruffed a couple of spades and made the grand slam contract.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Is TV selling us more and are we enjoying it less?

Amid all the talk about trends, one which has been overlooked is TV's growing habit of clustering all sorts of commercials around that inevitable "pause for station identification" every half hour.

The other night I counted the commercials thrown at me from the moment the hero of one show delivered the villain to the local jail until the action-filled "teaser" of the next program showed a man being hit over the head.

There were six—and I am counting those "stay-tuned-to" exhortations about the following attraction as a commercial. They sure aren't entertainment, news or public affairs announcements.

On that particular occasion, the six consisted of a final sales spiel "the alternate sponsor," the usual plea to stay tuned to the next show, a network plug for a program to be broadcast the next night, two commercials crammed into the 40 seconds during which, in a flashing of an eye, the network and station identified itself, and finally, the first commercial of the next show. Added to this was the leisurely wind-up of the first show-with credits to everybody connected with the production, including the costumer's assistant—it lingered on the final group of lesser names in order to have the show's jazz theme come to an end—plus another credit lis at the beginning of the new show.

An advertising man who was complaining about the increasing invasion of so-called "program time" by this sort of thing, estimated that networks and local stations are cutting about seven minutes out of every half-hour of TV. Commercial announcements are supposed to take three minutes out of 30.

Recommended tonight: "Dick Powell Show," NBC, 9-10 (EST)—"Three Soldiers," with James Donald and Telly Savelas; "Drop-Out," ABC, 10:30-11—a study of students who quit school before graduating from high school.

Oliver Wendell Holmes because of his clever essays with the title, was called "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table."

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Those who have a few minutes to spare while shopping uptown to see some of the pictures of old Kingston mentioned in this column can see them at the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston at 267 Wall Street during the business hours. There is convenient parking right on the bank grounds. One of the photographs is of the corner of John and Fair Streets, before the Stuyvesant was built, around 1906. Another picture is of Wall Street when St. John's Episcopal Church was next to Keeney's Theatre. Another set of pictures, of Rondout, are at the Rondout Saving's Bank, Broadway and Mill Street.

I received a wonderful letter from a former teacher of mine. She writess in part: "Dear Sophie: You have my heartfelt appreciation for the very kind tribute you gave me in your interesting article about dear old Spencer's in the Freeman of Monday evening. How vividly I remember every item mentioned. I was there and know. I taught two years under B. Spencer, then three years under the partnership of C. L. Kelly and John J. Moran, married in 1906 and returned to my desk in 1914, with Mr. Kelly, the owner and principal, as the partnership had been dissolved during my absence. I remained until my voluntary retirement in May of 1951. I taught a year and a half for Joseph Morgan after Delmar Kelly sold the school to Joseph Morgan. A teaching period of forty-one years. Quite a record of which I am justly proud. I have received several phone calls and messages complimenting your article."

Mrs. Elsie M. Pultz of 142 St. James Street, Kingston, further writes: "Well do I remember the $40 Life Scholarship which was used between positions. When Spencer sold the school it was no longer in use. I really wish you could have known B. H. Spencer. He was a very handsome man, always immaculately dressed in cut-away coat, striped trousers, white shirt and beautiful ties, shoes shining like mirrors.

"Mr. Spencer taught his expert penmanship for one hour each morning with his staff of eight teachers among the students, setting copies and helping the pupils to write. Nearly every graduate from Spencer's those days were beautiful and legible writers. He taught all kinds of fancy writing as well. In his last years, Mr. Spencer was an expert for the FBI in criminal writings, forgeries, etc. He was known throughout America for his ability in that capacity, and he was pleasant to work with. Aside from teaching I took full charge of his office.

"Mr. Spencer and Mr. Kelly were as unlike as two men could be and both fine teachers, Mrs. Pultz writes.

She also says she has many fond and sacred memories of her wonderful students, many of them have made good and now occupy positions of honor and success which makes her proud and happy.

I, personally, cannot put into words why I think so highly of Mrs. Pultz, as a teacher. The atmosphere in her classroom was entirely different from any classroom in Kingston High School, and she could ably take care of large classes, without sarcasm and irritation and turn irresponsible children into grown-ups who had faith in their own ability. In high school they had a tendency to leave you with a childish inferiority complex, even with its diploma in your hand.

Canadians Plan Guard Against Culture of U. S.

CHATEAUGUAY, Que. (AP) — Canada faces "an intangible danger—our absorption by American culture," Justice Minister Edmund D. Fulton says.

English-Canadians and French-Canadians together "will build a strong Canadian nation, capable of overcoming the danger of "cultural infiltration" from the United States, he said.

Fulton told a Progessive Conservative Party meeting Monday night that "alone and divided, we will be too weak. The pressure on us will be too great. But living together and helping each other, we will build our personality."

2nd Callup, Old Material, Short Supplies Make Army Gripe Case

By RALEIGH ALLSBROOK

NEW YORK (AP)—Complaints of morale and supply shortages are arising at some of the camps where National Guard and reserve units have been called back into service.

As during World War II and the Korean War, the military is being accused of using "hurry up and wait" tactics—hurring men into uniform and then not being prepared for them.

Has the military actually let down the men it called back to the colors or are the complaints, as draft director Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey commented, simply the traditional griping of soldiers.

Pentagon sources say that out of 119,000 Army reservists and Guardsmen called back, less than 1 per cent have put in complaints. This estimate, the sources said was based on letters and other communications received at all Army levels.

Maj. Gen. William H. Harrison, president of the National Guard Association, said "the griping of a few individuals" is casting a shadow upon the patriotism and spirited response" of the Guardsmen and reservists.

"These complaints, in some instances," he said, "are from men who have already served on extended active duty and resent a second callup when so many of their friends and neighbors have performed no military service."

He said there should be changes in the law and policy.

Called to Prevent War

The matter reached a climax last week when President Kennedy devoted a part of his news conference to answering critics.

The President, whose own record includes heroic wartime service in the Navy, took particular note of complaints about Ft. Lewis Wash.

He said the men there may be serving in a cold and windy camp, but they "are rendering the same kind of service to our country as an airplane standing at 15-minute alert at a SAC base in Omaha is rendering.

"We call them in to prevent a war, not to fight a war."

But he asked them to recognize that they are contributing to the security of their families and he held out hope they may be sent home short of their required 12 months of service.

Maj. Gen. Edward H. McDaniel, Army inspector general, is investigating conditions at Ft. Lewis, where Rep. Alvin O'Konski, R-Wis., has made accusations of "criminal negligence."

The Wisconsin representative started a controversy over whether the Army made adequate preparations there to take care of his state's 32th Infantry Division.

He called it a "lost division" with obsolete and poorly operating weapons and short supplies.

Derial Made

This brought a denial by the Army and a charge from the division commander, Maj. Gen. H. A. Smith, that O'Konski had damaged the unit's morale and made the troops appear a "bunch of crybabies."

Most of O'Konski's charges also were contradicted indirectly by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who followed him on an inspection of the camp.

Proxmire reported he found many things wrong, but that the Army was making a sincere effort to straighten them out.

Other complaints have developed at Ft. Polk, La., where National Guardsmen from a number of S. thern and Western states have been training.

A group of nearly 100 enlisted men from the 49th Armored Division there wrote a letter to Rep. Joe Kilgore, D-Tex., complaining about conditions.

They also protested that while they had prior service "back at home there are those who have never been called to duty."

Explains About Building

An information officer at the camp declared that since a part of it had been closed since 1954, some of the buildings naturally "were going to deteriorate."

But he said that conditions were improving rapidly and that many of the shortages complained of already have been filled.

Congressional complaints also arose over Air ational Guard units called up and sent overseas.

Rep. George Huddleston, D-Ala., said he had received reports that some members of the 117th Reconnaissance Wing, now based in Paris, were just sitting around with nothing to do.

Pentagon officials blamed it on air traffic control problems and said discussions were under way with French authorities to clear up the situation.

Reporter Jack Foisie of the San Francisco Chronicle visited Ft. Ord in California and said troops were spending their time waiting for equipment, listening to old lectures, seeing old training films and "manicuring" their barracks areas.

Despite the criticism of some camps, reports from other military installations indicated few complaints.

Silent on Lead, But She's Still Active in Party

NEW YORK (AP) — Elizabeth Gurley Flynn won't say if she is still national chairman of the Communist party of the U.S.A., but she made clear she intends to continue her activities as a party member.

The party has been indicted for failing to register with the federal government as an arm of the Soviet Union.

Addressing a Monday night rally on behalf of the Communist newspaper, The Worker, Miss Flynn, 70, suggested older persons should retire from their party posts to make way for new blood.

Asked about her own post, Miss Flynn replied: "At the present time, I can't discuss the party post. It's in legal litigation now."

Then she added: "At least you see I'm not underground."

Kentucky Will Hold U. S. Twist Contest

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Picture a huge room filled with cloth bags, each containing an angry wildcat. You should get the same visual effect New Year's Eve at Freedom Hall.

That's the date when William H. King will sponsor the first national Twist contest with several hundred squirming contestants and an expected 15,000 spectators.

Prizes, in merchandise, will total about $5,000, King says, and entry is free. So, presumably, is first aid treatment.

Kennedy to Leave On 4-Day Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, who never made the varsity in his schooldays, kicks off a busy travel schedule today with a trip to New York to be honored with greats of the game by the National Football Hall of Fame.

Kennedy takes off from National Airport early in the afternoon on a four-day journey that also will bring him before the National Association of Manufacturers in New York and the AFL-CIO and Young Democrats in Miami Beach before he gets back to Washington on Friday.

The New York-Florida venture is the first of three trips anticipated this month. The White House announced Monday Kennedy would meet British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan at Bermuda on Dec. 21-22.

Kennedy also is expected to visit Colombia and Venezuela in mid-December on what would be his first flight south of the border since taking office.

In New York, Kennedy will receive a gold medal from the National Football Foundation as eight headline players of yesteryear and two coaches are inducted into the Hall of Fame. Former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Herbert Hoover were similarly honored in the past.

Kennedy will set forth his tariff and trade proposals at a National Association of Manufacturers luncheon Wednesday. The administration is expected to seek broad powers from Congress to negotiate reciprocal tariff cuts with other nations. The effect of international trade, domestic conditions and economy on the millions of U.S. workers likely will be covered in his AFL-CIO speech at Miami Beach the next day.

AA Is Worldwide

NEW YORK (AP) — Alcoholics Anonymous now includes more than 8,500 chapters in 82 nations, reports the Catholic Digest. It says AA has salvaged 300,000 alcohol-ridden lives in its 25 years of operation.

You can make a most delicious gravy simply by adding heavy cream to the pan drippings from roast chicken or turkey.

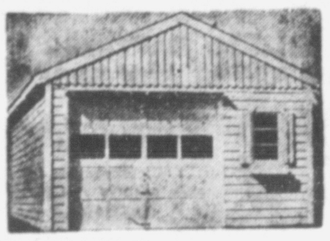

White Gold

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Dentistry has solved the problem of using gold for its good filling qualities without making a patient's mouth look like a jewelry store window. Dr. John F. Johnson of the Indiana University School of Dentistry told a dental meeting here recently that porcelain veneers baked to the gold filling surface cover the gold and closely resemble the color and surface texture of natural teeth. The new process is based on a natural binding that exists between gold and porcelain when they are baked together.

The easiest way to remove fat from soup stock and gravy is to chill the broth or sauce; the fat rises to the top and hardens and may be lifted off in pieces.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The Christmas spirit must be inspiring both the business statisticians and the business soothsayers. The news leans heavily today to the jolly side. The predictions, as you might guess, are even cheerier.

Most official figures pouring out of government agencies and industry's haunts plot an upward trend in business activity. Many sight records in the making for December—such as in retail sales volume. Most of the rest chart the emergency from the early fall lull and resumption of the advance in industrial output and orders.

Steel Orders Gain

The soothsayers go farther. One group of business economists reporting over the weekend to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce sees 1962 setting records in production, income and profits.

Backing them up are such items as these:

Steel orders finally have begun to mount — perhaps to build up stocks in the first half of 1962 as a hedge against a possible steel strike in the summer. Mills are beginning to plan increased output. This has been holding close to 70 per cent of capacity for some time, but some say it could soon rise to 80 per cent.

Auto retail sales have perked up. And some think output this month could top last December by 20 per cent or more.

One tip here is that consumer debt has begun to rise, with most of the increase in instalment credit in auto paper. The latest reported gain is the biggest in almost a year.

Spending on construction, both current and planned, has begun to rise. The Department of Commerce is particularly impressed by the outlook for home building. It estimates 1.3 million private housing units will have been started this year by New Year's Eve. And it thinks that next year another 1.4 million will be going up. Public housing is put at 50,000 units this year and 55,000 next.

Business spending for new plant and equipment also is expected to rise next year. Higher costs will account for some of the increase. But if output and profits advance as some hope, the physical volume of construction will be up, too.

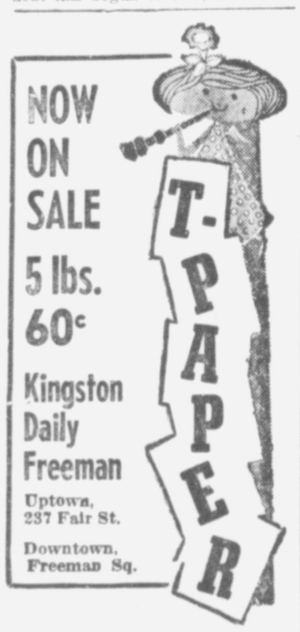

At the consumer level, economists note with joy that sales volume is on the increase. The latest weekly figure on department store sales show them 6 per cent above the like week of 1960.

Predictions of total Christmas sales this year run 4 to 6 per cent ahead of last year. Shoppers are reported buying carefully but not pinching pennies when they find what they want.

Both merchants and manufacturers are taking comfort from the state of the money market.

The money managers are seeing to it that the banks have plenty of reserves for financing Christmas trade and for making loans when and if industrialists want them for expanding activity.

And the economists have their own source of comfort. Despite all the optimism that has bubbled up of late, there's no sign yet of a runaway boom psychology that could be dangerous. Purchasing agents report ordering is still being held within realistic bounds. Expansion plans are being tailored close to reasonable expectations of industrial demand.

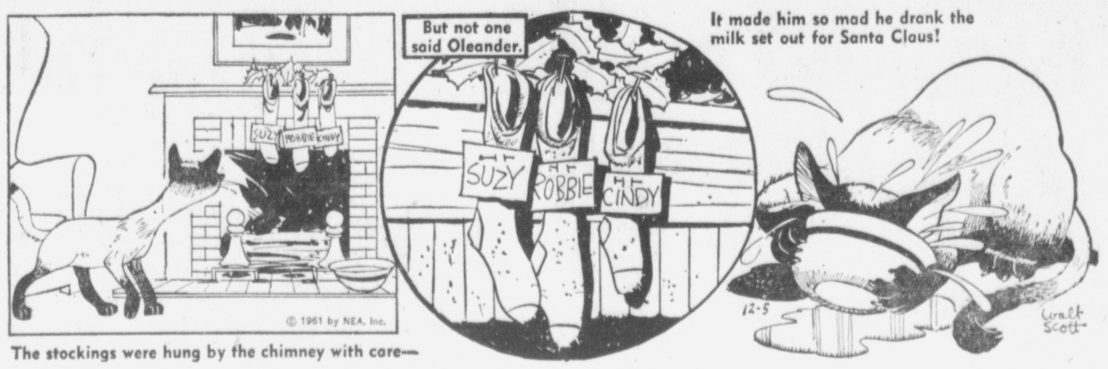

Regional Conference On Migrant Labor Set

Nurses Association Parley Set Dec. 13-15

"Our Mutual Interest — The Patient" is the theme for the first conference, sponsored by New York State Nurses Association in cooperation with the Hospital Association of New York State, to be held December 13-15, at Arden House, Harriman. Conference plans were announced today, at an NYSNA board of directors meeting.

"We hope recommendations will come out of this conference, and others that may follow, that will help solve problems encountered by hospital administrators and nursing service personnel in their joint efforts to provide the best possible services to patients," Miss Cora E. Pike, RN, North Tarrytown, president of the New York State Nurses Association, said.

Stock Splits Are At Record High

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Stock splits in 1961 have already set a new high, according to a study just completed by Spear & Staff, Inc., investment advisors.

Up to the middle of November, there had been 339 stock splits approved or proposed to stockholders, compared with the previous record of 320 for all of 1959, the Spear analysis shows.

Although some issues rise after a split has been announced, the advisors say, a significant gain also frequently occurs before the official announcement, while the issue is a good "candidate" for splitting. In July, for example, Spear listed 25 split candidates. Since that time, five of the issues have split (Drackett, Emerson, Electric, Gillette, Purex, and Reynolds Tobacco). The average price increase — from the July listing to the day before the split proposal was announced — was 8.3%. The average gain of these five issues since that time has been 11.5%. Thus investors who selected the issues well before actual split action had an opportunity to share in both rises.

Some well known firms now considered as good split prospects by Spear & Staff include: American Tobacco Corning Glass, Eastman Kodak, Ford, General Foods, Hershey, and Quaker Oats.

Cautioned Roger E. Spear president, "Splits are popular with most investors, since the lower price for the split shares usually broadens the market and helps facilitate higher prices for the issue. Never buy a stock on split prospects alone, however—just look at the possibility as one additional factor of many that you should consider before investing."

State Checking Into Sour Milk Complaints

NEW YORK (AP)—State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz says customer complaints of sour milk resulted in an extra rider on some milk trucks—a state investigator.

The attorney general told a consumer group Monday that the investigators were trying to find out the effects of a recent state law that wiped out the city's milk-dating requirements.

The state is studying delivery and refrigeration methods, including "how long milk is allowed to stay outside a store after delivery," Lefkowitz said.

Road to Communism May Be Bloody and Chaotic

Castro's Marxist-Leninist Line Could Mean Headaches for Moscow, Red China

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fidel Castro is an emotional Marxist, not an intellectual one. And, because he is, his road to communism in Cuba should continue to be unpredictable, erratic, opportunistic, and probably blood and chaotic.

The difference between intellect and emotion in Castro was spelled out in his Saturday broadcast in which he explained how long it took him to become a Marxist-Leninist.

Problem All Around

But then, admitting he is taking Cuba into communism, he said his program will be "Marxist-Leninist but adapted to conditions existing in our country."

This makes him no less a problem for the United States but in time it should also make him a problem for both Moscow and Peiping.

The Russians and Red Chinese are having trouble enough with one another on what road to take without seeing Castro riding off in still another direction like Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito.

It is no wonder Premier Khrushchev, in his Vienna talk with President Kennedy last June, called Castro unstable and said he is not a Communist.

Castro listed three stages in his development which show he became a Marxist as a result of events and not of a cool intellectual determination.

Anti-Red One Time

When he was a student in Havana, son of a rich landowner, he was not a Marxist because he was influenced, he said, by capitalist propaganda. This would indicate he was then anti-Communist. He was 23 when he was graduated from Havana University in 1950 with a law degree and a doctorate.

At 26, he said, his thinking was pretty much as it is now. But, if he can be believed, this can hardly have been the case since he then said he didn't become a Marxist-Leninist until he took over Cuba three years ago at 32.

The Cuban Communists had doubts about him. When he was fighting in the hills against the dictatorship of Fulgencio Batista, which he toppled at the beginning of 1959, the Communists refused to take part in a general strike he called for.

At that time, a State Department white paper said earlier this year, "when Castro first went to the hills the Cuban Communist party dismissed him as 'bourgeois' and 'putschist.'"

Differences Noted

As recently as Nov. 27, 1960, Max Frankel, writing in the New York Times about interviews he had with Communist leaders almost two years after Castro came to power, said: "The party has had its difference with Dr. Castro but they occurred, in the words of one of its leaders, 'before he understood.'"

One of the leaders told Frankel: "In the early days after Castro seized power here the Communist party had many disagreements with him about tactics and ideology. Gradually, however, it was able to convince him that anti-communism was a threat to his revolution and power.

"Thereafter, the ideological differences withered away until now there are only 'little things between us.' Premier Castro does not like a few of our ideas and we do not like a few of his—nothing important."

In short, Castro was had. He bought Marxism not because he had thought it through but because it gave him some sense of direction, which he didn't seem to have, and, above all, it was expedient.

He may have a social consciousness, but if he has a political philosophy it is expediency. If anyone doubts it, look at the record.

Love and Executions

On Jan. 8, 1959, a few days after he took over, he promised to "give the people love." Since then he has executed over 600 people.

The State Department white paper sums it up "The history of the Castro revolution has been the history of the calculated destruction of the free-spirited rebel army—of the disillusion, persecution, imprisonment, exile, and execution of men and women who supported Dr. Castro."

He promised, before he took over, to adhere to the Cuban constitution and he guaranteed freedom of speech and all rights. He went back on them all later.

Castro, judged by his own words and actions, is a man stumbling from one year into the next.

HAVE A HEART, GIRLS—Those tears indicate that Gary Lyn Kisel doesn't appreciate the attention of two such pretty lasses as Janet Schnorr, 17, of Indianapolis, right, and Marilyn Myers, 17, of Wheatfield, Ind. The girls will reign over Heart Month in February. Gary, of Whiteland, Ind., had open heart surgery last July and he's doing fine.

Declares Radar Powerful Weapon In Road Safety

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pennsylvania's new traffic safety program—particularly the controversial radar law—has been an effective force in cutting down the carnage on the state highways, according to Gov. David L. Lawrence.

"It is clear that each part of our new highway safety program is having a direct and highly desirable effect in our state," the governor said Monday.

Speaking before this city's 16th annual Mayor's Highway Safety Conference, Lawrence said radar is fast proving a "great and powerful weapon in the crusade against senseless human slaughter" on the state's highways.

Bennington Fire Checked

BENNINGTON, Vt. (AP)—Extensive damage was caused by flames which swept a North St. business block after they had been controlled earlier.

The fire broke out first shortly after 8 p.m .Monday night and was brought under control about an hour later.

Strong winds whipped up the embers after the firefighting crew had been reduced.

Most seriously damaged was the Montgomery Ward Co. store in the two-story brick structure.

More Data Is Sought in Fish Mine Water Kill

HARRISBURG (AP) — Atty. Gen. David Stahl said today the state Justice Department needs more information before deciding whether to take legal action against the Glen Alden Corp. in the recent Susquehanna fish kill.

"We still need certain technical information from the State Fish Commission," Stahl said in an interview.

Glen Alden was blamed for killing more than 116,000 fish early in October by allegedly dumping polluted mine water into the north branch of the Susquehanna River.

The fish, valued by Fish Commission officials at over $58,000 were found strewn along a 55-mile stretch of the river between Sunbury and Wilkes-Barre.

"We must determine how these estimates were made before we know whether or not we have a legal case against Glen Alden," Stahl said.

Fair Settlement Is Meyner View Of WNTA Sale

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) —Channel 13, WNTA-TV, will be sold to an educational television group but will provide programming specifically designed to meet the needs of New Jersey, according to terms of an agreement announded Monday.

Gov. Robert B. Meyner told a news conference that state officials had reached what he called "a fair settlement of a very difficult question" with the directors of educational television for the Metropolitan Area (ETMA).

National Television Associates, which owns WNTA-TV through a subsidiary, said in New York Monday night the sale would be concluded Friday for $6.2 million in cash.

Bronx Man Gets Jail Term for Welfare Fraud

NEW YORK (AP) —A truck-driver who took the city for a $14,000 welfare relief ride while he was earning $22,000 is ticketed for jail.

"The courts have been silent and lenient for too long in these welfare chiseling cases," County Judge Hyman Korn told Santos Gonzalez Monday.

Gonzalez, 38, of The Bronx, had pleaded guilty to fraudulently taking $14,000 in relief over a five year period. To avoid jail, he offered to make restitution at the rate of $10 a week.

Korn said no.

Dashes to Meter

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Commissioner Edward L. Nadeau had been given parking tickets while attending two previous meetings of the Board of Public Safety.

So, he interrupted a discussion about the operations of the police department—just long enough to dash out and put a nickel in the parking meter.

Death on Birthday

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP) — Arlene D'Antonio was struck and injured fatally by a truck Monday—her 15th birthday.

The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest D'Antonio, was hit as she returned home from religious instruction at school.

Study Proposals On Farm Topics

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration is hard at work on proposals to be laid before Congress next month for strengthening its programs to stabilize supplies and prices of farm commodities.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman will confer with an advisory committee on feed grains and what at closed meetings scheduled for Dec. 14-15. Out of this conference may come re ommendations for long-range supply control programs for feed grains and wheat, both surplus crops at present.

Administration farm leaders also plan to confer with dairy leaders on overproduction of milk and the possibility of getting support for legislation authorizing a national marketing order to control output.

Killed in Front of Home

NEWFANE, N.Y. (AP) —Donald T. Hopkins, 59, a gas station operator, was killed Monday when he was struck by an automobile while crossing Route 78 in front of his home, Niagara County sheriff's deputies said.

Examination Date for Applicants to State University Is Set for January 6 and 7

ALBANY, Dec. 4 — An examination for applicants seeking admission in 1962 to State University's 21 undergraduate colleges will be held January 6 at 50 testing centers throughout the state, and January 7 at New York City. (A list of testing centers is attached.) Applications for the examination must be postmarked no later than December 18. Those postmarked after that date will be assigned to a later test.

Students should write to the colleges in which they are interested for necessary forms. The examination is required of applicants to the following colleges:

State University Colleges at Albany, Brockport, Buffalo, Cortland, Fredonia, Geneseo, New Paltz, Oneonta, Oswego, Plattsburgh, and Potdam; Harpur College; College of Forestry; Maritime College; Long Island Center; Agricultural and Technical Intitutes at Alfred, Canton, Cobleskill, Delhi, Farmingdale, and Morrisville.

Applicants will be admitted to the examination only upon presentation of admission cards, which are included among the forms obtainable from the colleges.

The examination will be repeated February 24, May 5, and July 23 at some of the testing centers where the January 6-7 examinations will be held but applicants are urged to take the test as early as possible.

This examination is not required of students who wish to enroll in the State College of Ceramics at Alfred University, the four state colleges at Cornell University (Agriculture, Home Economics, Veterinary, and School of Industrial and Labor Relations), and the community colleges, which are supervised by State University but are locally sponsored.

Under a new plan which will be put into effect for the first time this year, applicants will have the opportunity to select one or two alternate colleges in which they would be interested if not admitted to the college of first preference. When the college of first choice is unable to accept an applicant, his high school record and admission test scores will be automatically reviewed by admissions officers of the other colleges designated.

The plan is intended to aid well qualified applicants to be admitted to programs in keeping with their interests and abilities at some of the University's colleges when there is no room at the unit of first preference.

Admission to State University colleges is based upon the qualifications of the applicant, and is granted without regard to race, color, creed, or national origin.

B'nai B'rith Youth Convention Committee Seeks Housing for Delegates Dec. 22-25th

As previously announced, Kingston will be the host city of the winter convention of the Upper New York State Region of the B'nai B'rith Youth Organization from December 22 to December 25. Anyone interested in housing a boy or girl for the duration of the convention may contact Marcia Abelove, Wilkie Avenue or Benny Levine, 130 Roosevelt Avenue.

The theme of this year's convention is Spirit, and various seminars and workshops have been planned to build spirit at the convention, prove the importance of spirit in Jewish life, and show the delegates ways to build up spirit in their own chapters.

The delegates will spend Saturday afternoon, Dec. 23, at Temple Emanuel attending seminars. The first one will be Ruach (Spirit) in Biblical times, Ruach in the Warsaw Ghetto, and Ruach in Israel today. Three qualified speakers will each express his ideas on one phase of this topic, and then the seminar will go into discussion groups led by outstanding BBYO members. The conclusions reached by the individual groups will be reported to the whole gathering at a later time.

The second seminar will be on Jewish Campus Life, and will be led by some BBYO alumni who are presently attending college, a recent college graduate, and other well-informed individuals.

The third will be on the topic of Jewish vocations, and will include the first-hand experiences of a rabbi and a Jewish social worker.

Sunday there will be a series of workshops. The first will be a song fest for the purpose of learning new songs of the region and renewing our acquaintance with others. This will be attended by all the delegates. After this the delegates will have a choice of attending one of three workshops. They are:

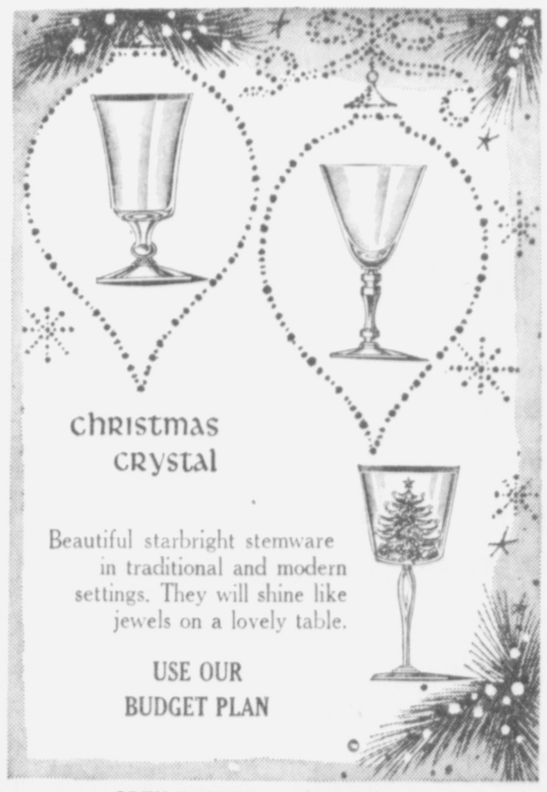

How to be a discussion leader; Israeli dancing and singing; writing a chapter newspaper.

The program for the remainder of the convention will be announced next week.

ELIMINATING A TROUBLE MAKING MEMBER

Q: About two and a half years ago a group of friends organized a bridge club. We enjoyed these weekly get-togethers very much. About six months ago one of the members moved away and one of the older members proposed a friend of hers to fill the vacant place. She has proved to be a born troublemaker. After every meeting she will take one of the members aside and confidentially tell her that "Mrs. So-and so said such and such about her." As a result a definite reserve has come between the members that has actually changed the friendly spirit that made the club pleasant before this new member joined.

It was quite a while before we even suspected that she was the cause. But now all of us are convinced (except the member who proposed her) that there will be no harmony as long as she is a member. Is there anyway we can eliminate the source of our trouble without hurting anyone's feelings This is a most distressing problem and I hope you can help us.

A: It will be impossible to eliminate this trouble making member without causing hurt feelings. You should ask the member who proposed her to ask her to resign, or hold a club meeting at which you tell her that she has not entered into the friendly spirit that you wish to preserve in the club and ask for her resignation. Another solution would be to disband the club now and then at a later date organize a new one with only the members who are congenial.

Gifts for a Stork Shower

Q: I have been invited to a shower for a mother-to-be. Will you please tell me what type of gift I should bring. Should it be something personal for the mother-to-be or something for her expected baby?

A: Your gift should be something for her expected baby.

A Wedding Day Superstition

Q: Is it true that it is bad luck for the bridegroom to see the bride on the day of her wedding, or does this only apply to seeing her in her bridal dress before the ceremony?

A: Seeing her in her bridal dress is supposed to be the bad luck.

The clothes of the bride and groom as well as those of their attendants are described in the new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled "Clothes of the Bridal Party." To obtain a copy send ten cents in coin to cover cost of handling and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, care of The Freeman.

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Apples Help Stuff Christmas Goose

THOSE who prefer roast goose for Christmas dinner will like recipe for stuffing that uses apples and sesame seeds.

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Here's one of the best stuffings we've ever had. Honestly! Patricia Murphy, author of "Glow of Candlelight," restaurateur and lover of good food and orchids, gave it to us. Try it with your Christmas goose. The toasted sesame seeds and tart apples give it distinctive flavor and consistency.

Roast Goose With Apple-Sesame Stuffing (Makes 8 Servings)

One goose (8 to 10 pounds dressed weight), 2 packages stuffing mix, ½ cup diced celery, ¼ cup dried parsley flakes, 4 tart apples, chopped; 1½ teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons poultry seasoning, ¼ teaspoon coarse black pepper, ½ cup toasted sesame seeds, ½ cup giblet stock, 2 tablespoons minced onion.

Wash goose inside and out; pat dry. Cook giblets to make stock. (Use chopped giblets in gravy.) Prepare stuffing mix as directed on package. Add rest of ingredients; mix thoroughly. If stuffing is not moist enough, add a little more stock to taste. Stuff and truss goose; place on rack in large open roasting pan. Do not add water; do not cover. Roast at 325 degrees F. 4 to 4½ hours until thoroughly done. (If goose is very fat, prick skin lightly after first hour.)

NOTE: To toast sesame seeds, spread seeds in shallow pan and toast in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

With your Christmas goose, serve this compote of prunes and chestnuts. It's also from "Glow of Candlelight."

Compote of Prunes and Chestnuts (Makes 8 Servings)

One half pound large prunes, 1 piece stick cinnamon, 2-inches long, 1 tablespoon sugar, 4 thick slices lemon, ½ pound chestnuts.

Soak prunes several hours or overnight in cold water to cover. Cook in same water, adding cinnamon, sugar and lemon juice, until soft. Cool. Remove lemon slices and cinnamon; pit prunes and return to juice. Meanwhile, cut a deep slit in each chestnut. Cover chestnuts with water; boil 20 miutes; drain. As soon as chestnuts are cool enough to handle, peel; cut in half; add to prunes. Serve hot as an accompaniment to goose or duckling.

Patricia Murphy gave us one of her favorite menus for a formal Christmas dinner:

Christmas Dinner

Oysters on the half shell, roast goose with apple-sesame stuffing, compote of prunes and chestnuts, creamed onions with nutmeg, sweet potatoes glace, assorted rolls, butter or margarine, celery hearts, radishes, carrot sticks, brandied mincemeat pie, pumpkin chiffon pie, black coffee, salted nuts.

Priest Shows Movies

QUARRYVILLE, Pa. (AP) — The Rev. John R. Campion, pastor of St. Catherine's Catholic Church, came up with an idea recently which he says serves a two-fold purpose.

Father Campion began showing feature-length movies and cartoons each Friday night in the church's social hall.

The idea, he explained, was to help encourage Friday night shopping in Quarryville. Parents can leave their children at the social hall to enjoy the movies.

The second purpose is to entertain both youngsters and adults. This small southeastern Pennsylvania community has no theater.

Teaching Tools, Machines Used as Classroom Aids

The public hears a good bit today about so-called teaching machines.

Actually, the term "teaching machine" properly refers to any mechanical device used in the classroom to supplement the instruction given by the teacher. What are some of the teaching machines currently in use in the Saugerties Central Schools? They include the following: (1) a television set in each of the four major buildings, (2) movie projectors, (3) film projectors, (4) opaque projectors, (5) tape recorders, (6) an overhead viewer (in use in the science department), (7), language lab.

Samples of programed material such as is normally used on so-called teaching machines are now being purchased for each of the major elementary buildings.

Movie films are secured from two different univrsity libraries. Films for use in the high school are chiefly secured from Syracuse University. Films for use in the grades are chiefly secured from State University College at Oneonta.

One of the best teaching machines in current use is the film strip machine. Some of its advantages are the following; It is relatively inexpensive. But perhaps one of the chief reasons for their being well fitted to classroom use is that any one given picture may be held on the screen for an indefinite length of time until it has been thoroughly discussed by the class and by the teacher.

Up and Down Like a Rubber Ball

Patterson Floors McNeeley Eight Times, Stops Him in 4th

★ ★ ★ ★

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

TORONTO (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson's fourth round knockout of lion-hearted Tom McNeeley Jr., in a wild, eight-knockdown brawl and Sonny Liston's dynamic one-punch blitz of Albert Westphal stirred up the possibility today of a $10-million showdown between the two victors.

The battle of the Sixties may not come off soon. Although Patterson, according to those very close to him, wants it badly, Liston hungers for it, and promoters Al and Tom Bolan, among others, desire it, cautious Cus D'Amato, the champ's manager, is in no hurry.

More to Cus' liking for the next fight is Henry Cooper, the British heavyweight champion, who meets contender Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz., in London tonight. That's what D'Amato told the Associated Press.

Patterson, unmarked and very fresh after his victory Monday night, declined to answer when asked if he would give Liston a crack at the title. He merely pointed to his manager.

"Liston can have a fight next week if he wants it," said D'Amato. "He knows what he must do to get it. It is up to him. That is all I can say."

He declined to elaborate.

Wants Early Fight

Patterson said he would like to fight again early next year.

Liston, after flattening Westphal with one right hand to the jaw in 1:55 of the first round at Philadelphia's Convention Hall, said "I'm ready for him right now."

"He's been scared of me for more than a year and a half," said Liston, the reinstated No. 1 contender from Philadelphia who has had several scrapes with the law.

The Patterson-McNeeley wingding in which Patterson went down on a so-called slip, at Maple Leaf Gardens, and the Liston-Westphal quickie formed a closed-circuit television double-header that was shown in about 150 theatres and arenas in the United States and Canada. It was also beamed to homes in 51 community antenna community systems.

Irving B. Kahn, president of TelePrompTer, which handles the ancillary rights (TV, radio, movies), estimated that he could line up 1,500,000 seats at an average $5 a head for a Patterson-Liston fight. The gate at a place like New York's Yankee Stadium could produce a $2.5-million gross at a $100 top, experts figured.

A Real Thriller

The Patterson-McNeeley scrap was a thriller from the very start. There were so many knockdowns and slips that arguments raged as to whether the former Michigan State football tackle was down eight, nine or ten times, and whether Patterson actually was dropped or slipped in the fourth round.

The Associated Press count had McNeeley down eight times where he was given the mandatory eight-counts, and twice on slips which might have been knockdowns.

Referee Jersey Joe Walcott, the former heavyweight champion, ruled there were two slips by McNeeley and that Patterson went down on a slip in the fourth round.

McNeeley, a strong, 6-2, 197-pounder, was knocked down once in the first round, four times in the third, and three times in the 2:51 fourth round. Walcott ruled he also slipped once in the first round and once in the third.

Patterson admitted he was hurt a couple of times in the third and fourth rounds.

"I knew when I was hit in the fourth round," said the champion, trim at 188½ pounds, "but I was never seriously in trouble."

Although he had the brawny but inexperienced McNeeley going up and down like a rubber ball, Patterson still didn't look like a 10-1 favorite. Crude as he was the crewcut blond from Arlington, Mass., gave the slick champion plenty of trouble.

Storms Back

After being knocked down twice in the third round, McNeeley, blood trickling from a wound under his right eye, stormed after Patterson like a wild man. He belted the surprised champion with a right to the jaw that hurt and brought roars from the crowd.

But Patterson took over and dropped McNeeley twice more officially and once more with a punch but the last was ruled a slip.

The challenger, who had been unbeaten in 23 previous fights in a 3 1-3 year career, brought the fans to their feet in the fatal fourth when he clouted Patterson with a right. The champ's knees appeared to buckle and his hand touched the canvas, helping him to leap up quickly. That was when Walcott called it a slip.

Then Patterson, with his cornermen calling for him to press the attack, tore in and felled his bleeding victim for two eight counts with barrages and then finally with a left-hand combination to the jaw for the full count of ten.

It was Patterson's ninth title fight, all of them ending in knockouts. He lost one to Ingemar Johansson. Patterson's record now is 38-2 including 29 knockouts.

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

With the Hudson Valley Women's League now just a bad dream, the sound and the fury seems to be mising from area women's tenpin circles.

Rose Schatzel reigns supreme as The Queen of mid-Hudson female keglers. Hilda Murphy is rolling her games in distant Ithaca and Syracuse.

When the HVWBL was in action and Mesdames Schatzel and Murphy were vieing for high avearge honors, there was a note of the dramatic in every weekly outing. Hilda Murphy was the only serious challenger to Rose's reign in two decades. Both were better bowlers for it.

A half dozen women have cracked the "600" circle to date, including Mrs. Schatzel, who has a 700; Evelyn Gross, Rosemary Pillsworth, Marian Sanford of Saugerties and Barbara Clark. Miss Pillsworth has found the "600" range twice and could seriously Challenge Sis Balash for seasonal dramatics. Schatzel and Gross have rolled so many 600s in their career that another one occasions nothing more than a polite yawn on the part of the bowling fans.

• A New Star

Vince Carpino is probably the top new find of the 1961-62 season. An accomplished bowler last season, Carpino launched the new year with a flurry of 600 triples that have kept him above the 200-average mark in the Hudson Valley league through the first three months...Three Brothers Egg Farms came face to faee with the moment of truth Saturday night at the Bowlerama, while the surprising Charles Ramsey Corp., swept three to throw the HVL race into a three-way tie among the three Kingston entries—3 Brothers, Jones Dairy and Ramseys. The intra-city rivalry between these squads may generate interest in the fast fading Hudson Valley league for which Kingston furnished 40 percent of the entries. Because of its unrealistic rules, the HVL has degenerated into a house league in recent years. Only wide open rosters could restore the pristine elegance of the league. The Kingston rivalries create a lot of steam in the city, but the big names are missing in the hinterlands. When the Poughkeepsie hotshots (Versace, Charter, et al) dropped from the league, much of the quality went with it. Any mid-Hudson circuit without powerful representation from Poughkeepsie and Newburgh is just an all-star league in name. Meanwhile, let us not criticize the feuds rampant among the Kingston squads. It's a healthy thing for the sport.

• Splits and Misses:

Jim Berardi and Nick Savino posting excellent scores in recent outings. Ditto for Louise Jordan...Mardi-Bob's All-Star bowling league at Poughkeepsie is doling out a total prize list of $3,625.00 ...First place team prize is $1,000, with $800, $600, $450, $350 and $250 through sixth place, for a total of $3,450. Individual and team records account for the remainder. Alabama Voted Top Grid Team

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Alabama was voted the 1961 Associated Press national football champion today, a goal set for the Crimson Tide by master rebuilder Paul (Bear) Bryant.

In the final poll of board members, defense-minded Alabama drew 452 of a possible 480 points to edge Big Ten champion Ohio State which collected 436.

Coach Bryant's eleven concluded a perfect season by crushing Auburn 34-0 Saturday, their fifth straight shutout, and will face ninth-ranked Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl. 'Bama is riding a 17-game winning streak.

Texas vaulted over Louisiana State into third spot, 348 points to 335. Mississippi, Minnesota, Colorado, Michigan State, Arkansas and Utah State complete the top 10 selected on the basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, nine for second and so forth.

Bryant, the "other end" from Don Hutson in 1934, returned to his alma mater four years ago. As he had done previously at Maryland, Kentucky and Texas AvM, Bryant inherited a loser but quickly converted it into a winner.

1st In 26 Years

Though this is the first national crown for Alabama in the 26 years of the AP poll, it is the third for a Southeastern Conference team in the past five seasons.

The Tide's seventh unbeaten, untied campaign—first since the 1945 unit led by Harry Gilmer—is built on a grudging defense as was that of Auburn (1957) and LSU (1958). Alabama led the nation in defense against scoring, allowing only 22 points, as well as in total defense and rushing defense yardage. Bryant's boys surrendered two touchdowns on passes, one on the ground, a field goal and a conversion kick.

Bryant, a superb recruiter and harsh taskmaster, did not relent until the ninth game of the 10-game schedule. When his charges whipped Georgia Tech 10-0, Bear said: "They convinced me they are a great team."

The final poll results with first-place votes in parenthesis:

1.	Alabama (26)	452
2.	Ohio State (20)	436
3.	Texas	348
4.	Louisiana State (1)	335
5.	Mississippi (1)	284
6.	Minnesota	225
7.	Colorado	171
8.	Michigan State	128
9.	Arkansas	105
10.	Utah State	33

Liston Still Hoping For Fight With Floyd

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sonny Liston says very little. Still, one gets the impression Liston feels heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson won't give him a shot at the title.

Liston and Patterson fought on the same card Monday night in different cities and against different opponents. In a closed circuit TV fight doubleheader, Liston, 212¼, knocked out Albert Westphal, 195, of Germany in 1:58 of the first round before 4,000 fans in Philadelphia's Convention Hall.

After the Philadelphia heavyweight fired a right cross to the jaw rendering the German master baker senseless for about three minutes, Patterson successfully defended his crown against Tom McNeeley, knocking out the Arlington, Mass., challenger in 2:51 of the fourth round at Toronto, Canada.

Liston didn't even bother to shower or dress. He swished a robe over his trunks and hurried to a nearby room to watch the Patterson-McNeeley fight.

Tough Subject

Liston said virtually nothing as sports writers pressed him for comment after each round. He did comment after the third that Patterson was missing a lot of punches.

Then it was over and Patterson was asked about his future plans. Would he fight Sonny Liston next?

Patterson professed "the greatest respect for Sonny Liston—in the ring." The champ had dodged the question.

Westphal admitted he came to this country for the $12,000 purse, a $1,750 expense account and three airplane tickets, and with an everything to gain nothing to lose philosophy. The former German heavyweight champion, now ranked No. 4, never had a chance in a colossal mismatch.

Liston chased the German for a bit, then lashed out with a right cross that caught Westphal flush on the jaw. He toppled to the canvas, being counted out by referee Zach Clayton.

The right cross was the first solid punch Liston threw. It was all he needed for win No. 33, knockout No. 23 in a 34-fight career.

Wilt Chamberlain Aiming for 3700 Points for the Season

Both Wilt Chamberlain of Philadelphia and Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles played three games this past week and both players dropped 1/10th per cent in their per game averages, Chamberlain going from 46.3 to 46.2, while Baylor fell from 34.7 to 34.6 per contest. Chamberlain picked up 34 points on Baylor during the week and has now totaled 970 to the Los Angeles Star's 797. If Chamberlain continues at his present rate of scoring, he'll hit 3700 for the full season's play. He will be aided by the addition of one game to the current NBA schedule.

Two other NBA performers are averaging 30 points or better per game. Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati is hitting at a 30.2 clip, while Richie Guerin of the N. Y. Knicks has an even 30.0 average. Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks and Jerry West of Los Angeles are next in the averages with 28.9 and 28.7 per game, respectively. Sixteen of the loop's top 20 individual scorers are averaging 20 points or better per contest, as compared to thirteen 20 point artists last year in the corresponding week.

Rookie, Walt Bellamy of Chicago, continues to pace the field goal accuracy race with a .506 followed by Clyde Lovellette of St. Louis who has been sharpshooting at .499. Oscar Robertson has bettered his shooting percentage during the week by moving from .469 to .478 where he holds a 1/10th percentage point lead over Bill Russell of Boston who's hitting .477. Johnny Kerr of Syracuse has moved into the fifth position with .474.

Free Throw Leaders

Gene Shue of Detroit has replaced Larry Costello of Syracuse, leader for two weeks, in the free throw department with .861. Dolph Schayes of Syracuse is second, .849, followed by Costello with .846. Paul Arizin of Philadelphia is hitting at .839 while Willie Naulls of New York is in fifth place with .838.

The rebounders are the same five who led the pack last week, headed by Chamberlain who has snagged 548 retrieves to 467 for Russell and 413 for Bob Pettit of St. Louis. Baylor and Wayne Embry of Cincinnati complete the top quintet of rebounders.

Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati maintained his assist lead, but yielded some ground, dropping from 12 assists per contest to 11.6. The veteran Bob Cousy of Boston, hobbled by a knee injury, has jumped to second place with 171 assists to Robertson's 278, and is feeding at the rate of 9.5 per tilt. Richie Guerin of New York, Guy Rodgers of Philadelphia and Jerry West of Los Angeles are the other members of the big 5 among the playmakers.

Fewer Mistakes Give Packers First Place

"If a player makes a mistake, he should know it. You shouldn't have to tell him about it," says Vince Lombardi, coach of the Green Bay Packers, Western Conference Champions of the National Football League for the second straight year.

"And if he doesn't know it," Lombardi adds, "he's not the kind of player you want on your team. There's no need to tell a boy about a mistake after a game. If we all do our jobs during the week, Sundays will take care of themselves."

That the Green Bay Packers have been working during the week is obvious. They have won 10, lost 2, and last Sunday defeated the New York Giants of the Eastern Conference.

Look at the Record

On way to analyze that impressive record is by a look at the Packers' mistakes, or rather at the scarcity of them.

In the 1960 season, when Green won the Western title with an 8-4 record, the Packers had 13 passes intercepted and fumbled 18 times, losing just 12 of them.

In the same number of games this season, the Packers have had only 12 passes intercepted and have fumbled only 15 times, losing 9 of them.

In their 20-17 victory over the Giants, the Packers fumbled four times, but lost only one. Green Bay twice had passes intercepted.

Willie Wood, the defensive halfback who this year replaced veteran Emlen Tunnell in the Packer secondary, says: "I'm always worried about making the big mistakes, the kind that can cost you six points."

There are no statistics on these kind—the missed assignment on defense, the missed block, the wrong signal, but when you check the departments in which the Packers are team leaders, it's readily seen Green Bay is anything but mistake-prone.

The Packers lead the NFL in scoring (346 points), defense against scoring (184 points), first downs rushing (121), net rushing yardage (2074), average yards per rush (5.1), touchdowns scored (43), and extra points (43).

In the tables of individual statistical leaders, the only one not listing a Packer among the leaders is pass interception, and Green Bay leads the West, as a team, in that category with 27.

Trojans Score Win Over Cats

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Southern Cal's up-and-down Trojans ended their foray through the Midwest and South on an ascending note and started home today with a 2-1 record and a precarious hold on the No. 4 spot in the national college basketball ratings.

The Trojans, definitely down in a weekend upset by Oklahoma, closed their road trip on the rebound, disappointing Kentucky's hopeful young Wildcats 79-77 Monday night.

The loss, Kentucky's first in two starts, put at least a kink in the sophomore-dominated Wildcats' hopes of gaining a national rating. The victory was a must for the Trojans.

They achieved it by a solid defense and the scoring heroics of John Rudometkin, who had 29 points and gave Southern Cal the go-ahead basket at 4:19, establishing a 78-77 lead.

Kentucky, which overcame a nine-point deficit early in the last half, held a 77-74 lead with 5:08 to go—then went stone cold and failed to score again.

Irish Win 59-58

Their match topped a heavy Monday slate which also included Notre Dame's 59-58 overtime decision over Northwestern, South Carolina's 79-66 victory over Tennessee and Texas Tech's narrow 84-82 win over Colorado.

Among the top games tonight are the visit of Miami of Ohio to mighty Cincinnati, the talent-rich defending NCAA champion; North Carolina State at powerful Wake Forest, West Virginia at VMI and Southern Methodist at Oklahoma.

For thrills, the Notre Dame-Northwestern affair must rank high. The lead changed hands 22 times before Northwestern gained possession with three minutes left and the score tied 57-57.

The Wildcats controlled the ball the rest of the way, waiting for a last second shot. Capt. Ralph Wells took it as time ran out—and missed a layup. John Matthews drove in for the winning basket with only three seconds left as Notre Dame chalked up its victory.

Tearful Loser Assures Father He Did His Best

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

TORONTO (AP) — As Tom McNeeley Jr., said in tears to Tom McNeeley Sr. as he left the ring after he had been knocked out in the fourth round by Floyd Patterson: "I tried, dad. I really tried."

The crowd of 7,813 that paid $106,740 at Maple Leaf Gardens Monday night shouted their agreement. When Tom Jr., left the ring after eight knockdowns and two or more "slipdowns," they gave the fighting Irishman a rousing cheer.

"Each time I hit him, he kept getting up," said Patterson after his successful defense of the world heavyweight title. "He had plenty of fight, a lot of courage."

Patterson even tried to help McNeeley to his feet after one knockdown. Asked later why he did it, Patterson said, "Why shouldn't I help him? He was hurt."

Referee Jersey Joe Walcott, the heavyweight champ nimself in 1951 and 1952, also praised McNeeley's courage.

"I thought of stopping it earlier," said Walcott. "But it looked like McNeeley had a chance to recover. It was a championship fight and as long as it looked like he had a chance to continue it would have been an injustice to stop it until I was sure he couldn't go further."

McNeeley had his one big chance in the fourth when he nailed the champ as Floyd sailed in for the kill after the first of three knockdowns in the round. Patterson wobbled and started to go down. His glove appeared to hit the deck but it was ruled a slip.

"That was no slip," said the 24-yearold challenger who used to play football at Michigan State. "I really hit him. I tried to finish it then but Patterson was too elusive. That was my chance but I couldn't capitalize on it."

A Holy Terror

Nobody Likes Gene Fullmer; But They Pay to Watch Him

By BILL McCORMICK
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Gene Fullmer is as contradictory as a Soviet disarmament plan.

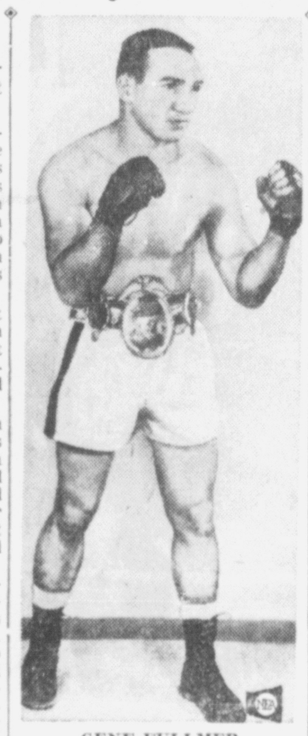

Outside the ring, the paradoxical pugilist from Utah is as nice a guy as you'd want to meet, as gentle as an egg-crater and as considerate as a newlywed. When the fight starts, Gene does a quick switch from Dr. Jekyll to Mr. Hyde. He gets as rude as an untipped waiter and as rough as a beatnik's beard.

He has a lackluster style that makes him as boring to watch as a television spectacular, yet he draws big gates and top television money—and has provided a few great thrills.

A butt-and-grab artist with practically no punch who fights like he couldn't flatten Grandma Moses, Fullmer has scored knockouts in more than a third of his 59 bouts. He swarms over opponents like the crickets that invaded his land in 1848 and eventually wears them down.

The holy terror from West Jordan defends his share of the middleweight title against Cuba's Benny Kid Paret in Las Vegas, Nev., Dec. 9, with, everything to lose and nothing—but a good payday—to gain. Paret, welterweight champion by grace of astigmatism, will not be risking the title he won when two judges with blurred vision voted him the winner over Emile Griffith in New York in September.

Fullmer, 30, is a 1 to 3 favorite to butt, gouge, wrestle and backhand his way to victory over the 24-year-old refugee from Castroland, thereby adding to his ring unpopularity and bank account.

GENE FULLMER

In nine title fights, Gene has lost more friends than Nikita Khrushchev and attracted $1,146,673 worth of live customers and an additional $1,025,000 in TV fees.

Started Early

Gene comes by both his fighting prowess and peacetime gentleness naturally. He was named after Gene Tunney, the former heavyweight champion. Gene's pop was a noted street fighter in West Jordan, who bore the nickname "Tuff" for obvious reasons. His mom, Mary, was a gentle soul and a pillar of the church.

At 12 Gene fibbed about his age and entered amateur competition, winning the Utah Golden Gloves title four times and Inter-Mountain AAU championships five times.

Fullmer turned professional in 1951, scoring 19 knockouts in winning his first 29 fights. He won the middleweight title for the first time in January, 1957, from Sugar Ray Robinson by decision. He was knocked out by Robinson in May of the same year.

Fullmer won back the National Boxing Association version of the title by stopping Carmen Basilio in 14 rounds in San Francisco. In subsequent bouts against Robinson, Fullmer had a draw and a decision victory.

An Elder in the Mormon Church, Gene Fullmer doesn't drink—not even tea or coffee—and he doesn't smoke.

But he certainly burns up the customers and smokes out ring opposition.

NL Draft Sets Stage For War

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—The drafting of players has been completed by both the National and American Football Leagues. Now comes the one which pays off—the bank draft.

The National Football League conducted its player procurement program Monday by grabbing 280 players in 20 rounds. Washington's winless Redskins got the No. 1 pick and chose halfback Ernie Davis of Syracuse, the Heisman Trophy winner.

The AFL held its draft Saturday. Both leagues, on the whole, had the same players in their early round selections, setting the stage for another spiral of bonuses and big money contracts.

Davis typified what is expected to be the bartering tempo between the two leagues. Previously drafted by Buffalo of the American League, Davis said: "I'll go where I can get the best deal, be happy and have a long future, supplemented by a good off-season job."

Also a factor in the bidding will be the Canadian Football League in its annual drive to get U.S. college stars. The NFL draft turned into a telephone marathon with each team trying to contact prospects to learn if they have signed elsewhere and if they will be available to play professional football

Commissioner Pete Rozelle put a limit of 15 minutes for each team to determine its selection. Even so, the first four rounds took up seven hours. The 20th and final round was completed after 14 hours about 1:30 a.m.

Next Two Choices

Los Angeles snatched the next two top choices after Washington had selected Davis. The Rams, by virtue of a previous swap of draft choices, selected quarterback Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State and then picked Merlin Olsen of Utah State in its own right.

Dallas was up next, but it had traded its rights to Cleveland and the Browns selected end Gary Collins of Maryland. When the time came for Cleveland to choose, the selection was halfback Leroy Jackson of Western Illinois.

This led to speculation that Washington might trade Davis—the first Negro player it ever had drafted—to Cleveland for Collins and halfback Bobby Mitchell, a proven NFL star who played college football at Illinois. Both clubs denied such a deal was in the works.

Pittsburgh made fullback Bob Ferguson of Ohio State its No. 1 choice, and the St. Louis Cardinals picked tackle Fate Echols of Northwestern and then added center Irvin Goode of Kentucky because of a previous trade of draft selections with Philadelphia.

The Chicago Bears went to fullback Ron Bull of Baylor; San Francisco chose Lance Alworth of Arkansas; Baltimore took halfback Wendell Harris of LSU; Detroit picked quarterback John Hadl of Kansas; New York's selection was end Jerry Hillebrand of Colorado; and Green Bay grabbed Earl Gros of LSU.

Andy Kerr Claims Wingback Offense Needs Reverse Play

NEW YORK (AP)—Andy Kerr, former guiding genius of Colgate football, says teams with the fashionable spread-formation offenses are overlooking the old wingback reverse, which brought him fame.

Kerr, 80, said, "this shotgun offense so popular today is nothing more than a spread version of the old double wing. It's not a short punt formation, a popular misconception.

"This attack is set for passing nine out of 10 plays. But the wingback reverse is being forgotten. It would be twice as effective because no one is expecting it, the defenses are spread and the ball carrier can get off a full step faster than in my days at Colgate."

Not Many Fumbles

He said the play, properly executed, "should produce a fumble not more than once in 100 tries. All the success I enjoyed was due to reverses off the double wing."

He continued:

"Football goes in cycles, of course. The defense has caught up with the straight T-formation with a man in motion and with the split-T. That's why the return to the spreads and double wings used when Sammy Baugh was with the Washington Redskins."

Kerr was in New York Monday to promote the East-West Shrine game at San Francisco Dec. 30.

His most famous team was his 1932 Red Raiders He labelled them "unbeaten, untied, unscored upon—and uninvited" when they were overlooked in bowl selections.

Early Introduction

Kerr said his introduction to football came at the age of 10.

"The first game I saw at Dickinson College in Pennsylvania," he said. "I saw the center for Dickinson dive under the pile trying to break up the flying wedge. I still consider it one of the greatest exhibitions of raw courage I've ever seen."

Kerr now is in his 35th year with the East-West game as an advisory coach for the East.

"I have the greatest coaching job in the world," he said.

"On the East team we have unlimited material, play only one game, are guaranteed a sellout every season—and there are no alumni."

Togetherness

LOS ANGELES (NEA)—Barron Hilton says American Football League owners are determined to stand together. The owner of the San Diego Chargers says the magnates will find other cities, should it become necessary, for the weaker members. He insists there will be no defections to the National Football League. Hilton believes that the New York Titans have only to mark time until they get into the new Flushing Meadows Municipal Stadium.

Mt. Marion Man Still Serious, Following Crash

A Mt. Marion man, injured when his automobile left Glasco Turnpike on Glenerie Hill early Saturday, pinning him under the vehicle for over four hours, was reported still in serious condition at Kingston Hospital today.

Kingston troopers said Wade Page, 28 of Mt. Marion suffered from multiple bruises and a possible fracture of the left leg.

Troopers John Salters and W. E. Wiedemann reported Page was proceeding down Glasco Turnpike toward Route 9W on Glenerie Hill when his car failed to negotiate a curve to the right, went through a guard rail and plunged down a 30-foot embankment. The car rolled over and lodged against some trees preventing it from falling into Esopus Creek at that point. Page was pinned under the car for over four hours before a passing motorist saw the overturned vehicle and came to the operator's rescue, troopers said.

Ex-Kingston Man Given Promotion At El Paso IBM

He is a veteran of World War II, having served three years in Stuttgart, Germany, with rank of staff sergeant. He is a graduate of Kingston High School, Class of June 1946, and holds a BBA Degree from the University of New Mexico.

No More Race Ban

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Florida Association of Colleges and Universities voted Monday to allow Negro institutions to apply for membership.

Dr. C. Doren Tharp, vice president of the University of Miami and president of the Florida group, said "all applications for membership will be received and acted upon regardless of race."

Unity Plans Move Ahead

NEW YORK (AP) — The United Church of Christ has agreed to join with the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., the Episcopal Church and the Methodist Church in exploratory talks looking toward eventual unity of the four denominations.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—As a last gesture of a full life, Leo Carrillo tossed a bouquet to his longtime love, California.

The result is on the bookstands now — "The California I Love" (Prentice-Hall, $7.50). While it tells little of the man Carrillo, it is a splendid view of a California that is fast disappearing among the tracts and freeways.

"The adobe is my birthstone," he writes, telling of his beginnings near the birthplace of Los Angeles itself—the Old Plaza. He carefully neglects reporting the year he was born. He was an actor who wanted to play the role of the dashing caballero even when he was pushing 80.

Carrillo had good reason for his pride in California. His great, great grandfather had made the trek from Mexico with Father Serra and Capt. Gaspar de Portola in 1769. The Carrillos couldn't have gotten here sooner unless they were Indians.

The first half of "The California I Love" is a fascinating remembrance of the sleepy pueblo of Los Angeles. The Angelenos had their fiestas and horse races to brighten the plesant monotony of the weather.

The book throws some light on the rather cloudy origin of the name Hollywood. Carrillo wrote that a real estate promoter named Wilcox was viewing some property he had marked for subdivision. He asked a Mexican boy the name of some hillside plants that were bright with red berries.

"In Spanish it is toyon, but in English it is holly—wood," said the boy, copying the Spanish custom of following a plant name with "madera," meaning wood.

Carrillo (he pronounced it cayreel-yo) treats his acting career rather briefly in the book. His introduction to show business seems casual, being an outgrowth of the dialect stories he heard in his youth.

He became a vaudeville headliner with his Chinese, Mexican, Italian and Japanese stories. In those days a comedian could use dialect in a warm-hearted way without being accused of ridiculing a mipority.

Carrillo was best known to this generation as Pancho of "Cisco Kid" but he had little love for the TV series.

Leo Carrillo left his testament and his mark. The Tournament of Roses parade on New Year's Day won't seem the same without him.

Reports Remains Not Earhart's

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —The fate of American aviatrix Amelia Earhart, last heard from as she winged across the Pacific with navigator Fred Noonan on July 2, 1937, remains shrouded by time and space.

Dr. Theodore McCown, a University of California anthropologist, said Monday seven pounds of bones and teeth dug up on Saipan were not those of Miss Earhart and Noonan.

He said X-ray and microscopic tests proved the bones and teeth were those of Orientals.

Ranchers Assail Grassland Plan

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Flint Hills grasslands of Kansas should be kept for Herefords instead of buffalo, belligerent ranchers told Secretary of the Interior Udall Monday.

The ranchers were indignant over a proposal that 57,000 acres northeast of Manhattan be converted into a prairie national park, where buffalo, deer and antelope could roam as in olden times.

About 125 persons crowded into the Pottawatomie County Courthouse at Westmoreland and gave Udall petitions signed by nearly 300 opposing the park.

Earlier, Carl Bellinger, 50, cattleman, ordered Udall off a pasture where the secretary and a 20-member inspection party landed in two Army helicopters.

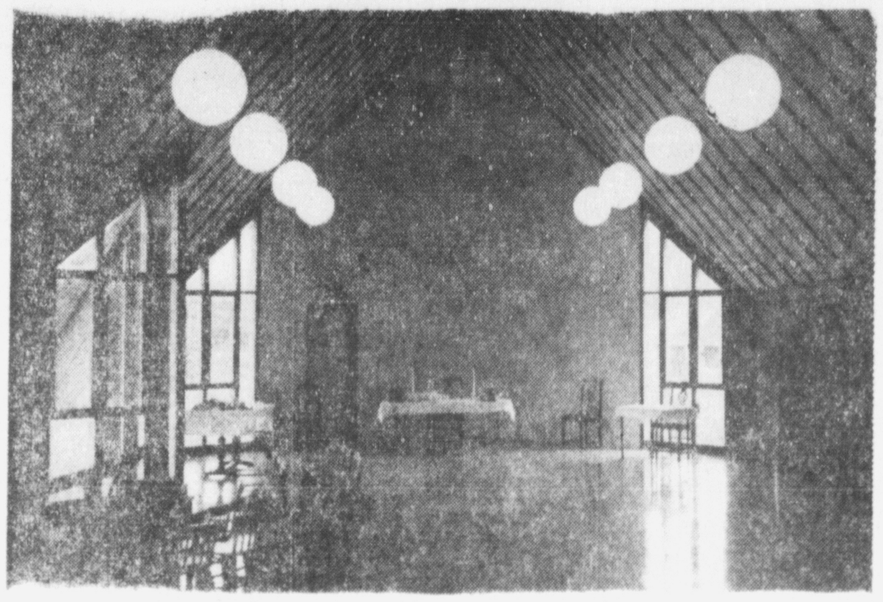

"The old cow is my business," Bellinger said, "and if this park goes in a lot of us here aren't going to have any business left."

Park officials say the prairie must be preserved so future generations may know what the frontier was like.

"What do they mean, preserved?" Bellinger asked a newsman. "This pasture is in a lot better shape than it was 40 years ago."

Udall expressed sympathy over disruption of the rancher's lives, but he predicted everyone would be better off in 10 years if the park is established.

Congress has to approve the project. Rep. William Avery, Republican, who represents this district, has introduced a bill to establish the park.

Jan. 10 Meeting Called

OAS to Consider Castro Sanctions

By BEN F. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign ministers of the American republics will meet next month to consider economic and political sanctions against the Communist government of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The Jan. 10 meeting, site to be designated, was called Monday by the Organization of American States. The OAS Council voted 14 to 2 for a Colombian resolution aimed straight at Cuba, although it didn't mention it by name.

Cites Defense Treaty

Citing the mutual defense treaty binding the 21 Western Hemisphere nations, Colombia asked a foreign ministers meeting to consider "threats to the peace and political independence of the American states that could arise from the intervention of extra-continental powers—"

Only Cuba and Mexico voted no. Mexico based its vote on juridicial grounds.

Cuba called the OAS action "an effort by the United States to gain accomplices for a new invasion of Cuba."

If the foreign ministers decide Castro's Cuba is a threat to peace in the Western Hemisphere, they can invoke sanctions similar to those levied against the Trujillo dictatorship in the Dominican Republic. They also can consider other courses of action.

Far-Reaching Action

Diplomatic circles said Monday's action was one of the most far-reaching ever taken by the OAS.

Last Saturday Castro in a television speech in Havana announced that he is a Marxist and that Cuba's government is in full accord with Communist ideas.

The position of the 14 countries supporting the anti-Castro proposal in the OAS presumably had been decided before the speech. But the Castro speech may have turned some "no" votes into abstentions. Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Ecuador previously had been understood to be considering negative votes. They joined Bolivia in abstaining.

Says U.S. View Builds Hatred Against Chinese

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —A concerted Asian-African attack on the U.S. attempt to bar Red China from the United Nations built up steam today as the General Assembly buckled down to a long, stormy debate on the Chinese seating issue.

Ceylon, one of 17 Asian-African nations which has diplomatic relations with Peiping, launched the drive Monday with one of the sharpest assaults ever made in the United Nations on Washington's China policy.

Ceylonese Ambassador G. P. Malalsekera charged that the United States was building up a "wall of hatred" between the American and Chinese people that could lead to World War III.

He assailed U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson's speech to the assembly urging the United Nations to keep the door closed to Red China.

"There are apparently not only two Chinas in American thinking but also two Stevensons," the Ceylonese declared. "There is the Stevenson of the brilliant premises, and alas, to my disappointment, the Stevenson of the same old conclusions."

Communist China, warned Malalsekera, will soon become a nuclear power.

"When that day comes," he said "the United States will be confronted by two mighty nuclear powers, and that two-front war which was America's nightmare in World War II will re-emerge as the double nuclear front of the future."

Delegates anticipated a lot more strong words against America's China policy from a parade of other Asian-African nations including India, which for 11 years has led the drive to seat Peiping in place of Nationalist China.

With 60 speakers still listed to take part, assembly consideration of the issue is expected to continue until Christmas, dashing any hopes that the assembly session will end before the New Year.

Fading Dialect Recorded

WARM SPRINGS, Ore (AP) —The Warm Springs Indian dialect, closely related to that of the Yakima, Walla Walla and other Western tribes, is being recorded on tape and a dictionary is being compiled. Delbert Frank, a Warm Springs Indian, is doing the work which he says is complicated by lack of a written language. He is using phonetics in compiling the dictionary. Frank says there are only a hundred words in common usage but some express a complete thought. He says only the old people use the language now.

5 Are Wounded In D.R. Violence

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Angry antigovernment crowds stood off a band of about 20 hoodlums Monday, thwarting an army-police attempt to whip up mob violence against the week-old general strike seeking to topple the regime of President Joaquin Balaguer.

The ragged ruffians, led by two uniformed policemen and an air force officer with a machine gun, were all that responded to army appeals to residents of Santo Domingo's slums to rise against the striking shopkeepers and loot their stores.

At least five persons were wounded by fragments from noise bombs hurled at the mobs. Another man was shot in the thigh and a shopkeeper was beaten by the toughs.

The armed forces had withdrawn all troops from riot duty in the capital and soldiers with loudspeakers toured the slum section inviting the populace to break into shuttered stores.

The small band which responded was met by a huge antigovernment crowd which battled the club-wielding terrorists with rocks and slingshots.

The riot troops moved back into the city in large numbers as the sundown curfew approached, and the mobs scattered. Late Monday night some explosions were heard in various parts of the city.

Federico Jose Oyarzun, Chilean delegate to the Organization of American States, arrived to try to mediate between Balaguer and opposition forces seeking to replace his regime by a provisional junta with no holdovers from the Trujillo dictatorship.

The Chilean government said both Balaguer and the opposition had asked for a mediator. Opposition sources said they had no advance notice of his mission.

Tree Trust Sees Major Project On Town Trees

A tree survey covering the more important public roads and highways of the township of Woodstock was undertaken this summer by the Woodstock Tree Trust, it is reported in Circular Letter No. 3 to the 44 contributors of the trust.

The Woodsock Tree Trust is a non-profit organization dedicated to the setting out and preservation of trees in areas of public interest in the township of Woodstock.

The management of the fund and the day-to-day operations of the trust are carried out by a Management Committee of seven citizens of the Town of Woodstock as follows: The town supervisor, two officers of the Woodstock Garden Club, two officers of the Woodstock Association for the Conservation and Improvement of the Township, Inc.; one officer of the Bank of Orange County and a citizen-at-large of Woodstock chosen yearly by the six other members of the committee.

Present membership of the Management Committee includes Miss Florence Hubbard and Mrs. Joseph K. Inness of the Garden Club; Alvin E. Moscowitz and J. C. van Rijn, for the Woodstock Association; Lamont W. Marvin, citizen-at-large, and Supervisor Abram F. Molyneaux, ex-officio.

"The legal aspects of planting, removing and caring for trees along public roads are intimately connected with the right-of-way status of any public road," the circular says. "It is therefore vital that the Woodstock Tree Trust, in its work, have a thorough knowledge of this subject. After consultation with Superintendent of Highways Albert Cashdollar and Supervisor Molyneaux, it was decided that the Tree Trust embark on a research project aimed at acquiring as much backgroung knowledge on this complex subject as could be obtained by a reasonable effort.

Work by Perlman

Daniel Perlman, a second year student at Bard College, was contracted to engage in this program as a summer project. He worked on it from the middle of June until early September. In addition, Perlman projected the maps necessary for making the tree survey and also worked as part of the surveying team.

The right of way of public roads is one of the most baffling and confusing items in town administration. The situation in Woodstock is no different, says the circular. The basic reason for this is that the keeping of detailed public records has not been one of the virtues of past generations and is still an item for which tax money is not easily made available. To untangle the present situation would be a costly affair and somehow the Tree Trust is scraping by.

In Woodstock, generally speaking, all public roads are owned either by the county or the town and the Tree Trust has compiled a fairly complete list of the deeds of lands conveyed to the county and the town. However, on-the-spot surveys will generally be required to determine the boundaries. The Tree Trust further has compiled an index of all references in the minutes of Town Board meetings on the laying out, dedicating and surveying of roads.

The work conducted during the summer by the Woodstock Tree Trust, including the research project by Perlman, necessitated many conferences and much correspondence. In all cases the aims of the Tree Trust were explained and always much admiration and good cooperation was secured. Some of the parties the Tree Trust worked with were the New York State Department of Public Works (several engineers in Poughkeepsie and Albany); the county highway department (several officers); the New York State Conservation Department (Albany and Middletown) town supervisor and superintendent, and the New York State College of Forestry. Thanks are also extended to Daniel Kleine and Al Evers for their cooperation.

Board Action Supports Move To Keep TV-3

Meeting in special session the Woodstock Town Board adopted a resolution opposing the removal of Channel 3 from Hartford, Conn.

The resolution pointed out that the town of Woodstock is located in a mountainous and heavily wooded area where UHF stations are poorly received in contrast to the very clear signal transmitted by Channel 3. In fact, some homes can only get Channel 3, the resolution said.

The replacement of Channel 3 with a UHF station would constitute a loss of adequate television viewing to Woodstock area residents, the resolution said. It also described the projected move as an unjust, discriminatory and would constitute a definite hardship to the people of Woodstock.

Meanwhile, it was announced by Lamont W. Marvin of Bearsville that more than 634 names have been signed on petitions circulated through the township. The Woodstock Democratic Club also adopted a resolution on opposing the change.

Those who worked on the petition included Mrs. C. R. Cross, Woodstock; Mrs. Malcolm Rose, Bearsville; Karl Cousins, Woodstock and Gordon Anderson; and Mrs. Marion Longyear. The petitions were circulated at Cousins Home Appliance, Woodstock News Shop, Bearsville Store, Rotron; also in Saugerties and West Hurley and in other places.

The town board also approved bills on the painting and heating contract at the Reynolds house. The meeting was adjourned in memory of the late John Majoros, who had served as playground director and chairman of the Woodstock Recreation Committee.

Salvation Army In Yule Appeal

Gordon P. Anderson, chairman of the Woodstock Salvation Army Service Unit Committee, announced that the Annual Christmas Appeal for funds for The Salvation Army is being placed in the mail this week.

The Salvation Army has always depended upon its friends for generous support at Christmas time for its work in the way of alleviating suffering in impoverished homes and visiting hospitals, nursing homes, penal institutions and many other places to bring a little cheer to those who reside there at the holiday season, taking fruits, candies, reading matter and other things to make their life a little brighter.

Contributions should be sent to Elbert C. Varney, care of the National Bank of Orange County, treasurer of the local fund. A part of the fund will be used by the local committee to help with the seasonal and emergency relief in the Woodstock area.

Health Group in Annual Session

The Woodstock Public Health Nursing Committee held its regular monthly meeting at the Health Center and heard annual reports by chairmen of the standing committees.

Jessie King gave the treasurer's report. Mary Busch reported on the Senior Citizens Club; Elizabeth DeWitt on the Joan closet and Elise Lester on the work submitted to the Cancer Clinic.

It was voted to send a contribution to the Christmas Committee for foster children and to replenish the loan closet with necessary perishable equipment and with two additional walker's and two additional bed rails for the hospital beds.

Preparations for initiating a Woodstock blood bank are getting off to a good start. Five representative residents of the town have offered their services to organize a field force that will canvas the town for donors. They are John Casey, Bruce Reynolds, Alex Sharpe, Dr. Kenneth Bremer and the Rev. Lloyd H. Uyeki. The Public Health Nursing Committee will attend to the files, the necessary equipment and the refreshments to be served to the blood donors.

The election of officers was held with the following results: president, Agnes Tomaselli; vice president, Elizabeth Dunn; secretary, Elise Lester; treasurer, Jessie King.

The next meeting will be a luncheon meeting at Deanie's on Wednesday, Dec. 13.

Christian Science Services Sunday

The comforting and assuring message of the Beatitudes (Matt. 5) will be featured at Christian Science services in Woodstock Sunday.

The Lesson-Sermon on the subject "God the Preserver of Man" will consist of Scriptural texts and correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

The Golden Text is from Numbers (6): "The Lord bless thee, and keep thee: the Lord make his face shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee: the Lord lift up his countenace upon thee, and give thee peace."

The concluding passage states: "Divine Love always has met and always will meet every human need. It is not well to imagine that Jesus demonstrated the divine power to heal only for a select number or for a limited period of time, since to all mankind and in every hour, divine Love supplies all good" (Science and Health p. 494).

December Exhibit Opens at Post Office

The December exhibition at the Woodstock Post Office opened Monday, December 4 and will continue through Saturday, December 30.

Mal Slonin selected the artists whose pictures present a pleasing variety in a nicely balanced show. Her "Canadian Rockies" is well supported by one of Albert Jacquez's landscapes "Thunderstorm and Hail over the Dead-End Valley", the other being: "14th July Evening."

An interesting contrast is supplied by Eugenie McEvoy's "Old Mill in Picardi" and Elfriede Borkmann's two abstractions, while still another note is struck by Gurdon Howe's "Driftscape."

Katherine Burgevin is represented by a "Skating Scene" and a "Pastoral Scene" and Edna Thurber by a large "Portrait of a Young Girl."

Town Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Addison P. Tice have sold their home located on Bakers Lane in Wittenberg to Knute Rockne coached the Notre Dame team to five perfect seasons.

Richard S. Kaplan of New York City. Kaplan is an attorney and he will use the place as a weekend and summer home. The sale was negotiated through the Frederick Dircks Real Estate Agency of Woodstock.

Mrs. Charles J. (Lisa) Tiano is recuperating at her Ohayo Mountain residence after a stay at the Kingston Hospital.

Strike in 35th Day

Union Vetoes Final Rochester Bus Bid

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The state's third largest city today prepared to make the best of a Christmas shopping season without public transportation after union rejection of an offer aimed at ending a 35-day-old bus strike.

Striking drivers and mechanics of the Rochester Transit Co., in a 471-5 vote Monday, turned down what the company described as its final contract offer. The union and the company both issued sharply-worded statements after the voting was announced.

Accord Long Way Off

"It appears now that it may be a long time before Rochester has bus transportation," said Mayor Peter Barry. "I am very disappointed."

Terms of the offer were not announced, but it was reported that the drivers and mechanics were offered a 15-cent wage increase over two years and added fringe benefits.

The union, Local 282 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employes, had asked a 19-cent raise and broader fringe benefits.

The union said the new contract offer would have taken away benefits it had under the old contract, which expired Oct. 31, the day before the strike began. Drivers got $2.31 an hour and mechanics $2.09-$2.46 under the old contract.

It was not known when talks would be resumed. The company said it saw "no further use of trying to negotiate," but a union spokesman said the union was "ready, willing and able" to return to the bargaining table.

State mediator Milton Goldberg said he would try to set up a new round of negotiations.

Will Drop Offer

The bus company's offer was based on a $300,000 economic aid package offered it by the City Council, provided the strike was settled by today. The financial aid included a payment of an additional five cents to the company for each 10-cent student fare it collected, plus various forms of tax relief.

But the city said Monday night it intends to stick to its deadline of today, apparently meaning that the offer will be dropped.

Shelter, Parking Are on Agenda of Council Tonight

A fallout shelter in downtown Kingston and off street parking for the uptown area may be on the agenda for tonight's meeting of the Common Council at City Hall.

At the Council meeting on Nov. 21, action on the offstreet parking plan was deferred.

Alderman Donald M. Hastings (D-Third Ward) chairman of a special committee of the Council, indicated at the November session that a request for money to cover costs of equipping downtown caves for use as fallout shelter, may be brought up at tonight's meeting for discussion.

Hastings indicated that as plans have progressed the caves could be equipped at a cost of $10 a person and the shelter could be operational by February, if city workers, not usually employed at this time of the year, are put to work.
